Police reform

PRC ends its session	Herceg Bosna Radio, BHT, FTV, RTRS, Oslobođenje pgs 4-5 'Agreement on number of regions not reached' by Antonio Prlenda - The Chair of the Police Reform Commission, Wilfred Martens, stated on Wednesday that the Commission's four-day session resulted with the agreement on single police at the level of BiH and its division in the regions, but that they have not agreed on number of regions. Martens added in the statement to FTV that there are three proposals to be sent to OHR. The Member of the Commission and the Deputy BiH Security Minister, Dragan Mektic, stated that no PRC member from RS gave up on the guidelines given by the RS National Assembly to preserve RS Interior Ministry. Daily comments that in this way, the Commission has ended its work with half success. According to an unnamed source from PRC, its members have not agreed on the number of regions, concluding that the only thing left to do is to have HR Paddy Ashdown to impose decision. Dnevni Avaz cover splash 'Martens: Deal for single police reached', pg 2 'Martens sends three proposals to Ashdown' by E. Sarac - All members reached consensus that the police at the state level will include SIPA, State Border Service and Interpol, with Security Ministry as cover institution. On the number of regions, DA says that first proposal is about given region centers with names given according to their geographical position; second option is 'nine plus one', which sees nine regions of former Public Security Centers and another one is Sarajevo; and third option is same with '11 plus 1' regions. BHT - According to unofficial information, the position of future head of Police could be offered to RS Minister of Internal Affairs Darko Matijasevic. Nezavisne Novine, cover and pg. 3 'Police should be organized by regions' by M. PRC report: Police reform commission proposes formation of a single police structure	Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'There is consensus amongst experts on single police in BiH', FENA - The work of the seventh and last working session of the police restructuring commission ended on Wednesday. The commission will propose to the BiH Council of Ministers and the High Representative "to have a single police structure under the general political supervision of one or more ministries in the Council of Ministers," a statement issued by the commission says. Having concluded that "there is an acceptable level of expert consensus" about this issue, the statement stresses that "the proposal is in line with the 12 principles for police restructuring cited in Article 2 of the High Representative's decision [The Official Gazetteer BiH 36/04], including the one demanding that the police service be, inter alia, capable and efficient, financially sustainable, reflecting the national composition of Bosnia-Herzegovina, protected from inappropriate interference and responsible to the law and society". The proposal, the statement continues, "meets the minimum reform conditions set by the EU and EU special representative Javier Solana: to form a single structure with full competencies for legislation in the areas of police and of financing the police at state level, and that the BiH Security Ministry supervises the police in BiH". The statement sums up "the key elements of the agreement reached by experts, which at the same time make up the main plank of the commission report". Vecernji List, front pg splash 'State Police to be divided into regions', and pg 3 'Police becomes unified', by Zoran Kresic, Slobodna Dalmacija, back pg 'Single Mol of Bosnia and Herzegovina in the future', by B. HR Ashdown: I cannot impose solution	BHT, FTV, RTRS, Oslobodjenje pg 6 'I cannot impose solution', Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Martens sends three proposals to Ashdown', Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 18 'Selection between three maps', by M. Bjelica, Vecernji List, front pg splash 'State Police to be divided into regions', and pg 3 'Police becomes unified', by Zoran Kresic, FENA – High Representatives Paddy Ashdown warmly welcomed the successful completion of the PRC's working phase extending his thanks to all the members of the commission for the huge effort they made in preparing these technical recommendations. "This was without doubt the most formidable gathering of international and BiH policing experts," said Ashdown in his statement. According to Ashdown, police restructuring is explicitly listed as one of the requirements for the EC's feasibility study. "The European Commission has clearly stated that a single structure of policing with all competency vested at the state level operating in functional areas based on technical policing criteria is required. This is why I cannot impose a solution and why BiH's Parliaments must pass this key reform. Until we do the odds will be stacked in the criminals' favour. If BiH is to have a prospect of persuading European countries to liberate their visa regimes, it will have to show it is serious about reforming its law enforcement structures," emphasized the High Representative. "It is unfortunate that the RS's political representatives, appointed to the Commission on the basis of their appointive or elected positions, felt unable to agree to this concept of modern policing even though the entire Commission recognized early in the process that policing in BiH does not function properly. The Commission's mandate is technical; the political debate is a matter for the Parliaments," he added. The Chairman of the Commission Wilfred Martens will now finalise his report incorporating the technical discussions that took place during the meetings, said the HR. Cavic: Bosnian police reform commission working against RS	Herceg Bosna Radio, Oslobodjenje pg 6 'Unconstitutional decision', SRNA – RS President Dragan Cavic believes that the BiH police reform commission is not working according to the principle of consensus because the Serb member has been outvoted on every single issue. "Indeed there is a consensus against the RS in the commission and this is the essence," Cavic said in Banja Luka on Wednesday adding that he did not agree to the abolition of the RS Interior Ministry, or to the Interior Ministry being without a director and without a budget. He added that a cross-entity interior ministry was being set up, which was against the constitution. The RS president backed this view with the BiH Constitution and constitutional reforms, which had been happening lately.

DL op-ed on Police reform, Ashdown to take decision yet again	Dnevni List , pg 2 'Ashdown is back on stage', by Jurislav Petrovic - Speaking about the Police reform in BiH, the author notes that, if you take into consideration what's happening during the reform process and the talks about it, it would be more appropriate to call it " an attempted reform " because the talks in the Police Reform Commission got stuck a little bit. In that context, the author notes it would appear that the hardest issue is to reach an agreement on how many (Police) regions there will be in the future, and the author reckons that it all leads into conclusion that the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown , will have the key role in it i.e. he will take a decision about which there will be no discussion later on. The author concludes the piece by saying that BiH politicians have that habit, meaning they do not like to take decisions, instead they let HR Ashdown to do that for them, and by doing so they are not responsible, and one cannot complain that they are not making enough efforts.
NN op-ed on police reform	Nezavisne Novine , pg. 7 'From Radovan to flood' by Pero Simic - the author is referring to the police reform and other reforms in this country, and he is critical of the fact RS officials are protecting Radovan Karadzic on the detriment of RS people and institutions. Nezavisne Novine , cover 'Strict measures for RS' and pg. 2 'Measures against RS authority today' by M. C. , EuroBlic , pg. RS3 'Sanctions today' not signed , SRNA - The speculation among the public that High Representative Paddy Ashdown will tomorrow take radical measures against the RS, such as scrapping the Ministry of Internal Affairs and dismissing politicians, is untrue, OHR Spokesman Vedran Persic said on Wednesday. " There are certain signs that point to the RS being more willing to cooperate with the Hague tribunal, " Persic said, adding that this was nowhere near the kind of cooperation which is expected of BiH. " The High Representative will announce a few draconian measures tomorrow, but it will not stop at that. Rather, this will be the beginning of a process which will last until the next NATO summit in April 2005, " Persic said. Asked about the High Representative's plans in connection with the reforms of the police forces, Persic said that Ashdown was not ready to intervene in issues which are covered by the European Commission's Feasibility Study because this would damage BiH's progress towards European integration. " Police reform is one of the conditions set out in the Feasibility Study and it must be tackled by the BiH authorities, " Persic said, conveying the High Representative's stance.

Cavic told a press conference that his response would follow after the announcements of sanctions but he refused to go into detail. He said that there was not a single reason for sanctions or punishment of RS officials/institutions. Krsman – In the Global Competitiveness Report for 2004-2005 prepared by the World Economic Forum, BiH takes the 81st of 104 places in the growth competitiveness index and the 85th place in the index of business competitiveness. This is the first time that BiH was officially included in the Report, and the Management and Information Technologies Centre (MIT Centre) of the Faculty of Economics in Sarajevo and the BiH Academy of Arts and Sciences have largely contributed to this. The Report should serve as a guide to the foreign and domestic investors for assessing the climate of doing business or the business competitiveness throughout the world. During the Report's presentation in Sarajevo on Wednesday, it was stated that BiH takes the 98th place in the global competitiveness index, the last or 104th place in political context of protecting the environment, and the 102nd place in the governmental effectiveness in reduction of poverty. According to Dr. Zlatko Lagumdzija , one of the leaders in designing the report on BiH's competitiveness, which is prepared by the MIT Centre, the main factors of BiH's poor status are the inefficiency of bureaucracy, political instability and corruption. Principal Deputy High Representative Donald Hays said that no one was going to jail in BiH due to stealing of public money or corruption. Individuals are sometimes even being awarded with some other posts instead, according to Hays. The BiH Council of Ministers Chair, Adnan Terzic , declared that grey economy is the greatest problem to attracting foreign investments in BiH, and thus, to BiH's competitiveness in the world. Terzic announced that with the aim of improving BiH's competitiveness in the world, the Council of Ministers will in the beginning of 2005 allocate approx one million KM for scientific-research activities in the country and establish the national council for competitiveness.
