This was said on Monday at the meeting of High Representative Paddy Ashdown , BiH Security Minister Barisa Colak and EUPM Commissioner Kevin Carty with SIPA director Sredoje Novic . Colak said for the press that new workers were being employed. SIPA should have about 950 employees by the end of the year and, according to him, this should bring concrete results. Ashdown said that crime and corruption were quite a deep-rooted problem in BiH. Nevertheless, BiH is winning the battle "bit by bit". "Time will be needed for the victory, but we have SIPA which will lead an effective and successful fight against crime," the High Representative said.

VL: IPTF failed to certify 66 SBS officials	Vecernji List, pg 3 'International police officers 'forgot' 66 police officials in SBS BiH alone', by Dejan Jazvic – According to data that the daily received from the BiH State Border Service (SBS), the IPTF failed to issue certificates to 66 of SBS officials. According to an SBS spokesperson, Alma Efendic, all 66 officials in question had provisional certificates, which had been issued by the IPTF, but they were never issued or denied the proper certificates. Efendic also notes that the SBS, in cooperation with the EUPM, enacted a special book of rules on review of the officials that were 'overlooked' in the certification process. As a result, it was determined that the 'overlooked' officials met the certification criteria, meaning that they have the same authority and status as officials who had been certified by the IPTF.
OHR concerned about the new law on judicial salaries	Oslobodjenje pg 10 'The law will not resolve the problems', Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'It is not time for increasing judges and prosecutors' salaries', Nezavisne Novine, pg. 4 'Judges' salaries in the amount of 5,500 KM are unacceptable' by Bi. G., FENA – The proposed BiH Law on Judicial Salaries and Allowances fails to make BiH Courts functional. This legislation, which has been considered in the first reading in Parliament, will make work in Courts and Prosecutors Offices more difficult, OHR spokesperson Oleg Milisic said. For this reason calls by the assistant FBiH Minister of Justice, Dzemaludin Mutapcic, for another salary increase for Judges and Prosecutor are concerning. This legislation ignores the fact that many courts are unable to function properly due to the lack of funds for investment in premises and equipment. Courts and Prosecutors Offices struggle to remain effective, as they cannot meet even their most basic administrative costs, including electricity, gas and telephone services, which have on numerous occasions been cut off due to unpaid bills, according to Milisic. As a result of the current situation in which as much as 85% of judicial budgets in Bosnia and Herzegovina are spent on salaries and benefits the judiciary in BiH has accrued a debt of 20 million KM. The proposed state level law on Judicial Salaries and Allowances does not solve any of the current problems; it exacerbates them by proposing to hike benefits for Judges and Prosecutors. The OHR has therefore called on the BiH Ministry of Justice to initiate amendments to the proposed Law providing coordinated approach at State and Entity level to judicial spending, including salary levels, and which will protect the savings that are being made as a result of the judicial reform process thus far. These savings are estimated to amount to 20 million KM per year, which, under the proposed legislation, would be eaten up by increased salaries within only a few years.
RS Trade Union supports RS officials removed by HR	Oslobodjenje pg 7 'Addressing Strasbourg over Ashdown's decisions', ONASA – President of the Republika Srpska Trade Union Cedo Volas said on Monday that he will file a complaint with the Human Rights Court in Strasbourg against the decision of the High Representative Paddy Ashdown on the removal of numerous officials in the RS. Removed Minister Sehagic says he was replaced for "political reasons"	BH Radio, BHT, Herceg Bosna Radio, RTRS, Oslobođenje pg 5 'Complaint with the Constitutional Court regarding the removal', Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'SDA does not need retaliation', Nezavisne Novine, pg. 2 'Sehagic asks for money from SDA for a lawsuit against Mikerevic' by D. RS1 'I will sue Mikerevic and the Government over the dismissal' by Rajna Radosavljevic - Last week, the former minister of urban planning, construction and ecology in the RS Government, Mensur Sehagic, was dismissed from this post by RS Prime Minister Dragan Mikerevic. Sehagic said at a press conference in Banja Luka on Monday that he did not accept the explanation for this move. He announced a possibility of filing a complaint with the RS Supreme Court. Sehagic said that he had been replaced solely due to political reasons. The situation in the Ministry for Urban Planning, Construction and Ecology of the RS Government is not intolerably bad, as Prime Minister Dragan Mikerevic said, according to Sehagic. "I believe that I was dismissed from the post of minister because I am from the Party of Democratic Action and because I am Bosniak and because I was effective and responsible at my work," Sehagic emphasized.
Head of SDA caucus in RSNA believes call for removal of Dokic logical	Oslobođenje pg 5 'RS Government to face crisis of authority' - The highest-ranking SDA official in RS, RS Vice-president Adil Osmanovic, is not alone in his request for removal of State Transportation and Communication Minister Branko Dokic as response to recent dismissal of an SDA-nominated Minister in RS Government, Mensur Sehagic. Head of the SDA caucus in RS National Assembly Tarik Sadovic says there is logic in Osmanovic's call on BiH Council of Minister Chairman Adnan Terzic to remove Dokic. If RS Prime Minister Dragan Mikerevic without any reason removes Sehagic why would not Terzic remove Dokic in the same way, explains Sadovic.
GS: Reaction to Party for BiH Halilovic's statements	Glas Srpske, cover page 'Safet is tin-plating Serbs and Croats' by Snj. M. - Safet Halilovic, the President of Party for BiH, has stated that Serbs and Croats in BiH might turn themselves in national minorities because they are not renouncing of what they are and because they are trying to maintain close relations with their compatriots in Serbia and Croatia. GS article interprets this statement by saying that Serbs and Croats might lose their status of constitutive peoples of BiH. Dr. Ivan Sijakovic from Banja Luka Faculty of Economics thinks ethnic groups in BiH cannot be treated as some special or new nations. He says it is wrong to claim Croats or Serbs in BiH are not same people as Croats in Croatia or Serbs in Serbia.

The Norwegian parliament cannot make decisions on investments into BiH, but it is necessary that domestic powers provide a stable and attractive environment, he added. According to Martin Raguz, Speaker of the BiH House of Representatives, Norway will continue to help BiH in political processes, economic development and on its way towards Europe. Goran Milojevic, chairman of the BiH House of Peoples, was of the opinion that relations between BiH and Norway were good and friendly. He said that the Norwegian delegation had been briefed on the situation and reforms in BiH. SD: ' Washington Report on Middle East Affairs' on HR Ashdown	Slobodna Dalmacija , pg 12 'Is Ashdown abolishing national parties', mentioned on front, by Josko Celan – Wondering whether the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown , will soon "hit" against national parties in BiH, the author argues that hints of this are coming from many think-tanks around the world, as recently suggested by the Ljubljana-based "IFIMES" (International institute for Middle East and Balkans studies). However, the author focuses on the last issue of 'The Washington Report on Middle East Affairs', which carried an article signed by Peter Lippman entitled 'Big changes in Bosnia, or just another drama?'. Apparently, the article opens by reminding of BiH's failure to join NATO's Partnership for Peace programme at the NATO Istanbul Summit in June, and goes on to say that the DPA has created a weak, sometimes non-existing, central authority. Lippman also claims that HR Ashdown has broad authorities to impose laws and remove officials, however the HR has used his powers sparingly. Lippman also calls HR Ashdown's approach 'gentle', which resulted in the division of countries into three ethnically homogenous territories, the plundering of the wealth created under two generations of socialism and, the protection of certain nationalist leaders sought for war crimes by the international community. (NB : the article is to continue tomorrow)

Minister Bozic on work of Croat Ministers in FBiH Government	Vecernji List , pg 5, 'Subsidies for agriculture to be increased to 230 million KM', by Zoran Kresic , mentioned on front – talking about criticisms regarding work of Croat ministers in FBiH Government, Marinko Bozic , FBiH Minister of Agriculture, Water Resources and Forestry, says that, apart from having “inherited” infrastructure, Croat Ministers are inferior in number so that decisions are made by outvoting. He adds that Croat officials were given the Ministries with the biggest and most numerous problems, which requires biggest reforms. He disagrees with allegations that Croat Ministers lobby for Croatian Telekom to take over telecom sector in BiH saying this is certainly the case elsewhere where majority package of strategic companies is being sold.

DL on pre-election campaign in BiH	Dnevni List , pg 2 'Lack of pre-election culture', by Ivica Glibusic – carries an op-ed dedicated to the election campaign in BiH, in which the author notes that many parties and their candidates have no idea what the local elections are about. Glibusic writes: “For example, there are municipal branches of certain parties that write press releases and go public on TV about crisis in Chechnya, Iraq or talk about WTO's policy (...) When it comes to lies that individuals are capable of uttering in the public, it goes beyond lack of political culture. As long as suitable ones are in place at the local and state levels, instead of experts, the state and society will not benefit”.
VL on equality of peoples in BiH	Vecernji List , pg 6 'Soft equality', by Radoslav Dodig – amid the letter that Cardinal Vinko Puljic had sent to the Pope , asking for protection of BiH Croats, and reactions that followed, the author argues that every people in BiH is both equal and endangered, stressing that efforts should concentrate on improving of financial status of the Croats. The author suggests that in order to achieve that, everyone must do what he or she is paid for. “What if he or she does not know how? Resignation, recall, removal. Period.” , concludes Dodig.

Apparently, the FBiH Parliament's House of Peoples and House of Representatives, at Colak's initiative, adopted conclusions back in 2002 that the problem should be solved through inter-state agreement between BiH and Croatia, but very little had been done since. Colak explains: "The main thing is that the HEP (Croatian Elektroprivreda) registered everything in the land registry books, but they could not do it without an interstate agreement. Those who started this 30 years ago, during the times the lake was being built, had been rewarded with apartments in Zagreb and Split, the same happened with the ones who pulled this one off recently. It is not my job to say who did it, let the competent bodies determine that. I submitted the State Prosecution a request to investigate the whole case. It is well known who was the Head of Municipality and Head of Land Registry at the time".
Minister Bozic on subsidies to agriculture, VAT	Vecernji list, pg 5, 'Subsidies for agriculture to be increased to 230 million KM', by Zoran Kresic, mentioned on front - speaking of rebalance of FBiH budget for 2004, Marinko Bozic, FBiH Minister of Agriculture, Water Resources and Forestry, says that the rebalance will not bring payments of subsidies for agriculture in question but he claims that there will be no funds for payments of debts for previous years. Bozic says that, if VAT comes into effect next summer, farmers will find themselves in a more difficult situation. Opting for a unique rate of VAT because it ensures budget stability, Bozic says that in case VAT is introduced, the Ministry will demand subsidies to be ten times higher than they are now, i.e. to be increased to 230 million KM as a condition to make domestic production more competitive.
