Oslobodjenje op-ed calls on IC to impose changes to Dayton agreement	Oslobodjenje Sat pg 'Threats similar to Karadzic's' op-ed by Mirko Sagolj – Op-ed refers to calls on to change the Dayton Peace Agreement, stressing that in many fields it is obvious that "Dayton has become irremovable obstacle for BiH to exit this situation." Author reminds that even HR Paddy Ashdown and British Ambassador Ian Cliff say that Dayton is not long-term solution for BiH, and that it is up to local authorities to agree on changes. Op-ed further says that while Bosniak and Croat parties are in favour of this, RS parties strongly oppose giving an example of Dragan Cavic who warned in Belgrade that asking for DPA change could be dangerous [comparing this with threats made in early 90s by Radovan Karadzic .] Author concludes that it is not questionable that consensus of all three peoples is needed to change the Constitution, but reminded that RS was not created with the consensus either. "If IC could impose the Dayton, doesn't it have a responsibility and a right to impose its changes too – if it wants?!" editorial concludes.
