Acceptance of IDs will provide security for the returnees and help them to return. However, they also expect from Farrand to provide ground for establishment of multi-ethnicity in the town especially after the local elections; to speed up the return and reconstruction of houses in the ZOS; to provide freedom of movement to all returnees; to ban process of privatisation until a final decision on Brcko is made; to establish a border and customs with Croatia, and to undertake certain measures with regard to Brcko harbour.

They think that apart from issues of mutual trade and relations, the issue of returning this town to its motherland is even more important. 'We are all familiar with the fact that Neum was mainly constructed by BiH companies from Zenica and Tuzla as well as from the pensioner's fund, and now it is a town without its constructors.' As long as the town is not returned it will be closed and taken away by those who are the least responsible for it.
