He also said that the preparation of the Convention was on the edge of regularity, for which he directly accused the former HDZ BiH president, Barisa Colak. Ljubic and his associates forwarded the collected evidence to the HDZ Election Commission and believe that elements exist for the annulment of the Convention. As for his future political career, Ljubic declared that he would continue his political engagement, not specifying as to if he remains HDZ member.
President of HDZ Convention Election Comm. rejects Ljubic's accusations	Dnevni Avaz inset 'Pervan: We did not receive objection', Vecernji List pg 5 'Ljubic's people confirmed results' by Z. Spokesman of HDZ Croatia, Ratko Macek, says the HDZ Croatia does not want to interfere into internal relations within the HDZ BiH. "It is our sister party. The only interest of the HDZ Croatia is protection of constitutionality, sovereignty and equality of the Croat people in BiH, and when it comes to election of leader of HDZ BiH, of course we have our opinion", says Macek. Oslobodjenje pg 2 'Election of Dragan Covic will help neither HDZ nor BiH' by D. On the other hand, Covic had support of all major HDZ centres, including the largest HDZ Board in Mostar where Covic defeated former Major Ivan Prskalo. Reporter says that clashes were apparent even during the discussion on the agenda. Magazine concluded that the question opened following the Convention is whether clashes in HDZ will continue or they will conclude with some members leaving and establishing a new party.

Glibusic carries an editorial on the 9th HDZ Convention and election of Dragan Covic for HDZ President. Among the other things, the author says that the question arises whether those who strongly oppose Covic's policy would leave the party or they would wait for some other time since they are afraid to show up at the political scene independently. The author also concludes that doubts in regularity of the elections would make hard Covic's work and the position in the authority. Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 16 'Busy about themselves', by Petar Milos - Commenting on the events and outcome of the recent HDZ Convention, the author argues the convention was not about the position of the Croats or party statute, plans or programs, it was in fact about HDZ delegates looking after their own positions and interests.

Jazvic, Slobodna Dalmacija last pg 'Police reform and reform of public RTV system keys for future of BiH' by B.K., Nezavisne Novine pg 5 'To find a solution for police reform as soon as possible' by Srna, EuroBlic pg RS2 'To find solutions' not signed - BiH Presidency member Ivo Miro Jovic on Monday met with the High Representative, Paddy Ashdown. Talks focused on the importance of reforms BiH is facing on the road to European integration. It was mutually ascertained that solutions must urgently be found for reform of police and the public broadcasting system in order to fulfill the conditions for opening negotiations on Stabilization and Association with the EU.
OHR against holding early elections	RHB, RTRS, BHT1, Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Early elections would only draw attention away from reforms', Dnevni List pg 3 'OHR against early elections' by NINA, Nezavisne Novine pg 4 'Early elections would be a bad solution' by Srna, Glas Srpske pg 2 'New elections - unnecessary' by N. Z. - OHR stated on Monday that amending the BiH Election Law to allow new elections would produce multiple elections and revolving-door administrations with subsequent long-term and destabilising consequences. Statement further reads that early elections would also shift the focus away from the reforms that BiH needs to implement in order to complete the Feasibility Study requirements. In addition, says OHR, each election costs around 10 million KM and much time to organize.
DA op-ed on early elections: they are not possible	Dnevni Avaz, pg 3 'Why early elections are not possible', by Sead Numanovic - Carries an op-ed in which the author says the early elections are not possible because the current legislation do not envisage early elections. Numanovic notes that the process to remove the flaw in the legislation would take months, meaning the time would come for regular elections.
BiH Election Commission on early elections	Hayat by Elma Kazagic - Commenting the recent statement by the chair of the BiH Council of Ministers Chair, Adnan Terzic on necessity of the early elections, the President of the BiH Election Commission, Vehid Sehic, underlines that a lot has to be done in order to hold those. "BiH Constitution states that BiH Presidency is allowed to dismiss BiH House of People. If such decision is to be brought, BiH Election Commission is the one to decide on deadlines in which elections should be held", said Sehic however stressing that the elections bring large expenses, as almost 8 million KM was spent on 2002 election. In addition, regular elections are to be held in October 2006, thus he believes that the solution for the situation in the country does not lie in early elections. "We have to be aware of the fact that many thing in BiH are not as they should be, and early election do not present a solution", said Sehic.
