Sarajevo – Groups of Croats made death threats and in other ways menaced the Serbs who live in the villages around Drvar, Liam McDowell, UN Spokesman told the press today. Croatian policemen are joining the bands who terrorise peasants, AFP carries witnesses' statements to UN monitors. The UN policemen began to return to Drvar, the town from which they were expelled on Friday, McDowell added. The Croatian officials from BiH are responsible for the return of the Serb refugees to their homes, and they have to exercise all their influence on the local Croat authorities so that such incidents are not repeated, Klaus Kinkel, German Foreign Minister stated and AFP informed.
