Dnevni List (page 6, "Over 80 world statesmen at funeral", not signed) and VL (page 4, "150 000 people will attend Izetbegovic's funeral", by D. Jazvic) carry that over 80 world statesmen confirmed that they will attend Izetbegovic's funeral, that is to take place today. VL also says that there is no confirmation that any Serb official will attend Izetbegovic's funeral. Slobodna Dalmacija (page 17, "Izetbegovic among sehids (Bosniak fallen soldiers)", by Zlatko Tulic) carries that Serb member of the BiH Presidency Borislav Paravac and those who work in his cabinet did not show up at their places of work and allegedly they took a few days off. SD says that the situation is similar in the BiH Ministry of Foreign Affairs, because BiH Minister of Foreign Affairs Mladen Ivanic refused the proposal of the Bosniak member of the BiH Presidency Sulejman Tihic to lower the flags to half mast in the BiH embassies all over the world. Talking about the FTV program these days, SD says that Izetbegovic's death revealed that FTV is owned by one people only and that the situation is similar in print media since positive comments on Izetbegovic's death are being published, while a rather big number of discrediting comments are being left out. |

| Svilanovic, Holbrooke and Kouchner deny any links between Kosovo and BiH status | BHTV By Laura Bosnjak - Some say that future status of Kosovo is linked to BiH. Foreign Minister of SCG Goran Svilanovic denied such allegations: "SCG respect international borders of BiH and BiH can not be linked with future status of Kosovo...it is too early to talk about any changes of Dayton borders and we fully support integration within BiH...Serbs in BiH are citizens of other country, but RS can have special relations with SCG like might be the investments of SCG in BiH economy." Also Richard Holbrooke and Robert Kouchner rejected any speculations about linking BiH and Kosovo and underlined that future talks on Kosovo will not have any reference to BiH. |

"We also discussed the establishment of local self-rule in cities and municipalities in BiH, as well as the necessity for passage of the law on the issue at the state level," Jahic said. Spiric pointed out that the difficult economic situation is one of the reasons for slow solving of problems both of domicile population and returnees to the city of Mostar. Dnevni List (page 12, "Due attention should be paid to return of Serbs to Mostar", by Z. Skoko) also reports on the event. It quotes Spiric as saying: "The thing that has encouraged me today is the statement given by Mayor Jahic saying that there is political atmosphere and aspiration that Mostar becomes a pre-war Mostar in terms of its demography, that is, the city open for everybody." |

Questioned what he would do to improve the position of the BiH Croats in BiH, if in power after the elections in Croatia, Granic says the Croats in BiH, the Church, all political parties and almost every independent association are unhappy with the position of the BiH Croats. "Consistent cantonization of whole of BiH and weakening or abolishment of the entities, and strengthening of the central authority, is the only way to preserve the constituent status of the Croat people in BiH (...) Croatia has to transparently help cultural, scientific and economic programmes of the Croats in BiH, especially the ones related to protection of cultural and national identity of the Croats in BiH", says Granic. |

According to Silajdzic, only young people with new ideas can open the door to the future. It would be much better for all of us, had we established the State Border Service five years ago. We are delaying the introduction of a single and efficient customs administration. We are missing our chance to work together and attract foreign investments." |

| Interview with wartime Mayor of Trebinje Vucurevic | Front page splash of Vecernji List ("I do not know if Karadzic is alive", continued on page 5 "I do not know if Karadzic and Mladic are alive", by Zdenko Jurilj) - an interview with the wartime Mayor of Trebinje, Bozo Vucurevic. There I presented a bunch of documents which surprised them and they never called me again", says Vucurevic adding that he signed many discharge orders which exempt Bosniaks and Croats from serving in the Republika Srpska Army during the war. He also notes that there was disorder in the beginning of the war, that the civilian authority had no real authority but armed groups did. Questioned to give his opinion of Alija Izetbegovic, he says: "He was a hard nationalist, who brought mujaheddin and butchers to BiH". Finally, when questioned whether he had contacts with Radovan Karadzic and Ratko Mladic after the war, Vucurevic says: "After they went under cover, I have no knowledge if they are alive at all. In fact, if even ten Serbs knew that, they would have been in The Hague long ago. I know they existed, I do not know if they exist now". |
| Prosper's offer/Hartmann's reaction | Vecernje Novosti pg. 6 'Let's trade'; Blic pg. 11 - Pierre Richard Prosper, US ambassador for war crimes issues, said that if Serbia-Montenegro manage to arrest and extradite Ratko Mladic, then Serbia-Montenegro should have an opportunity to prosecute the remaining cases, and these cases in particular (note: referring to four Serbian generals - Nebojsa Pavkovic, Vladimir Lazarevic, Vlastimir Djordjevic and Sreten Lukic, indicted by the Hague Tribunal), in domestic courts. Vecernje Novosti pg. 7 'Belgrade has knew everything' - quotes Florence Hartmann, spokesperson of the ICTY Chief Prosecutor, as saying that what Pierre Richard Prosper offers is impossible. "These four persons have been indicted within the programme the ICTY Chief Prosecutor Carla del Ponte presented to the UN Security Council on 9 October in line with the Resolution 1503. According to the Resolution, persons that performed highest duties, and that is the case with these four persons, cannot be tried before domestic courts," Hartmann says. |

| Proposals for accelerating tax reform presented | Croat Radio Herceg Bosna, Oslobođenje pg. 16 'Fill and then take', Dnevni Avaz pg. 14 'First phase of VAT', Dnevni List page 4, "Prepare state structure and train companies before introducing VAT", by Renata Radic, FENA - BiH could introduce VAT even before 2006 because it has an advantageous constitutional structure that provides the possibility for applying it in several manners, it was stated on Tuesday at presentation of projects that are aimed at accelerating reform of the fiscal system in BiH. At a request of the FBiH Chamber of Commerce the projects were designed by research institutions of the Faculty of Economics of the University in Sarajevo. The entire analysis of VAT, the laws on profit tax of commercial associations and the tax on citizens' income, it was stated, is aimed at focusing the attention of governments in BiH on urgent accelerating of reform of the fiscal system and to provide expert-quality solutions for designing the laws in this domain. The proposals given by BiH tax policy economists/experts have given theoretical basis in which they installed all positive experiences from the neighbouring countries, said member of the task force Sead Kreso. Dean of the Faculty of Economics of the University in Sarajevo Milos Trifkovic emphasised that in the process of designing the projects and proposals for legal solutions the experts had in view the unity of the BiH market and the country's constitutional structure so that they observed VAT, the laws on profit tax of commercial associations and on citizens' income exclusively from the state level. Nezavisne Novine, pg. 9 - "VAT will erase entity borders" - the daily reports that a round table was held yesterday in Sarajevo about introduction of VAT. The Head of CAFAO mission to BiH, Alan Jensen stated that entity boundary lines will be erased after the introduction of VAT as it would no longer be important where the goods will be sold, as all the income will be collected by the Indirect Taxation Administration and not by the entities. Several businessmen from BiH Federation addressed a letter to the PDHR, Donald Hays, warning him that after the introduction of VAT, the manufacturers will be in a worse position, compared with the importers. Dnevni Avaz also carries Jensen's statement. |

The daily also reports that the FBiH Government, under pressure from political parties, is planning to carry out removals in the FBiH Financial Police. In that context, DL says FBiH Government is trying to avoid a reaction by the FBiH Ombudsman's office by using the Prosecutors, which task the Financial Police with impossible tasks to have an excuse to "clean up" the service. |

Nezavisne Novine contacted Slobodan Vaskovic, Director of “Patriot” magazine who claims that the CA Director is trying to discredit his magazine and divert attention from the criminal activities which damaged the RS budget for 1,2 million KM. The daily quotes Vaskovic as saying: “With full responsibility I claim that Bulic is a member of the criminal group which caused millions of damage throughout the RS. He [Bulic] is supported by some politicians and I will publicise their names in the magazine. | Pensioners announce new protests | Nezavisne Novine, pg. 8 – “Pensioners only get promises”, Glas Srpske, pg. 3 – “Federation to make a move” – the Chairman of the Banja Luka Association of Pensioners, Nenad Ratkovic stated that pensioners will stop paying their bills, block the work of the RS Government, request its resignation, and request early elections if the RS Government does not increase October pensions for 18 percent. According to Ratkovic, the talks with the RS Prime Minister, Dragan Mikerevic, held on Monday, were fruitless as he did not show any understanding for problems of pensioners. This time, Ratkovic said, pensioners want more than just promises. The daily also quotes OHR Spokesman, Mario Brkic, who said that the decision of the Human Rights Chamber is final and binding and it is now up to the BiH Federation Government to implement it. Blic pg. 13 ‘They do not trust to Mikerevic’ – “Behaviour of PM Dragan Mikerevic is unacceptable, because he has been promised for the umpteenth time that our requests will be fulfilled. However, no one wants to confirm whether our pensions will be increased by 10 November,” president of Banja Luka’s Pensioners Association, Nenad Ratkovic told Blic, commenting on Monday’s pensioners’ protest. The Prime Minister and competent ministries have promised that the Government will undertake urgent measures in order to improve the pensioners’ social status, but no one in the Government knows in which way the request will be fulfilled. Ratkovic says that if their demands are not fulfilled, the pensioners will block roads and request resignation of the Government. Spokesperson of the RS Prime Minister, Goran Radivojac, believes that the Government and pensioners will manage jointly to find a solution, since that the pensioners’ representatives will participate in a special session of the Government and all other talks in order to learn more about real condition. |

| VL on restructuring of energy sector in BiH | Vecernji List (page 5, "Electricity suspicious as third entity!?", by Simun Novakovic) - the daily notes that the Government of Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina recently adopted the Action plan on restructuring of energy sector in the FBiH without consent of the Croat members of the Government, and the daily criticizes the Action plan. VL is raising a question what's the purpose of establishing a holding company at the FBiH level which gives monopoly to one company and which again allocates money from one region to other. VL goes on to say that the restructuring is against conclusions of the "Directive 96/927EC", which is adopted by the EU, the document which foresees abolishment of monopolies and opening of the market to other countries. "According to estimates of certain circles of the IC, the Elektroprivreda of Croat Community of Herzeg Bosnia could be the main pillar in forming of the third entity. That was the reason it had to be destroyed by using any means possible or to carry out a transformation of it into a new company in which the Croats do not have the final say", concludes the author. |
