Ashdown appoints commission for unifying Mostar	Croat Radio Herceg Bosna, BHTV, FTV, RTRS, Oslobođenje pg. 8, mentioned on the front page 'Mostar statute to be drafted by December 15', Dnevni Avaz pg. 4, mentioned on the front page 'Ashdown: Unification of Mostar has been launched', Nezavisne Novine, cover and pg. 2, 'Second attempt for unification of Mostar', FENA – After witnessing the signing of a letter of obligation to find a lasting solution to the problem of the Mostar city reconstruction in line with the best European practices, High Representative Paddy Ashdown and SDHR Werner Wendt held a news conference in the town on Monday. They spoke about steps that had to be undertaken to ensure the adoption of a permanent statute of the city of Mostar. "We have gathered here today to set in motion an urgent process of unification of Mostar, the process that is far behind its schedule," Ashdown said, adding that this process was very important not just for the city itself but for the state too. "The guidelines set for the first commission remain guidelines for this one too," Ashdown said, stressing that he would not allow domination of a majority over a minority. Ashdown thanked representatives of all political parties that signed the document, in which they pledged to work together for the future of Mostar and to work in the commission during its life-time. The letter of obligation to take part in the decision-making process about the future of the city of Mostar was signed by the Social Democratic Party (SDP), the People's Party (NS) Welfare through Work, the Croat Democratic Union (HDZ BiH), the Social Democratic Union (SDU), the Party for BiH (SBiH) and the Party of Democratic Action (SDA). According to the letter of obligation, the High Representative appoints a commission to reform the city of Mostar, which will have at most 12 members, including representatives of political parties, experts and chairmen. The commission will look into legal measures necessary for reforming the institutional structures in Mostar, finding legal and constitutional regulations, which are contrary with this demand and propose legal documents and other legal instruments for these to be amended. The High Representative appointed Norbert Winterstein international chairman of the commission. Winterstein will be in charge of steering the commission's work, of drafting its programme of activities and of convening its sessions. The commission chairman has the right to appoint at most five experts in the commission. The commission will undertake all efforts to find a comprehensive solution to controversial issues regarding the status of Mostar by December 15 2003. Dnevni List (front page and page 14, "Norbert Winterstein Chairman of Commission", not signed, and page 16, "Ashdown: We shall not allow dominance of majority", not signed), Vecernji List (front page, "New Commission to Mostar" and page 3, "Unification of Mostar follows", "Ashdown: There will be no dominance", by Misijana Brkic Milinkovic, Zoran Kresic), Jutarnji List (page 4, "Ashdown demands unification of Mostar", by S. Pavic), Slobodna Dalmacija (page 13, "To unify Mostar by December 15", by Z. Zekic) and Vjesnik (page 2, "Ashdown appointed new Commission for reorganization of Mostar", by Hina) also reported on the issue. DL also carries reactions of political parties' leaders on this issue. Miroslav Coric from HDZ stated: "From the statements given by leading people of some political parties today I can see that there will be no consensus, however, HDZ will certainly work in accordance with the HR's task." SDP president Zlatko Lagumdžija stated: "I believe that principles of this Commission are acceptable and better and I have to say that, through his associates, the HR will lead to good results." VL says that Lagumdžija called on the HR to send a message to SDA and HDZ saying that without them there was 'good atmosphere' during the signing of the aforementioned document. Mirsad Kebo from SDA stated: "SDA will advocate clear positions that it stands for unified Mostar with developed forms of local self-rule according to European standards." Safet Halilovic from Party for BiH stated: "Having in mind its political competence, I hope that this Commission will be able to offer a model of organization of Mostar to the benefit of all citizens and BiH." DL, VL and SD carry that during the press conference the HR stated: "Those who are afraid of dominance do not have reason for it because we shall not allow any dominance of majority over minority." The HR also said that the new Commission should complete its work by December 15. VL comments on the yesterday's event saying that one does not have to hope too much that the result of the new Commission's work will be the joint one because local, SDA leader Fatima Leho was the only one who did not attend yesterday's signing of the political document. VL goes on to say that in that case the HR would pass judgment on the items that were not harmonized. Dnevni List (page 15) carries a public opinion poll in which the citizens are asked as to what they expect from the new Mostar Commission. Some interviewed citizens say that they believe that nothing should be changed and that the current organization of Mostar is the best solution.

DL: Interview with the HR Paddy Ashdown on Mostar	Dnevni list (front & p 7, “Interest of Mostar citizens to be put first”, by Miso Relota) carries an interview with the High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, entirely dedicated to the Mostar issue. Speaking of his expectations from the new Mostar Commission, the HR says the Commission should put the interests of the citizens first. It should complete its work within the given deadline and should draft a functional plan of an efficient administration. Asked about whether the fear from alleged domination of the majority over the minority people in Mostar is justified, the HR replied there cannot be such fear either in BiH nor in Mostar. Finally, the HR called upon the citizens of Mostar to participate in the Commission’s work, to hold their representatives responsible and not to let the things to politicians only.
SDU on Mostar organization	Dnevni List (page 6, “Mostar should abolish Municipalities”, by Fena) carries that during the press conference of the SDU Mostar City Board, SDU vice president Sejfudin Tokic stated: “Mostar should abolish Municipalities and this is the only condition that should be met in order to get unified administration and one budget in this city.” Tokic also stressed that it is obvious that SDA and HDZ cannot resolve the Mostar issue because all the agreements, that they have reached so far, showed antagonism instead of creation of an efficient administration.
Ashdown addresses Circle 99 session	Oslobodjenje pg. 6 ‘Nationalists leading BiH to an economic disaster’, Dnevni Avaz pg. 8 ‘My partners in the government were elected by the people’, ONASA – The Dayton Agreement has been designed in order to put an end to the war in BiH, not to run the country, High Representative Paddy Ashdown told a Circle 99 session on Monday. “We will have to change this Agreement by reaching compromise solutions one after another, and that process has already begun through the indirect taxation and defense laws,” Ashdown said, adding that “it is through such compromises break the inter-entity boundary line monopoly.” A member of the “Circle 99” Presidency, Raif Dizdarevic, said there were two completely different systems in BiH, meaning the BiH Federation and Republika Srpska, adding that the fragmented economic space further complicates the situation in the country. “Such a system in BiH does not promise a safe future, while the Entities further regenerate nationalisms,” Dizdarevic said, noting that BiH did not have much time or patience for reforms. Speaking about unemployment and reforms in BiH, Josip Pejakovic said the “Bulldozer” initiative could not be implemented with and through the nationally burdened people occupying senior positions in the government. Jakob Finci reminded Ashdown that two initiatives for the amendments to the BiH Constitution had been conceived in the “Circle 99” milieu. “The Constitution is changed through amendments in the Parliament, while the compromises you have achieved based on your Bonn powers are insufficient,” Finci said. The High Representative said his job in BiH was to work himself out of job, but until such time a lot needs to be done in BiH, in cooperation with local partners, with regard to the civil society organization and the creation of a functioning state. “I serve BiH to the extent I serve the international community,” Ashdown concluded.
Bosniak-Croat ruling coalition reportedly splits over education reform	BHTV – The Croat Democratic Union (HDZ) has called for the resignation of Zijad Pasic, Federation minister for education and science. This is not the only demand by the HDZ, which also wants to reassess its partnership with the Party of Democratic Action (SDA) sources from both parties have confirmed to BHTV. Following a recent walkout by Croat ministers from a Federation government session in Mostar, the coalition has been seriously shaken and the functioning of the authorities has been brought into question. SDA vice-president Seada Palavric said: “We will make an analysis of ministers’ performances during the previous period and then decide what to do...in any case we will continue our partnership relations with HDZ.” Velibor Jukic, member of BiH Parliament from HDZ maintains that “there is cooperation between two parties, but communication is not very well and actual implementation of the agreed is lagging behind”. Croat representatives in the Government continue to work without any interruption. OHR underlined Government should resolve these problems on its own. Dnevni Avaz pg. 2 ‘Crisis in the FBiH Government still exists’ – The HDZ-appointed Federation Ministers did not actively participate in the work of the Government on Monday, which means that the crisis in the body caused by the disputes over education reforms has been continued. Dnevni List (page 2, “Political ‘colonels or dead men’ “, by Miso Relota) carries an editorial dealing with the fact that Croat Ministers left the last session of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Government. The editorial says that there are 3 possibilities with regard to resolving of this crises and the author concludes: “The first one is that the Croat ministers return with their heads bowed, that is, that the system of the decision-making does not change and that the systematic robbery of Croat territories continue. The second possibility is that they return with raised heads, that is, that the system of the decision-making changes and that the mechanism that makes impossible outvoting of Croat ministers is built in. The third possibility is that the Croat ministers never return to the FBiH Government, that is, that the Croat areas themselves start to take care of their own problems.” On the same issue DL (page 6, “Government from Wonderland”, by Slavo Kukic) says that in any democratic country the fact that one third of ministers left the session of the Government would be a certain sign of the Government’s collapse or at least an alarm for the ruling, parliamentary majority. The author goes on to say that, nevertheless, the rules that are valid elsewhere are no valid in this country.

SDA supports reforms in BiH	Oslobodjenje pg. 5 'SDA accepted OHR's proposal (re Mostar), Dnevni Avaz pg. 4' Support to reforms with certain improvements (of their quality)', FENA – Presidency of the BiH Party of Democratic Action (SDA) supports reform in the indirect taxation system, defence sector and the intelligence services, with concrete remarks to the proposed text, with the aim of improving of certain resolutions that may jeopardise the essence of reformatory goals, was announced by SDA. The Party obligates its officials at state level to monitor the procedure and in line with adopted remarks make additional efforts and try to reach a compromise for the purpose of passing the best possible solutions, was announced. The final decision on voting of representatives on these proposals will be issued by the SDA Presidency. SDA Presidency has accepted the recommendation of OHR on participating in the making of decisions on the future of Mostar, with the condition that the final decisions of the Commission are passed by consensus of representatives of all constituent peoples, was announced by SDA.
Ashdown's statement to Vienna daily	Glas Srpske, pg. 3, 'Dangerous games with Constitution' – In an interview to the Austrian daily "Die Standard", the High Representative to BiH, Paddy Ashdown, stated that the demands and debates aimed at revising Dayton Agreement and changing BiH Constitution are dangerous, while compromises demanded by every-day-life cannot be neglected. He stressed that the final goal is to create a functional state of BIH, which would take the path towards Europe. Regarding defence reform in BiH, HiRep stated that "for the first time, politicians in BiH leave the captivity of Dayton and transfer entity jurisdiction onto the state." HiRep also confirmed to the daily that he regularly submits report to BiH Parliament, which none of his predecessors did. Regarding this, he also admitted that those reports are actually decisions reflecting his own will. According to GS inset, Ashdown will today meet Pierre Richard Prosper, American Envoy for War Crimes.
SDS Main Board convened	Nezavisne Novine, pg. 2, 'SDS Main Board convened', Blic pg. 7 'Elections within the party unnecessary' – Following Monday's session of the SDS Chair Board in Banjaluka, Dusan Stojicic, SDS Spokesperson, stated that the coming SDS Congress (to take place on 26 September in Banjaluka) will not be of election character. At this session, the Congress is to discuss the document on framework policy of SDS. Cvjetin Nikic has been elected to replace Djojo Arsenovic as Vice President of voting district 4. Stojicic also denied existence of nay rifts and conflicts within the party. He also expressed full support of SDS to Republika Srpska Association of Inmates to place a commemorative plaque at Viktor Bubanj barracks on 19 September.
VL editorial: "Referendum, dum, dum"	Vecernji List editorial (p 6, by Radoslav Dodig) reads that what one can conclude from renewed attempts to hold pan-Croat Assembly and referendum is that BiH Croat officials, both party and religious ones, are political dilettantes and make Croats unintentionally depict themselves as jeopardized minority. Croat officials in BiH have still not learned to act within state system framework. Dodig wonders what legitimacy an Assembly, which gathers people by the liking of the HDZ, and what legitimacy a referendum called by such an ad hoc gathering can have. "Is there a political, legal or any other kind of responsibility for the implementation of the Assembly and the referendum, which have weakened the Croat people politically, morally, legally and financially, so far? The only thing left to the constituent people smallest in number is to be wise and cunning and how to find the wise and cunning people – this is a political problem", the editorial concludes.

Nicholl: Groundless statements on BiH's bankruptcy	Dnevni Avaz pg. 3 'State in which foreign currency reserves increase cannot face bankruptcy', Nezavisne Novine, pg. 3, 'Nicolle: BiH is not faced with bankruptcy', FENA – Governor of the BiH Central Bank (CBBH) Peter Nicholl regarded as groundless the statements according to which BiH is facing insolvency and bankruptcy. Such statements, which reject the necessary investments, are not only harmful for the state but are incorrect due to several reasons, said the Governor, was announced by CBBH. The first fact that confirms that BiH is not facing insolvency or bankruptcy is the total foreign debt that is moderate and is estimated at approximately 40 percent of GDP. The fact that BiH is not facing bankruptcy is also confirmed by the foreign currency reserves of BiH, which have been increased over the past months.
