The one of the main reasons for PBS weakness has been solved, and that is the lack of political agreement on PVS structure in according with Dayton agreement and European standards on the high-ranking level. We got that, as well as the letter in which PBS Steering Board commits itself to carrying out the measures which will decrease further costs of the system. They will start with the work on the basis of BBC plan, having in mind extremely bad financial situation in order to avoid the collapse.' – stated Ashdown at the press conference. SD goes on to say it would be no surprise if some of the big international players in BiH get more active and facilitate the possibilities of the new, improved infrastructure, speculating that the Great Britain, which has been in the author's opinion the most 'vocal' in the PBS restructuring, might use the opportunity.

If the government goes ahead, it will likely be unable to pay the proposed increases through 2004, causing new payment arrears, disruption to government operations, and further social stress. For these reasons, the increases will violate BiH's international agreements with the IMF and other institutions, after which BiH will lose at least over 300 million KM in lending and grants. Without these funds, both entities will not be able to meet even the current levels of pension, salary and other social commitments. NN editorial on ITA	Nezavisne Novine pg 7 'Directly into indirect taxation' editorial by Almedin Sasic - The author writes about all those political games and war raging in relation to indirect tax commission. In his view, the inter-party war for as good positions as possible has overlapped with political clash with the High Representative to BiH, Paddy Ashdown, which commenced when HiRep opposed to the nomination of Fuad Kasumovic, believed to be loyal to Hasan Cengic, as the first man of ITA. The clash has deepened since SDS proposed addenda to ITA Law, according to which there should be seven instead of four ITA regional offices, because this organisation would ensure entity border inviolability. The author wonders into reason why HiRep has so far failed to react on these SDS requests. Maybe because he is too busy with PBS and some current affairs in BiH. The author concludes that it is clear to everybody that if SDS won on this, customs and tax evasions would not stop, but instead expand in the interest of small group of people.
