

High Representative Meets Serbian PM Dacic

“Serbia has an important role to play in promoting stability in the Balkans,” Valentin Inzko said today.

Speaking during a meeting with Serbian Prime Minister Ivica Dacic in Sarajevo, the High Representative emphasised that Serbia “has been clear about the territorial integrity of BiH and should continue to work with the rest of the International Community to support the Dayton agreement.”

Encouraging increased State to State relations in the region, the High Representative welcomed the fact that that Serbia has taken significant steps in recent years to promote reconciliation and strengthen good relations and encouraged Serbia to continue on this path.
