Solana attends EUFOR handover ceremony: It is up to BiH to prove it needs to be a part of Europe ; Karadzic and Mladic are everyone's responsibility	PINK by Aida Doric – EU High Representative for Foreign and Security Policy Javier Solana arrived in Sarajevo, where he attended the EFURO handover ceremony and met with the HR Paddy Ashdown. Solana told the press conference that BiH must continue fulfilling the EU conditions, especially cooperation with The Hague Tribunal. The official beginning of SAA talks with EU is the first step BiH made on the path of European integration, but BiH authorities and civil society must have the leading role in that process, stated Solana. “BiH needs to continue efforts to complete talks on SAA, and to finalize certain Dayton-related issues – and the most important issue is the full cooperation with the ICTY”, stressed Solana. This cooperation is necessary if BiH wants to get rid of the ghosts from the past, he added. “The status of BiH is very well defined by the Dayton Agreement, but when we think of the European Union it is very clear that the restrictions created by this agreement are very complicated, and it is very difficult to run the country complicated as BiH is”, concluded Solana, adding that the complicated state structure is not good for BiH citizens. In a statement to daily, Knauss stresses that one of major priorities of the future HR to BiH is to ensure further engagement of the USA in BiH, adding: "I do not expect Americans would force Bosnian politicians to adopt constitutional reforms, but the good point is that they are again concentrating on BiH. As for creation of international pressure for the sake of change of Constitution, that epoch has gone." He is of the view Bosnian politicians and intellectuals must prove that multi-ethnicity and democracy in BiH can be related, He hopes that on the eve of the forthcoming elections in BiH in 2006, the opposition would have a strong campaign and provide concrete solutions to problems,. On the other side, SDS official Stanko Pivasevic underlined the PDP is entitled to become opposition, but called the party immoral and contradictory having refused to resign from ministerial positions, thus becoming its own opposition. He added: "At times when issue of police reform must be solved, when issue of const. changes is pending, PDP has created a political crisis in RS which is highly immoral." Pivasevic confirmed discussion on police reform has been postponed for time being upon a request by the RS President Dragan Cavic. Poljasevic denied PDP brought decision to become opposition to win votes at upcoming elections. SDS Pivasevic commented: "I just say that someone needs the political crisis in RS before the talks on const. changes." He argued that opposition should vote no confidence to the current Govt, form a new one and take over responsibility for the RS destiny. "PDP, SNSD and other oppositional parties have enough votes to dismiss the Govt. Otherwise, the Govt will remain at power but as technical government... We expect the opposition to reject any proposal we come up with," concluded Pivasevic. Reporter further reminds of the DNS expectations for PDP to launch no-confidence vote in Government, which Ivanic rejected by saying "it should be organised by a politically strong party that will be able to form a new government" [referring to SNSD]. Milorad Dodik also rejected possibility of his party to launch this initiative, but said SNSD would not support RS Govt's proposals: "We are aware that OHR has stated that RS Govt needs to adopt these laws but SNSD will not vote on them regardless of the pressures. We do not want to protect 11 racketeers." In a statement to RTRS, SDA's Tarik Sadovic commented in situation in which neither SDS can form RSNA majority nor SNSD can launch no-confidence vote without support of PDP, the solution would be for SDS and SNSD to form a union. Poljasevic expressed belief the situation would be solved as "SDS would come to senses and dismiss the Government". Reporter concluded that neither of the sides has a vision, thinks only of following day, leaves citizens with a technical government and of not wanting to make the first move.

Guests listed a number of benefits the process would bring to BiH citizens, which include, as SDHR Ney elaborated, no visa regime, peace, stability and security, better living standards, increase of foreign investments strengthened role of law, etc. Ambassador Rycroft added this would not happen overnight, but over the longer period of time. Talking of the progress in BiH, Rycroft noted the RS Government is obstructing it. He adds the current constitution caused weak central structure and strong entities, whereas state level structures need to be strengthened. He reiterates this does not mean an end to the entities. In terms of the IC role, Repovac says Directive wants to exclude the OHR from the process of joining the EU as much as possible, since it is illogical for a foreign body to impose certain laws BiH needed on its path to Europe. Ney agreed the in this process it is not IC but the domestic forces who are important. Rycroft noted the IC would gradually decrease its role, simultaneously increasing responsibility of BiH leaders adding it would not be easy. Davidovic says that constitutional changes are not going to have huge impact on the SAA talks, since the EU has a clear stance regarding the issue.

DL: RS reps hushing up meeting with Hays?	Dnevni List , pg 2 'Serbs hushing up meeting with Hays?!', by Ivana Rozic - DL comments on announcements that Donald Hays was going to be meet representatives of political parties on Tuesday, however DL learned from the SDS that such meeting did not take place. However, DL reckons it is hard to believe that the Serb representatives would not appear at a meeting with Hays and the author sees the reason for such behaviour of the RS politicians in the fact that the RS media accused the Serb politicians of signing documents in Washington that are against interests of the RS, which the reason why the RS politicians are hushing up the meeting with Hays.

Round table on const changes in Banja Luka : through consensus to agreement	RTRS - Round table on the constitutional reform in BiH was also held in Banja Luka on Tuesday. Participants of the table stressed that domestic politicians will fail to agree on any key issue which will lead to new Constitution written by the foreigners. Chair of RS Helsinki Committee Branko Todorovic feels that such Constitution would be a bad solution for BiH and its citizens. PINK by Ljubisa Davidovic - According to roundtable moderator Miodrag Zivanovic the question is not whether the BiH Constitution should be changed, but how would it be change especially since leading political parties have proved not to be capable of reaching any kind of agreement. Zivanovic believes that the only solution is to hold two conferences on BiH future: one at the international level and the other one attended only by the domestic representatives. "If we don't do that, if we stay in this... sterile situation, I think that Europe will move further away, regardless the fact that BiH formally started the negotiations on the SAA" , stated Zivanovic.
