According to him, this is the largest mass grave by the number of victims as it is believed to contain several hundred victims who had been hidden on his coal waste site. This mass grave is believed to contain the remains of victims of the prison in Foca, the gunpowder warehouse in Kalinovik and citizens of Foca, Miljevina and Jeleca who were killed in 1992. According to Masovic, the exhumation of the remains will take up to two weeks.
Stojicic on regional cooperation in arresting war crime indictees	Herceg Bosna Radio, RTRS, Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'Terzic initiative contra-productive' – Dusan Stojicic , the Speaker of RS National Assembly, said for SCG news agency TANJUG that statement of Adnan Terzic , Chairman of BiH Council of Ministers on establishment of a joint BiH/SCG (Serbia and Montenegro) police team which would work on arrest of war criminals, was contra productive. Stojicic agrees that it is about a regional issue, but it should therefore be discussed and defined on the basis of clear inter-state and regional agreements.

Becirbasic on Terzic's initiative	Nezavisne Novine pg 3 It is too early to establish military units of BiH and SiCG' by M. Cubro – Enes Becirbasic , BiH Deputy Defence Minister, yesterday stated that it is not realistic to expect that BiH and SiCG would form joint military units for peace operations and arrest of war crime suspects. He noted: "It is true that during informal talks with the defence ministers from regional states in Belgrade, I spoke with Serbian defence minister about the possibility of seeing joint units for peace operations and arrests of war crime suspects . However, I think this is not realistic to expect before admittance into PFP." He noted: "I think it is more realistic to expect that police and civilian intelligence agencies have tighter cooperation in the field of arrest of war crime suspects."
Dnevni Avaz: Karadzic suffered stroke	Dnevni Avaz cover page, pg 2 'Karadzic suffered stroke' – The most wanted war criminal in the world, Radovan Karadzic , has recently suffered a (brain) stroke, learns Dnevni Avaz from the reliable sources. VL feature story on arrest of war criminals	Vecernji List , pg 2 'Six services searching after The Hague fugitives', by Dejan Jazvic – carries a feature story of arrest of war criminals in BiH claiming that the search will be intensified in the next one year because both the domestic and international authorities want to arrest the war criminals by end first half of 2005 so the ICTY will be allowed to start applying its "exit strategy". Saying that at the moment only SFOR and entity MoIs have the mandate to arrest the war criminals, VL notes that by end of year three more domestic agencies will be joining the hunt, namely the SIPA, the OSA and BiH armed forces. According to VL, the biggest problem that could hinder efforts of the aforementioned agencies is the coordination amongst them, therefore one cannot rule out a possibility an establishment of a special body that would plan operations.
Mikerevic on arrests of war crime suspects	Nezavisne Novine pg 2 'No deadline for arrest of Karadzic and Mladic' by V.P. – Dragan Mikerevic , RS Prime Minister, yesterday stated that no deadline was given to the authorities of RS and BiH, by which they should arrest war crime suspects Radovan Karadzic and Ratko Mladic . Update to Sijekovac exhumation	Glas Srpske , cover page story 'Removal over Sijekovac' by B. T. – Sl. S. , EuroBlic , pg. RS2 'They resent Aleksandar Radeta for slow process of exhuming of graves' by Rajna Radosavljevic – The RS Association for Missing Persons will ask RS Government to remove the Head of the RS Office for Missing Persons, Aleksandar Radeta , as Coordinator of the Association for Missing Persons Marko Grahovac has stated. He says that, several years ago, the Serb Brod Association for Missing Persons has reported on the existence of six mass graves in the area of Brod but the RS Office for Missing Persons has not exhumed these as yet. The RS Association resents the fact that a firm from the Federation of BiH was performing the exhumation works at Sijekovac location near Serb Brod. The Association is also dissatisfied with the tempo of the work of a team for identification of victims and is also dissatisfied because of a slow process of exhuming of mass graves. The Association has informed Prime Minister Dragan Mikerevic on this issue. EuroBlic also carries Marko Grahovac's claims and quotes the Director of RS Office for Missing Persons, Aleksandar Radeta , as saying that he is not surprised with these claims because 'Grabovac is always trying to draw all attention to himself' . He also emphasizes that he will resign should it be determined he did something in a wrong way, but he also said that he thinks most of these claims were incorrect.

However, according to Omersoftic, more than 30 percent of those with larger amounts will still remain unresolved.

VL on Rama power-plant releasing water to maintain water level of Jablanica lake	Vecernji List , pg 7 'Is Rama lake being emptied because of need or someone's interests?!', by Simun Novakovic - carries a story about the decision of the FBiH Ministry of Forestry, Waterworks and Agriculture, which ordered the Rama Hydro Power-plant to release 25 cubic metres of water per second in order to maintain the current level of water in the Jablanica lake. Apparently, the Rama power-plant observes the decision, however it announces it will be contesting the decision because the power-plant is not making any electricity at the moment due to the works of the plant, meaning the water is being wasted, which will result in loses up to 3 million KMs. VL notes that one cannot escape an impression the whole story is about political games and satisfying personal interests since a large portion of Bosniak political elite has weekend houses on the Jablanica lake. VL also notes that many people noticed that the OHR got involved since the High Representative has a weekend house on the Jablanica lake.

Edhem Biber , President of the Association of Independent Syndicates of BiH says that persons, who did not pay fees and not members of Syndicate, accomplish their rights via Employment Bureau. He notes Association has no duties towards them.

Bakic continues: "The Office of Chairman of BiH Council of Ministers told us they expected them to return from leave on Wednesday. We expect that someone should see us then, otherwise we will block the Mostar junction, at the exit from Sarajevo, on Thursday at 1100 hrs" . Talking about BiH's reputation when it comes to foreign investments in BiH, the Ambassador says the reputation is getting better, albeit slowly, foremost because of the bureaucracy in BiH.

Political developments
VL interview: Deputy Mayor of Mostar Beslic	Vecernji List , pg 5 'Federation is suffocating Mostar and whole Herzegovina', mentioned on front, by Zoran Kresic - carries an interview with the Deputy Mayor of Mostar, Ljubo Beslic , in which he voices his dissatisfaction with the amount of money that has been made available by the FBiH and State authorities for the Old Bridge opening ceremony. In that context, Beslic says there are efforts to put Mostar on margins and that the same applies of both the eastern and western Herzegovina. According to Beslic, Sarajevo is afraid that Mostar could take away a "piece of tourist cake" from Sarajevo because Sarajevo is afraid of Mostar's tourist potential. Responding to the journalist's question whether it is true that the HDZ will be requesting that heads of urban planning and construction departments in the City administration of Mostar come from the HDZ, Beslic confirms it is indeed true, saying the party is every bit entitled to claim the offices. Beslic explains that in the State, FBiH and Canton (7) hierarchy, all heads of urban planning are Bosniaks. "We will not agree to any other solution" , says Beslic. Questioned whether the Mostar Statute is tenable in the long run, Beslic believes it is not, noting that BiH is striving towards the EU, and when BiH does join the EU, the Statute will have to be changed because it is not in harmony with European standards.
VL: Cantons 6, 8 and 10 to contest Framework elementary and secondary education law	Vecernji List , pg 4 'Croat children could be taught in Bosnian language', mentioned on front, by Ivan Kaleb - carries the West-Herzegovina Canton's Assistant Education Minister, Viktor Maric , as commenting on the elementary and secondary education law that was imposed in the canton by the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown . "The decisions create a situation in which we cannot guarantee our parents that the children will have lectures in their language, because the teacher will be the one who determines what language the lectures are going to be in, not the pupil or parent. The imposed law legalizes that the Croat language cannot be guaranteed in this canton and to us it is not in harmony with the Constitution and human rights declarations" , says Maric. VL learns that the three cantons in which the education laws have been imposed (cantons 6, 8 and 10) will hire legal experts and start a lawsuit before the FBiH Constitutional Law through the FBiH President, Niko Lozancic , in order to contest the Framework law on elementary and secondary education.

VL and SD on census in BiH	Vecernji List, pg 17, 'With census against disintegration of RS', by Dejan Jazvic – in light of more and more frequent demands by the RS parties to have census in BiH organized, VL comments that these party leaders are mostly interested in data about numbers of non-Serb citizens in the RS as these politicians have a reason to believe that the new census would show that the national structure in the RS considerably differs from the one in 1991. Once these demographic changes are verified, the Serbs would get a significant argument in struggle against disintegration of the RS and an argument in talks about national representation in the bodies of authority and about abolishment of the prefix "Serb". Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 13, 'Bosniaks and Croats against, Serbs in favour of census', by Zoran Zekic, adds that, apart from the fact that world data show that following armed conflicts some 40% of the population never return to their homes, BiH is technically and organization-wise not ready for the implementation of a census.

NN op-ed on pre-election campaigns	Nezavisne Novine op-ed pg 7 'Election lies and truths' by Mirza Cubro – The author is writing about pre-election campaigns of political parties in BiH. He says that the one and only goal of the initiative of Sulejman Tihic, SDA President, regarding change of RS symbols, is to ensure SDA victory at the upcoming local election. According to the author, this initiative was a sort of overture for political splits, namely followed with similar initiative of Mladen Ivanic. The author stresses: "This false concern for peoples interests has only one goal: to attract as much votes as possible. Tihic, Ivanic and Co. will not race in reducing the number of those unemployed, pension increase, etc... It does not matter to them, since they have enough."

Althea would have 7 thousand soldiers and officers. A special NATO HQ would be operating in BiH as of 1st January 2005 as well. Nikola Radovanovic, BiH Defence Minister, told EuroBlic that David Leaky, British Brigadier General, would be the commanding over EU forces in BiH.
