Sarac – DA reports The Vlasic negotiations between 11 political leaders on police reform were temporarily ceased Wednesday evening at about 22.00. According to daily, the representatives failed to reach an agreement on the number of police regions and transfer of authorities from entities to the state level. Instead, they have agreed to establish the Commission which will draft the proposal of the regional organization. The RS negotiators, Dragan Cavic, Mladen Ivanic and Milorad Dodik, insisted to maintain inter-entity border lines and for RS to have the status of a single police region. The agreement was also reached on budget and legislative activities to be executed at the state level. According to the leader of SBiH, Safet Halilovic, this is a result of the negotiations between local politicians without IC presence. The principal agreement was also reached on establishment of the Police Conference to supervise the work of the single police structure. It would include Police Director, two Assistants from FBiH/RS, Directors of SIPA and SBS, and Police Regions Commissioners. Under this agreement, the entities Mols would continue to exist. DA further learns that the dispute was caused by the discussion on the political control over the police. One side lead by Dragan Cavic, was advocating for Police Board to also include Security Minister and two of Assistants of BiH Police Director. Opposing side was arguing that the Board should have more members and that its role should be consultative. At the end, principal agreement was reached according to which the Police Board is to consist of Security Minister and Entities Interior Ministers, and three other members appointed by RS and FBiH Governments. I think that the constitutional change is not necessary to end reform." Nezavisne Novine cover splash, pg 3 'One police agreed' by R.Segrt, P.Klincov – Dodik said: "Bearing in mind the fact that RS Interior Minister would be the member of the [Police] Board and would decide on police budgets and appointments, it means RS Mol survives." On issue of police uniforms, Dodik said that: "I think that one of solutions would be for police to have BiH coat-of-arms on one sleeve, and RS sign on the other." According to NN, the talks are to resume sometime between 11 and 15 May. Zorlak carries an editorial saying that masques of political leaders, especially the ones from the RS, have fallen down during the meeting on the police reform taking place on Vlasic since they proved that they support the European BiH in theory only, because in practice they prefer the country in which organized crime, corruption and human trafficking rule.

ON HR’s approach towards Vlasic meeting participants, daily notes: “participants were strictly ordered not to communicate with the press. RS Mol publishes list of killed Serbs in Sarajevo ; files charges vs. 15 persons for 'Dobrovoljacka' case	RTRS - Representatives of the RS Interior Ministry on Wednesday presented a preliminary list of 2,436 Serbs who were killed and 575 who went missing in Sarajevo between 1992 and 1995. The list was published on the RS Mol web site [www.mup.vladars.net]. Radovan Pejic, spokesman for the RS police director, told journalists that a list "the list is not final and we suppose that it will be doubled at the end of investigation". RS Mol has also submitted to the Eastern Sarajevo County Prosecutor's Office the report supplementing the criminal charges dating from May 29 1996 against 15 persons for war crimes at the retrieval of former Yugoslav National Army [JNA] from Sarajevo, Dobrovoljacka street. Pejic explained that it was established that those persons "contrary to the Decision of the RBiH Presidency on retrieval of the former Yugoslav National Army (JNA) units from the territory of RBiH... had planned, launched, carried out, prepared and stimulated execution of the said criminal acts." Pejic did not want to comment the speculations if former member of BiH Presidency Ejup Ganic, General Jovan Divjak and Jusuf Pusina were on the list of indictees. Dnevni List pg 2 'Ejup Ganic leading the responsible ones?!' by De.L., Vecernji List pg 3 '15 persons suspected, Ejup Ganic is among them' by bs - According to unofficial information, Ganic is among those accused in 'Dobrovoljacka street'. PINK - "RS Mol is going to do all in its power to collect exact and complete data on every citizen who was killed in Sarajevo ", said Pejic. FBiH officials strongly oppose RS Mol claims on war crimes vs. Serbs	BHT 1 Boris Grubesic - The List of names of murdered Serb civilians during the war in Sarajevo contains the names of persons who went missing or are killed in other areas, who died after the war and some of them are still alive, claims FBiH Commission on Missing Persons official, Jasmin Odobasic. Representative of the Research Documentation Centre, Mirsad Tokaca, stated that publishing of this list is the needed of daily politics. BiH Council of Ministers adopted last year decision on forming of the expert commission for research on Serb victims in Sarajevo during the war; similar to the one that was investigating events in Srebrenica in 1995. This commission is still not formed. Establishment of this commission, as well as establishment on the State Institute for Missing Persons, should prevent often manipulation with the lists of the names of Serbs civilians, missing or killed during the war in Sarajevo . FTV, Dnevni Avaz pg 8 - also carries Odobasic.

Todorovic: SDS is manipulating with victims	Nezavisne Novine pg 4 'Todorovic: SDS is manipulating with victims' by V. Popovic – Chairman of the Helsinki Committee for Human Rights Branko Todorovic thinks RS authorities, by publishing lists of Serbs that were killed or gone missing in Sarajevo from 1992-1995 during Vlasic negotiations, are trying to avoid taking of the responsibility for decisions they make and divert attention away from these events. He notes: "SDS obviously wants to avoid taking of the burden of responsibility for decisions that have been made. Instead, it is transferring it to citizens. This is no coincidence because SDS has already showed it manipulates in a quite skillful manner with such things, especially when it comes to national interests." He thinks police reform is necessary in BiH, but the manner in which the IC and BiH authorities are trying to realise this have brought everyone in a kind of a dead-end street and he emphasises that the reform should not have been dealt with in a hastily manner because it dramatically rises tensions in society.
NN op-ed on list: Games with a list	Nezavisne Novine op-ed pg 7 'Games with a list' by Dragan Risojevic – Writing of list RS Mol presented, the author thinks this list would surely bring new quarrels. He believes the police should be left out from such quarrels because they are facing a noble task – to let families of killed persons know these crimes would be punished. However, the author notes the timing of publishing of the list is interesting, having in mind Vlasic negotiations, and believes this was made in order to lessen a shock caused by possible agreement on state police. 'Half of Serb Sarajevo citizens can swear the police were in possession of these data even during the time they still have lived in Serb Sarajevo, however the police have waited for an entire decade to pass before someone gave a consent on publishing of the data' , the author concludes.

As for eventual abolishment of the conscription and establishing fully professional military structures all sides have to agree. FBiH spends 38 millions KM annually to maintain conscription, while RS spends about 19 millions annually. "From NATO's point of view, current reserve structures consisted of recruits will have to go.
