Schwarz-Schilling stated that after the elections in 2006, it will be seen if there is a need for HR anymore. He stated that he will not restrain from using the Bonn powers if necessary. Late News Update – By Elvir Bucalo – BHT 1 broadcasted the entire interview with next HR in BIH Christian Schwarz-Schilling. In the second part of the interview, Schwarz-Schilling stated that role of HR should be more advisory hoping for the better progress of BIH. He stated that the atmosphere within the OHR must be changed. “OHR should be as an advisor to BIH and not to impose decisions. We have to help but they have to negotiate” added Schwarz-Schilling. Commenting the Constitutional reforms in IH, Schwarz-Schilling praised the US initiative on Constitutional changes adding that everything must be done in the frame of Dayton Peace Agreement. He added that the biggest problem in BIH is the issue of war crime indictees Radovan Karadzic and Ratko Mladic.
BHT: Political analyst Kolar disappointed with Schwarz-Schilling’s statements re constitutional changes	BHT Late News – By Suzana Stambol – The political analyst Ramo Kolar stated that he was disappointed with the announcements of new HR to BIH Christian Schwarz-Schilling especially regarding the issue of Constitutional changes. “If they make Constitutional changes within DPA framework than nothing will change. There is no progress made since Donald Hays came out with a proposal to do the reforms,” explained Kolar. He noted that all IC representatives repeatedly mention DPA as the peacemaker but they do not mention that it hasn’t created the normal state.

Dnevni Avaz interview with Schwarz-Schilling: Economy will be my most important priority	Dnevni Avaz cover pg splash 'Economy will be my most important priority' and pg 5 'Bonn powers are the last instrument I will use' by Sead Numanovic – Newly appointed High Representative to BiH Christian Schwarz-Schilling has stated economy will be the most important priority in his work, followed by BiH institutions and their functionality and transfer of competences from OHR onto EUSR. He added this would influence the use of Bonn powers, which he would be using as the last available instrument. He noted he would work on reinstating trust in elected authorities among BiH citizens and added OHR would monitor and aid in the process of negotiations on SAA talks. With regard to Bonn powers, Schwarz-Schilling stated these powers will be used in a different manner next year and added these powers would be abolished with the end of OHR mandate – in 2007. He stressed he is very interested in the implementation of the ongoing reforms and added this issue would be of a special importance during his mandate, as well as the issue of efficiency and cost of authorities. He noted that the authorities should serve citizens instead to be a shield for certain ethnic groups and elite. Regarding the cooperation with the Hague Tribunal, Schwarz-Schilling stated this issue is one of key issues and added this process would be monitored closely. Schwarz-Schilling also said it still had not been decided how long would his mandate last, adding that this depends on the capability of BiH authorities to implement reforms, but also depends on the moment when EUSR would replace OHR. Inset 'I do not sleep during meetings' – Schwarz-Schilling stated some people have thought he was sleeping during meetings and said this was not true explaining that closing his eyes merely helps him focus on the issue and listen carefully. Inset 'I am honored with reactions from BiH' – he expressed he was greatly honored with reactions in BiH following his appointment.
Schwarz-Schilling for Die Presse: BiH needs constitutional reform	RHB, Hayat, FTV, RTRS, Oslobodjenje pg 4 'One should review all institutions of the old (former) system', Vecernji List, pg 5, mentioned on front 'Schilling: I plan to remove disobedient politicians', not signed, Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 24 'Complicated state', by F. Dnevni List pg 9 'Schilling would not shrink from removing of disobedient ones', Nezavisne Novine pg 2 'Schwarz Schilling will not stop at removing those disobedient' by BETA, FENA – The newly appointed High Representative to BiH, Christian Schwarz-Schilling told the Vienna journal "Die Presse" that the constitutional reform in BiH is absolutely necessary because the Dayton Accords "created a very complicated state". "This is a country with 180 ministers ... this is why changes are more than necessary", said Schwarz-Schilling, adding that he is grateful to the Americans for launching the debate on this subject. He added that BiH needs "evolution" towards the future, and this means that it is necessary to "go through all institutions of the old system". "However, it is necessary for all Bosnian parties to reach an agreement on the changes", stressed the new High Representative, who will replace Paddy Ashdown on this duty on January 31. Nevertheless, he warned that history cannot be changed just like that, which led the journalist of "Die Presse" to the conclusion that BiH will still be a "state of ethnic groups, and not a state of citizens". "Do not be such a pessimist", responded Schwarz-Schilling, stressing that "all state institutions must adjust to the new circumstances so that they could be compatible with the European perspective". "This means that the Entities, Federation BiH and Republika Srpska, must adjust to the contemporary administrative practice", explained Schwarz-Schilling. Anyhow, he added, "my first priority will be economic development, because when people do not have anything to eat, then there is no point in talking about other things". "In BiH there are people who are still living under tents, there is something very wrong here. The stories on democratic

Christian Schwarz Schilling' statement to Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung	EuroBlic RSpG 2 'Schwarz Schilling: BiH is a stable state' by SRNA-AFP, Glas Srpske pg 5 'To strengthen rule of law' by SRNA – Future High Representative Christian Schwarz-Schilling told German daily "Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung" Thursday that BiH needs to become a "normal European state", noting: "Furthermore, people need to regain confidence in the international community and their state institutions. This is a difficult process because physical destruction in that country has led to this in the minds of people. Economic development needs to be treated as priority; otherwise even the best political reforms will have no purpose. This means reduction of bureaucracy which poisons the activities of companies even before they invest." He also noted that HR can act as an advisor, but cannot define reforms, since this is a job for the local politicians because the EU negotiates with them.
Vecernje Novosti: excerpts from a CSS interview	Vecernje Novosti pg 4 'To preserve Bosnia and then to Europe' by Goran Cvorovic – Daily carries extracts from an interview the new HR to BiH, Christian Schwarz Schilling gave (without providing information whether it was given to this daily or it was taken from some other interview). German media of appointment of Schwarz-Schilling	Oslobodjenje, pgs 4-5 'Experienced peacemaker of quarreled BiH peoples', by Mile Lasic – According to the daily's reporter from Germany, the German media routinely commented the news about the appointment of Dr. Christian Schwarz-Schilling for the office of High Representative for BiH. The electronic media, including the ARD, used the opportunity to address the issue of 10th anniversary of the DPA, saying that "the Bosniaks, Serbs and Croats do not wage war against each other any more, however they do not live with each other, but rather one by others". One of leading German dailies, the 'Suddeutsche Zeitung' from Munich, wrote that Schwarz-Schilling's experience of a peacemaker between the three peoples would be of good use to him, arguing that he will be having tough times in persuading the three peoples to leading BiH to sovereignty.
Oslobodjenje op-ed: Schwarz-Schilling will have hard time in BiH	Oslobodjenje, pg 9 'Schwarz-Schilling', by Zija Dizdarevic – carries an op-ed in which the author, whilst commenting on the appointment of Dr. Christian Schwarz-Schilling for the office of High Representative for BiH, says there are efforts to have the OHR shut down as soon as possible, something that could help BiH mature and join the Euro-Atlantic integration, which will be a tough task. Commenting on Schwarz-Schilling's announcement that one of his priorities will be strengthening of economy, Dizdarevic writes it is about a political issue since there is not even a single market in BiH since many BiH politicians are part of lobbies that work against interests of BiH. Moreover, Dizdarevic comments that many politicians hoped that the new HR would not resort to repressive measures, to which Schwarz-Schilling replied that he would use the Bonn powers against obstructionists. As a conclusion, the author says the new HR is in for grapple with the RS, which still shows resistance towards BiH as a state, and with national oligarchies, which will continue defending their monopolies.

SB also notes that the media have already hinted that the founder and director of European Stability Initiative and Schwarz-Schilling's former advisor, Gerald Knaus, will be the new HR's 'right hand man'. Dani pg 9 also carries in its section 'Word in focus' the information about Schwartz-Schilling's appointment to the HR's position in BiH. Dani says: 'Unlike Paddy Ashdown, who is totally confused, Schilling is considered to be a systematic person, well familiar with the situation in BiH.'

"Police reform is essential in the fight against organized crime and terrorism and PIC will monitor progress in police reform very closely," said Radetic on another issue that the PIC directors addressed. They also expressed concern about the lack of frequency with which the Council of Ministers meets, noting that the Council of ministers has only met five times in the past three months, and has adopted only four laws. Nezavisne Novine pg 3 'Karadzic and Mladic must be arrested', EuroBlic RSpG 2 'Concerned over Terzic' Government' by N.B. also covered the issue.

I have reminded Serbian and Kosovo officials that France does not have an opinion on the results of the negotiations in advance and that they have to give their contribution during the negotiations in a constructive way. Naturally there are limits of possible results of the negotiations...In any case the future status of Kosovo will not influence BiH.' Dani pgs 46-48 'Independence will not resolve a single problem in Kosovo' by E. Suljagic carries an interview with Director of the European Stability Initiative Gerald Knaus, who, among the other things, says: 'It would be good for BiH that the issue of the Kosovo status was resolved in a peaceful manner and through a compromise and this would be good for the whole region and EU. However, failure to reach the compromise on Kosovo would, most probably, bring to serious tensions and political instability in Serbia and this might even cause growing differences in the interests of Belgrade on one side and interests of Banja Luka on the other side...Finally the international resoluteness not to allow connecting of Kosovo and BiH is total and complete.'

Although it had been earlier announced he would leave for Brussels, SDA Leader Sulejman Tihic attended the meeting, reiterating his stance that he is against cosmetic changes of the constitution but ready for the compromise. PDP Leader Mladen Ivanic reiterated that discussion on entities is not an option. HDZ Leader Dragan Covic repeated that his party is for modern, well organised, country and for the equality of all three peoples. SNSD Leader Milorad Dodik stated that he is ready to support the election of a President in the parliament with two vice-presidents that will rotate every 16 months. SDP Leader Zlatko Lagumdžija shortly stated that his party's goals are the same "modern and normal state where people can live from their work, but with these bandits as our leaders, this is not possible". D. Covic dissatisfied with const. changes talks held on Thursday	Vecernji List pg 4 'Proposal is BiH organized in 4 regions' by Z. Kresic carries that HDZ and HNZ representatives demanded at the meeting on constitutional changes held in Sarajevo on Thursday opening of the discussion on passing a new Constitution and re-organization of BiH and in this way they conditioned their participation in continuation of the talks on this issue. HDZ President Dragan Covic said that the discussion on the middle authority level should be finally opened. He added: 'There is no need to talk about the constitutional changes at all if we want to make corrections in the BiH Presidency, BiH Com, Parliament since we have not made any changes in the Constitution during the defence reform etc.' Covic qualified as 'fatal' the option to indirectly ratify the Dayton through constitutional amendments and thus close this issue for further talks for good.

SD's comment on constitutional changes talks: Lozancic and Lagumdžija cooperative beyond any expectations	Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 19, mentioned on front 'Hays offers, Lozancic and Lagumdžija accept!', by Zlatko Tulic – SD learns from sources close to international circles in Sarajevo that, when it comes to the ongoing constitutional reforms talks, it is the SDP leader, Zlatko Lagumdžija, and Vice President of HDZ, Niko Lozancic, who are accepting all proposals that Donald Hays is presenting to the parties in BiH, something that even surprised Hays, who is allegedly surprised with lack of vision on the part of Croat negotiators. Speculating about reasons why the two accept all US' proposals, SD reckons that Lagumdžija is using the negotiations to win the 2006 elections with the help of the IC, and the best way is to be cooperative during the said talks, whilst Lozancic is behaving the way he is because of the difficult position his part leader, Dragan Covic, is in, who is being tried by the BiH Court and who was recently warned by the president of the European People's Party, Wilfried Martens.
US Burns: Now is the time to achieve true safety and real reconciliation	Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'Now is the time to achieve true safety and real reconciliation' announced on cover 'Specific steps will follow words spoken in Washington' by Nicholas Burns, US Undersecretary for Political Issues – Nicholas Burns refers to DPA, its advantages (return, reconstruction and establishing of what seems to be a normal situation) and its disadvantages saying that inefficient authority structure and ethnic divisions DPA had brought were insufficient to reply to challenges a modern state in 21st century has to face. He reminds BiH politicians had, during their recent visit to Washington, obliged to accept more ambitious vision of future and launch constitutional changes. Burns says USA supports this process and reforms that would give BiH citizens more efficient authorities. He notes BiH has already made many achievements – it created state law enforcement institutions, judiciary, customs and tax structures and it also developed closer relations with EU. He says ten years of peace is behind us and now is the time to achieve real security and true reconciliation in the Balkans. Inset 'Wounds of past will not heal until Karadzic and Mladic are arrested' – Burns said until Karadzic and Mladic are brought before the face of justice before ICTY, wounds of past will not heal and BiH and SiCG will not be allowed to establish new relations with NATO. Nezavisne Novine pg 7, announced on cover 'BiH to face hard reforms' by Nicholas Burns also carried the article.
