He warns the public that there are just pure promises of Government, which it will not be able to accomplish. Accordingly, the promises are also illusions. PDHR further warns Republika Srpska public of the fact that in order to be able to regularly pay out increased pensions and salaries, Government will have to find the way to increase budget inflows. And this is the most likely to be achieved through collection of increased taxes. He expressed readiness of international community to provide assistance to Government to find the way for gradual increases of pensions and salaries, which would equate with the level of savings and economic potential. RTRS - Distribution of October pensions in Republika Srpska has commenced on

RS Pension Fund stated that increase is not certain for the next 2 months, adding that if the collection of all contributions and taxes is not increased for 5-6%, there will be no increase of pensions. Mikerevic also indicated the fact that the level of public expenditures in the RS is below 50 percent of the National Product, while on BiH State level it is estimated at 65 percent. Mikerevic said there are manners for resolving these problems and that talks are currently in progress with international financial institutions. Mikerevic and Cliff also talked about reforms in progress, and UK Ambassador commended the results achieved in the domain of the defence system, indirect taxation and public administration.
FBiH Pensioners on RS decision	Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Let RS be responsible, not the entire country' – President of the FBiH Pensioners Association Jozo Ljiljanic stated for DA that pensioners of FBiH would not accept consequences following the RS decision on increase. 'We do not accept that, because if we have respected all international financial institutions why to bear consequences FBiH pensioners sympathize with RS pensioners Our pensions are also low, and we keep asking from the government to find a way to pay three overdue pensions and not to be prevented by IMF. The local authorities must be more courageous in this regard, and be responsible towards most vulnerable category of population.' – stated Ljiljanic.

Commenting SDA's accusations that HJPC is discriminating Bosniaks [due to a small number of Bosniaks in RS judicial and prosecutorial institutions], Oja said that such allegations were not grounded and that the only reason for this was a small number of Bosniaks applying for positions. Answering to the questions of the credibility of several members of HJPC [Stevan Savic and Svetlana Maric] and why there are no Bosniak members in the Council, Oja said that the High Representative should be asked these questions as he made those decisions. Regarding a number of charges filed against media by politicians for reporting against them, Oja said that politicians must get used to criticism instead of 'running to prosecutors' office and file charged against media for writing on them'.
