BiH/EU relations

Chris Patten on BiH for Nezavisne Novine, Dnevni Avaz	Nezavisne Novine, cover and pg. 7, 'Progress achieved, but still many work to be done' – This is actually an opinion editorial by Chris Patten, EC envoy for foreign affairs. He says that yesterday was a big day for Bosnia and Herzegovina and for its relations with the European Union. He claims that BiH has made a progress eight years after war atrocities, noting that many things are still left to be done. He stresses that depending upon implementation of reforms (including establishment of a single Indirect Tax Administration), the talks of Stability and Admission Agreement between EU and BiH would commence sometime in second half of 2004. He emphasises that public poll has proved that people of BiH want to be admitted into EU. And yesterday's acceptance of feasibility study has given a chance to BiH to achieve this. He concludes the op-ed. by saying that it is up to BiH political leaders whether they would ensure BiH gets its seat within EU. Dnevni Avaz front page, pg. 5 'Study opens doors for BiH to join EU under certain conditions' – Patten presents his views re BiH chances to accede EU in the for of interview.

Terzic says EC's adoption of Feasibility Study "great success" for BiH	BHTV, FTV, RTRS, Oslobođenje pg. 7 'Yet 16 additional tasks', Dnevni Avaz pg. 2 'Great success for the BiH government and the international community', Dnevni List page 3, " Feasibility Study is positive", by E.M. – Adnan Terzic, Chairman of the BiH Council of Ministers, welcomed the adoption of the Feasibility Study by the European Commission (EC) on Tuesday and said that this was a great success for the BiH government and representatives of the international community. Terzic told a news conference in Sarajevo that great progress has been made over the past 10 months with regard to the adoption of the strategy for BiH's accession to EU and assessed this period as the most fruitful since the Dayton Agreement signing. He said that the EC has recognized the strong steering of the BiH government on its way towards Europe and that this has been awarded a positive mark which was presented today in Brussels. "The BiH authorities are now to face new conditions contained in 16 bullet-points which refer to the strengthening of the BiH institutions, the implementation of the reforms which are currently under way and numerous other issues," Terzic said. He said that the BiH government will soon start negotiations on the signing of the Stabilization and Association Agreement (SAA) and said that he expected the agreement to be signed by the end of next year.
OHR welcomes adoption of BiH's Feasibility Study	Croat Radio Herceg Bosna, RTRS, Dnevni Avaz pg. 2 'Implementation of reforms must continue' – The adoption of the Feasibility Study by the European Commission is a tremendous success for BiH, especially in that it has been achieved in only eight years following the war, OHR Spokesman Mario Brkic has said. He said that this was a historic opportunity for BiH and that Europe "has extended its hand and BiH must reach out and grasp it". Dnevni Avaz pg. 2 'Implementation of reforms must continue', Oslobođenje pg. 7 'Laws for Europe and against it', Dnevni List page 2, "BiH can join EU only through implementation of reforms", by Fena – "One thing is clear: BiH will only get into the EU if it reforms," OHR spokesperson Oleg Milisic told a press conference in Sarajevo on Tuesday.

Session of Commission for Mostar Statute	Dnevni Avaz pg. 8 'All political parties offer different solutions' By F. Vele – At its tenth session held in Mostar on Tuesday, the Commission for Mostar Statute did not accept proposals made by Maria Rodrigues McKey, a Council of Europe's expert in the field of election legislation. At an initiative of the Commission's Chairman, Norbert Winterstein, she proposed that Mostar is made of seven electoral units, and that the City Council has a total of 30 members out of whom 16 would be appointed through electoral units as 14 would be selected through elections at the level of the town. Dnevni List (page 9, "Party HQs to talk about key issues pertaining to Mostar restructuring", by Z. Jukic) – claiming that the Chairman of the Mostar Commission, Norbert Winterstein, will soon declare a successful end to the work of the Commission, the author notes that the OHR cannot afford another "fiasco" in the work of the second Commission. DL claims that the current Commission cannot reach an agreement on issues pertaining to internal organizational set-up of the city and elections rules, so the OHR came up with an idea to declare the current level of consensus within the Commission on single budget and single City administration as a successful solution and to transfer the key issues, on which there is no agreement, to the higher party levels. Namely, DL claims the OHR plans that an agreement be reached by party pinnacles.

SDU on Mostar restructuring	Oslobodjenje pg. 5 'SDA and HDZ's double standards', Dnevni Avaz pg. 8 'Komsic: There will be no unification with ethnic municipalities', FENA - The BiH Social Democratic Union (SDU) says that certain political parties, primarily the Party of Democratic Action (SDA) and the Croat Democratic Union (HDZ) are expressing hypocrisy and policy of double standards when it comes to restructuring the City of Mostar.
