Sarajevo – The September elections were a dominant topic at a press conference in Sarajevo. Both foreign and local correspondents reacted fervently to OSCE Spokesman David Foley statement that " DPs will be able to vote in municipalities where they resided in 1991, but they will not be able to visit their homes " . Foley also explained that all BiH citizens would be in position to choose where to vote. However, he failed to reply to a question who would be responsible for the implementation of election results, i.e. to ensure that the elected candidates would assume office. (comment: actually Foley did answer this question saying that a post election implementation commission would be established).

Spokesman for the OHR Colum Murphy stated that the Donors conference on BiH would not be held until progress was achieved with respect to the Quick Start Package. Murphy reiterated that the arrest of war criminals and their extradition to the Hague Tribunal had to be carried out as soon as possible.

New York – HR Carl Bildt submitted a report on BiH before the UN Security Council. The media covered it extensively, underlining that Bildt maintained the DPA was being implemented, but slowly. According to correspondent's report, he was not specific about which sides violated the agreement and to what degree. " A new war, an open secret secession or domination of a majority nation are the three dangerous aspects of political environment in BiH which have to be avoided", the high Representative pointed out. To a question why the RS was rewarded for non-compliance with the DPA, he replied that there are two kinds of conditioning: negative and positive. The time had come to allot some funds to the RS to create conditions for the return of refugees.

On this day two years ago, the Croatian army started the military offensive 'Blijesak' and attacked Western Slavonia. The Croats killed more than 1500 civilians and expelled several thousands of them before the eyes of the entire world. The Croatian army continued the process of ethnic cleansing of this Serb region, which had started in 1991. On that occasion, several thousand Serbs gathered on the Gradiska bridge, throwing wreaths and flowers into the Sava river and paying tribute to victims of the liberation war. The UN representatives also attended the ceremony by cruising the area in a helicopter, looking like an ominous black bird.

Brcko - Instead of opening of a bus line from Brcko to the Federation and back, two buses with Muslims from various parts of the Federation, headed by SDP party leadership, drove to Brcko today to visit none other than Supervisor Farrand. Zlatko Lagumdžija and his followers tried to impress the Brcko Supervisor by wearing red carnations, symbols of May Day. However, Farrand was indifferent towards red carnations, so he reminded the visitors that the returnees have an obligation to accept RS laws. 'On a larger scale, I would like to say that all of you should take your time to read those procedures (of return) yourselves,' Farrand said. It seemed that this reply ruined their day, because they left Brcko rather depressed.
