| Bukejlovic: Gotovina arrest to accelerate arrest of other ICTY suspects; Jovic: Del Ponte should be ashamed for saying he hid in monasteries | BHT 1 by Boris Grubescic- Arrest of Ante Gotovina provoked many reactions in BiH. RS authorities stated that arrestment of Gotovina should accelerate arrestment of other ICTY fugitives. RS Prime Minister Pero Bukejlovic stated: "But in any case this is giving certain signals that, on these territories of BiH and SCG, it is essential to be more efficient, when it comes to detaining of war crimes indictees". Chairman of BiH Presidency Ivo Miro Jovic sees this arrestment as clear counterargument to all those who have disputed the Croatian association with the EU, claiming that Gotovina hides in Croatia. "Will Mrs. Del Ponte be even a little ashamed, after her semi-annual reports and causing of huge damages to Catholic Church that Gotovina is hiding in monasteries," said Jovic. Paddy Ashdown stated that arrestment of Gotovina will increase pressure on Banja Luka and Belgrade to arrest Ratko Mladic and Radovan Karadzic. Associations of Serb refugees from Croatia believe that the arrest would contribute to revealing of the truth about military action "Storm", while representatives of Croat people in BiH stressed that this proves that Gotovina wasn't hiding in Catholic Monasteries in Croatia and Herzegovina. | DL op-ed on Gotovina arrest: People from Croatia and Herzegovina in grief: ICTY does not serve justice | Dnevni List , pg 2 'Gotovina - a scapegoat', by Arijana Beus - Mostar-based Dnevni List comments on the arrest of general Gotovina saying that unlike politicians from Croatia, who dare not say much, many associations, defenders and citizens from Croatia and Herzegovina are in grief because of the arrest. Beus notes that Gotovina's destiny is good as sealed, and that possible convicting sentence to him would also convict whole of Croatia. The author concludes that very few people saw justice coming from the ICTY, as recently demonstrated by the acquitting verdict to Sefer Halilovic , which disregarded the number of Croat victims from Uzdol and Grabovica. Vecernji List , pg 5 'Gotovina's sacrifice for Croatia', op-ed by Milan Ivkovic - mildly negative comment on Gotovina arrest. |

Malagic - At the meeting with the representative of the US Institute for Peace Donald Hays held on Thursday in Sarajevo, the representatives of the FBiH parties harmonized their stances on constitutional changes, i.e. on possible changes to the BiH Presidency and BiH Hosue of Peoples. Hays stated that today he is to continue talks with SDS, PDP and SNSD in Banja Luka. He added that the meeting with FBiH parties was a continue of Wednesday's talks just to ensure " we have understood their stances and views ". Hays added: " I think that now we have clear picture... Number of options is must larger. I hope that the talks in Banja Luka will be productive as these. " Meeting was attended by SDP and HZ leaders, Zlatko Lagumdzija and Milenko Brkic respectively, and Beriz Belkic on behalf of SBiH. HDZ said that nobody has arrived to Sarajevo for justifiable reason, while SDA earlier announced it would not send its representative. Also, the HoP should only deal with the issue of vital national interest. " Lagumdzija explains the proposals on the const. changes: " We have got options for several ways to elect the HoP members. One is the direct election, whereas entire BiH is regarded as electoral unit, which is acceptable. Second way is for the members to be elected to the HoR and third manner stipulates two phases in which delegates are nominated from cantons and entities, and HoR further votes on the list. " Hays also met with representatives of a number of embassies, especially of countries that are members of the Peace Implementation Council Steering Board. | VL: Lozancic not happy with Hays separately meeting parties from RS and FBiH | Vecernji List, pg 10 'Constitutional changes strengthening entities', by Zoran Kresic - Notes that the FBiH President, Niko Lozancic, who met with Donald Hays on behalf of the HDZ, complained to Hays about the way he organized his visit to BiH because Hays decided to separately meet parties from the RS and FBiH. Lozancic stresses it brings into question the future participation of Croat parties in the talks because mentioning of entities at meetings at Brussels and Washington was being avoided because the HDZ demanded it. Inset 'Fulfilling of Serbs' expectations' notes that Hays presented a concept (of constitutional changes) that would suit the Serb side, which would in reality strengthen the entities and weaken the state. |
| HDZ's Relota: this is just a continuation of Brussels and Washinton talks | EuroBlic pg RS3 'It is difficult to reach a compromise with stubborn Tihic' by Nedeljka Breberina - HDZ Spokesperson Miso Relota confirmed Donald Hays met representatives of this party and added this was just a continuation of Brussels and Washington talks and it was unrealistic to expect there would be any specific solutions in this round of talks. |
| Hays to meet SDS , PDP and SNSD representatives in Banja Luka ; Dodik, Ivanic to attend meeting, | EuroBlic pg RS3 'It is difficult to reach a compromise with stubborn Tihic' by Nedeljka Breberina - Donald Hays, would hold a meeting with representatives of SDS, PDP and SNSD in Banja Luka today. PDP's Mladen Ivanic confirmed he would attend the meeting, said he does not expect spectacular results and noted it is important that it is especially important that the constitutional changes are conducted without interference of the IC. Nezavisne Novine pg 4 'International community should not interfere in constitutional changes' by Agencies, Glas Srpske pg 3 'Changes without interference' by Srna - carry Ivanic's statement. Nezavisne Novine pg 4 'Parties from F BiH plead for abolishment of the Presidency' by M. Cubro - report on mtg held in Sarajevo and announces Banja Luka meeting. |
| OBN/ VL interview with McElhaney: current constitutional talks are just beginning of process | Vecernji List, pg 12 'Current talks are just beginning of constitutional changes', by Dejan Jazvic - Carries an interview with the US Ambassador to BiH, Douglas McElhaney, in which he talks about the constitutional changes in BiH. His ultimate message is that the current talks are just a beginning of a long process in which the US Government has a stronger role (than before). According to McElhaney's understanding of the Washington talks, the result when it comes to the BiH Presidency, is that BiH should be getting a Presidency with one President. OBN 'Telering' current affairs program by Mato Djakovic - In an interview to OBN, McElhaney reiterated BiH must have "more effective and coherent Presidency, Council of Ministers or Government or whatever you want to call it, with Prime Minister who would have a little more powers so that he or she could bring the people and their stands together, Parliament which would not repeat its activities, so that House of Peoples would no do exactly the same as the House of Representatives, clear list of human rights for individuals, and finally... how you develop some other institutions on the state level that would be needed for the negotiations on all those important things with the European Union, World Trade Organization and other bodies". |

SD underlines statement by SDP's Zlatko Lagumdzija who doubted that the parties would reach an agreement by end of March next year. |
| Feral Tribune: Requests for abolishment of RS are unrealistic, especially when view from regional context | Feral Tribune, pgs 22-23 'Pristina on Vrbas', by Ivan Lovrenovic - commenting on the process of constitutional changes, Lovrenovic argues that the American 'guarantees' of the survival of the RS have a pragmatic goal - to facilitate reaching of an agreement in Serbia regarding the future status of Kosovo. The author notices that the SNSD leader, Milorad Dodik, used the situation to release a test balloon by warning in an interview to Reuters that "Serbs could be asking for independence unless this position of the RS is endangered, using the same argument like Albanians from Kosovo, who advocate independence from Serbia based on the right to self-determination". Lovrenovic's conclusion says that when viewed in the general, regional context, the Bosniak and Croat requests for abolishment of the RS are for sure unrealistic. |

This is why we must not provide them with any false illusions”, Rehn told the conference dedicated to the future of the Balkans, organized by the Institute “Friends of Europe” in Brussels. | DA, NN says SNSD to decided on participation in RS Govt on Monday; Blic: SNSD does not want to form a coalition with those who on power in RS; Politicians' comments | Dnevni Avaz pg 9 'SNSD is thinking about vote of no confidence to Bukejlovic's Government' by N. Diklic – SNSD President Milorad Dodik stated that members of the SNSD Executive Board would decide on Monday whether PDP members would demand voting of no-confidence to the RS Government and RS Prime Minister Pero Bukejlovic. He stressed that the privatization audit in the RS is the only pre-requisite that he sets for taking over the RS Government. Dodik added that members of the Executive Board would also discuss initiative of DNS's Drago Kalebic about vote of no confidence to the RS executive authority. DA inset 'Law on privatization audit is being prepared' carries Bukejlovic as saying that for the next year he plans to draft Law on Privatization audit and he added: 'I am aware that I would be faced with opposition to this initiative of the RSNA and some groups however I am determined to cope with these problems.' Nezavisne Novine pg 6 'Decision of SNSD on Monday' by V. Popovic – similar to DA report, but EuroBlic pg RS2, announced on cover 'Agreement between Cavic and Dodik is crucial' by Rajna Radosavljevic published contradictory information that Dodik stated the party does not want to form a coalition with those who were on power in RS until now because RS needs thorough changes. 'If SDS and other parties share this view, let them support our concept and we will overtake the executive authorities', Dodik was quoted. PDP's Mladen Ivanic claims forming of a coalition between SDS and SNSD is not a realistic option, although this coalition would be reasonably stable. SPRS's Petar Djokic thinks the issue of current RS Government would not be resolved by the end of this year, despite to the fact it would be suitable for SDS to transfer the burden of the authorities onto some other party. DNS's Drago Kalabic claims anything is possible on RS political scene, while SDA's Tarik Sadovic says if RS wishes to save the authorities, then the coalition between SDS and SNSD is the only realistic option.
