Ivanic on SAA negotiations	RS Radio - Mladen Ivanic , BiH Foreign Minister feels that it is more important for the BiH authorities to draft a negotiation platform instead of wasting time electing a chief negotiator for the negotiations on SAA talks with EU. Ivanic stated during Lavirint show on OSM TV in Pale last night that "The recommendation of the European Commission for the beginning of negotiations on stabilisation and association is a very positive event since it marks the beginning of an irreversible process of Euro-Atlantic integration for BiH. The process brings certain dangers as well, since the long-term economic system of the country will be defined in negotiations." He did not comment on the candidates for chief negotiator, but did not reject the possibility of seeing his name added to the list of potential candidates along with Igor Davidovic and Miloard Dodik . Ivanic said that the future negotiations with the EU will not be of a political but exclusively an economic nature and should be held at the state level, that is to include the Council of Ministers and the BiH Parliament.

RS President Cavic meets with EC's Humphreys; discussion on BiH negotiator appointment underway	RTRS, Pink, BHT, Hayat, Dnevni Avaz pg 9 'Davidovic a candidate for chief negotiator', Oslobodjenje pg 3 'Cavic not giving up on Dodik', Nezavisne Novine pg 9 'Igor Davidovic is a candidate for chief negotiator' by V. Popovic inset 'Davidovic confirmed he is running for chief negotiator' – The RS political leaders' negotiations on the main BiH negotiator with the European Union will be held by the end of the week, RS President Dragan Cavic announced on Tuesday. While talking with the Head of the European Commission delegation to BiH Michael Humphreys, Cavic repeated that he would like to see SNSD President Milorad Dodik as the chief BiH negotiator, but he did not exclude the possibility of former BiH Ambassador at Washington Igor Davidovic being appointed as the chief negotiator on talks on the Stabilisation and Association Agreement. Cavic added that he has another two candidates for that spot, but he did not want to reveal their names; he only said that those are two educated candidates with the knowledge of several languages and with no party history. Party of Democratic Progress PDP members suggested that their leader Mladen Ivanic should be the chief BiH negotiator. According to Dnevni Avaz, the candidates for chief negotiator also includes Banja Luka University professor Rajko Tomas, former RS Finance Minister Branko Krsmanovic, and RS Association of Employers Chairman Damir Miljevic. European Commission would not get involved in the process of appointing the chief BiH negotiator, said Head of the EC Delegation to BiH Michael Humphreys. He added that he is pleased with the way RS is cooperating with the Hague Tribunal, but stressed that three main war crimes indictees are still not in the Hague. "It would be very difficult to complete the negotiations if remaining indictees were not handed over... so they must be handed over", said Humphreys, who, in the course of the day, also met with the RS Prime Minister Pero Bukejlovic. Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'It will be hard to complete talks with EU until all suspects are in The Hague' separately carried Humphreys' statement on need to establish full cooperation with ICTY. Nezavisne novine pg 9 'Extradition of Hague indictees before the end of negotiations between BiH and EU' by V. Popovic, Glas Srpske pg 3 'First step is the most important' by G. Dakic also reported on the Cavic/Humphreys meeting. Glas Srpske pg 3 'First step is the most important' by G. Dakic inset 'Framing from Sarajevo' – Deputy Chairman of DNS Hadzi Jovan Mitrovic has stated that the offer to RS to have its representative as a leader of negotiating team was yet another framing of political establishment from Sarajevo, made with an aim to finally destroy RS.
DA op-ed on Dodik-Cavic connection	Dnevni Avaz op-ed pg 3 'Where did "love" between Dodik and Cavic come from' by Edina Sarac – Raising the issue as to where the "sudden love" between Milorad Dodik and Dragan Cavic, until recently strong political opponents, come from, Sarac notes that RS President is aware he would get an ardent defender of smaller BiH entity, but also a personality whose support would improve his rating at the political scene. Speaking of appointment of chief BiH negotiator with BiH, the author, however, notes that it would be better if SNSD President were not appointed, since he would be defending "colours" of RS instead of BiH in Brussels .
Spiric, Terzic and Lagumdzija to meet today to discuss SAA talks preparations	Dnevni Avaz pg 9 'Terzic, Spiric and Lagumdzija on platform for negotiations' by A.M. – In a statement to daily, Nikola Spiric, Chairperson of the BiH HoR, confirmed that he will today meet with Adnan Terzic and Zlatko Lagumdzija, BiH CoM Chair and delegate at HoR respectively. Blic interview with EC's Humphreys: EU has no interest to abolish Srpska	EuroBlic pg RS1 'EU has no interest to abolish Srpska' by Nedeljka Breberina - In an interview to EuroBlic, Head of EC Delegation to BiH Michael Humphreys stated that EU has no interest to abolish RS as an entity. He also assessed BiH is on the right path to start negotiations on SAA by the end of this year, i.e. to sign it by the end of 2006. He explained the procedure BiH needs to follow in order to join EU and, asked whether the current constitutional organization was an obstacle to the admission to EU, Humphreys said: 'Our message was always clear - we will not define what kind of a constitution BiH should have', noting that there are differences between constitutions of European countries too. Nevertheless, Humphreys emphasized: 'we will demand that this is a constitutional organization and government that are functional'. Asked whether this is the right time to decrease the role of HR and to revoke his Bonn powers, Humphreys said HR Ashdown would leave BiH in couple of months and his replacement would arrive. 'There is an ongoing debate with an aim to define how long would the mandate of HR to BiH last. In any case, there is less and less of this time', adding that the role of HR would gradually be abolished as BiH would approach European integrations closer and closer.
Ashdown on SAA talks, upcoming reforms: BiH is to face even harder two to three years	Dnevni Avaz pg 5, mentioned on cover, 'It will be even harder in the next three years' by Sead Numanovic - The High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, urges BiH politicians to set the SAA negotiating team so the country is ready when the EU announces opening of talks on 12 December. In an interview to DA, Ashdown, who has just recently met with the British Foreign Minister Jack Straw, underlined that BiH is yet to face its "difficult years": "Two to three difficult years are before us when agreed and new reforms must be implemented. In order to enter BiH, the processes must be much faster." He adds that SAA negotiations could be completed within several months, or by October next year as set by the BiH Council of Ministers Chair, Adnan Terzic. Ashdown commented that the proposal of the chief negotiator coming from RS was a good idea, and stressed that before all the person must speak English. Asked about the content of the SAA, Ashdown expects is to be done on grounds of the document prepared for the SCG with some modification. BiH has to become more functional, says Ashdown: "[BiH] will never be member state if spend 70% of its budget on itself, and 30% on its citizens. Police reform is [another] key issue. EC has a key role in overseeing the reform and it is possible that SAA demands its implementation even though all political agreements were reached... Of course, full cooperation with the ICTY is another very important precondition." Inset 'It is fuming in parties' - Ashdown says that one can observe boiling inside the ruling parties: "Internal disputes can be seen in SDA, SDS and HDZ. They are aware of either having to reform or dying out... I hear SDS President Dragan Cavic saying that the party changes... When I come back to BiH [from London] I will reconsider this and see whether some measures can be undertaken." Inset 'Offensive to arrest Karadzic and Mladic' - Following his meetings with officials in London, Ashdown said "it was clearly said to me that the West wants to close this question once and for all... It must happen as soon as possible... In the next several months this issue will be a priority and it will demand some decisive actions." Pink, FTV, RTRS, Nezavisne Novine pg 2 'BiH achieved progress' by Srna also reported on HR's meeting with Straw.

The job will be taken on by the EU Special Representative (EUSR). My successor will be both HR and EUSR by that time. The condition for all this is for the BiH to continue with reforms."

Ashdown addresses ceremony marking 60th anniversary of UN at St Paul's Cathedral in London	Oslobodjenje pg 5 'Lesson from BiH', Vecernji List pg 2 'UN failed to prevent war in BiH' by F. FENA - "In Bosnia and Herzegovina as elsewhere, the United Nations failed to stop the war that cost a quarter of a million lives - despite, as so often, the valiant efforts of its peace-keepers, many of them British, to whom we should also pay tribute today. One lesson we have learned from this, is that when actions within a state so breach international law as to threaten the wider peace, then the international community has a duty, moral and practical, to step in and stop it," said the High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, in his speech on the occasion of the 60th anniversary of the UN Organization held at the St. Paul's Cathedral in London, according to an OHR press release issued on Tuesday.

McElhaney notes that there are not many states in Europe that spend so much money on administration, and in which the prime minister cannot fire one of his ministers. On top of this, McElhaney notes that right now inter-party negotiations are taking place in Washington the aim of which is to see whether there is consensus for some changes, such as introduction of one instead of three presidents. Furthermore, the Ambassador says he was recently told by one American diplomat, who was among writers of the DPA, that the establishment of a third entity "is not on the negotiating table". On police reform implementation, McElhaney says he does not know whether the implementation will take 5 years. "The most important thing for me is whether there is the political will to implement what is agreed upon and to do it as soon as possible", concludes the Ambassador.

PDP's Slobodan Nagradic also says nothing has been agreed so far in talks on constitutional changes, while SNSD's Krstan Simic says BiH politicians and American Institute for Peace are at the moment only going through possible solutions and suggestions that would be acceptable for BiH. Glas Srpske pg 5 'Dayton remains the basis' by Z. Ma. - PDP's Nevenka Trifkovic says PDP's stance is that the Dayton Agreement should remain the basis for all possible constitutional changes. Glas Srpske pg 5 'Let alone the Constitution' by D. Mo. - SRS "Dr. Vojislav Seselj" is of the stance that the existing Constitution does not represent an obstacle for the admission of BiH to EU.

Professor Zepic: Constitutional changes can only be imposed	Slobodna Dalmacija , back pg 'Future solutions can only be imposed', by J. Terzic - According to professor Bozo Zepic , a sociologist and member of Commission for making of a new BiH Constitution, the proposal of HSP regarding constitutional changes (which foresees abolishment of entities and establishment of 8 cantons/provinces) has little chance to get through, especially in light of recent statements by the US administration " which said that we should change the BiH Constitution, however that we should not touch the RS ". Zepic argues that if any one people in BiH enjoys political autonomy (thinking about the RS), other peoples should be enjoying the same right. Finally, Zepic believes that future solutions regarding the constitutional changes can only be imposed to the peoples in BiH.
SD: No unity among Croat parties re constitutional changes	Slobodna Dalmacija pg 22 'Agreement or disappearance' by B. Magas comments on the last Croat parties' meeting on constitutional changes, which was held on October 10 in Mostar, and the author says that by judging the conclusions from this meeting it is obvious that leaders of the Croat parties are still far from a concrete agreement when the future organization of BiH and its Constitution are in question. The author also says that there is no concrete joint agreement on this issue since some politicians, especially HDZ President Dragan Covic has been presenting lately his version of constitutional changes.

DL presents a few possible scenarios that could happen today, arguing that the dominant idea is to expel Raguz and Zoric from the party. Glibusic also notes that other ideas/plans are to either lobby within the party and decrease Bozo Ljubic's influence within the HDZ or to exclude all signatories of the 'Promemoria', which is highly unlikely because of the pressures coming from the Croatian HDZ and European People's Party. Slobodna Dalmacija , pg 22 'Session of HDZ Presidency today', by F - carries announcement of session.
