Defence Reform
Ashdown's press conference on defence reform	Croat Radio Herceg Bosna, BHTV, FTV, RTRS, Oslobodjenje front page, pgs. 4-5 'SDA takes BiH away from acceding NATO', Dnevni Avaz front page, pg. 4 'Ashdown: Ball is now in the SDA's court' - The High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, warned at a press conference in Sarajevo on Monday that, by rejecting the Proposal for Defence Reform, BiH would miss an opportunity for Euro-Atlantic integration and that this opportunity would not occur again in the near future. "I am confused by the reasons that some people in the Party of Democratic Action give for their refusal and I am surprised at their willingness to make such a catastrophic mistake," Ashdown said. Ashdown emphasized that the proposal by the Commission for Defence Reform would in no way change the existing structure of the RS and the FBiH Armies. However, he said that under the proposal the state would have real control of the armies, a state defence ministry would be set up as well as a general staff at state level. Nezavisne Novine, cover and pg.3- 'OHR will not impose Laws on Defence', Glas Srpske, pg. 3- 'Partnership at stake', Dnevni List (front and page 5, "Ashdown: OHR will not impose reform to military in BiH", by Renata Radic), Vecernji List, front "SDA guilty if BiH does not enter NATO" and page 3 "SDA blocking BiH entering NATO", by D. Ashdown meets BiH parliamentarians over the defence reform	Dnevni Avaz pg. 4 'A signal which is being expected by NATO, EU', FENA - The High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, met in Sarajevo on Monday with the representatives of the parliamentary political parties to brief them on the Defence Reform Commission activities/proposals. Ashdown underlined his concerns that BiH was about to make a terrible mistake, and miss an historic opportunity to establish state defence structures and take the first step towards NATO. Ashdown told the parliamentarians that if BiH missed this opportunity, it might not come back for a very long time. He said the world was watching how BiH reacted. If BiH rejected these reforms, it would call in question BiH's commitment to reform in the eyes not only of NATO but the EU. At the meeting, the High Representative was accompanied by Jim Locher, the Chair of the Defence Reform Commission, and Bruce MacLane, a senior NATO official. The following parliamentarians were attended: Sefik Dzaferovic (SDA), Martin Raguz (HDZ), Seada Palavric (SDA), Beriz Belkic (Party for BiH), Milos Jovanovic (SDS), Jozo Krizanovic (SDP), Muhamed Morankic (DNZ, HDU, BOSS caucus) and a representative of SNSD. Dnevni List page 5, "Military to be put under state control", by Miso Relota - the High Representative yesterday met with MPs in the House of Representative of BiH Parliament discussing the defence reforms. One of participants of the meeting, Martin Raguz (HDZ), told DL that HR Ashdown, Chair of DRC James Locher and NATO representatives presented a report on the work of the DRC. Raguz emphasizes it is clear that the current defence structure in the Republika Srpska and FBiH remains, and that military is being put under the State control. He further says that the key ambition was to put the military under the control of BiH institutions, namely the MoD at State level and parliamentary control which is the practice in western, democratic countries. "It is a fundamental prerequisite to PfP, and than for membership in NATO", says Raguz.
SDHR Wnendt on defense reform	Dnevni List (front and page 7, "Two armies first and then unified one", conducted by R. Radic) carries an interview with Senior Deputy High Representative Werner Wnendt. With regard to the defense reform, SDHR Wnendt says: "The defense reform will not change the current structure of the army, that is, the current composition of the armed forces. Temporarily there will be two armies, however, these armies will be placed under the state control and they will have the joint headquarters. This is the first step in approaching NATO and probably approaching the membership in NATO." Asked as to what will happen if the Bosniak member of the BiH Presidency Sulejman Tihic does not sign the document on re-organization of the defense system, SDHR Wnendt says: "BiH will not be on the way to become a member of the Partnership for Peace. However, this will not be imposed by the International Community or the High Representative. It is up to local politicians and citizens to decide on it." Nezavisne Novine, cover and pg. 2 - 'BiH can join NATO with one army only'- the daily carries an interview with the SDHR, Werner Wnendt in which he said that if BiH wants to join NATO, it could do so but with only one army. Wnendt recalled that at this moment, only SDA does not accept the offered solution and that the ball is now in their court. According to Wnendt, proposed solutions do not change the structure of the armed forces and do not create three ethnic armies. The daily quotes him as saying: 'People in BiH must know that this is not an agreement between the international community, Serbs and Bosniaks - the defence reform is being discussed for the last 100 days, and Bosniak representatives are also in the Defence Reform Commission.
Oslobodjenje interview with Locher	Oslobodjenje pgs. 4-5 'Components in FBiH Army are a reality' - Interview with James Locher, the Defence Reform Commission Chairman. Locher emphasized that all the disputes with the Bosniak representatives had to be solved by Thursday when his commission was to report on the issue to the Peace Implementation Council.

Tihic promises to push for compromise in defence reforms	Croat Radio Herceg Bosna, BHTV, FTV, Dnevni Avaz pg. 4 'I expect some of our objections to be accepted', Vecernje Novosti pg. 5 'Three armies', FENA - "I will do everything in my power so that a compromise is reached. It is not possible to impose solutions in BiH without the agreement of all three peoples and in this situation it will have to be respected. I think that the High Representative and the chairman of the defence reform commission, James Locher, have BiH's best interests at heart and will take into consideration some of our remarks," the Bosniak member of the BiH Presidency, Sulejman Tihic, told media, commenting on the slowdown in the implementation of defence reforms. Tihic thinks that Bosniak political representatives should be included in discussions on BiH's defence reforms, as so far the international community has discussed this only with Serb and some Croat political representatives. Tihic said that the Bosniak representatives in the commission did not unanimously support the proposed solutions and have decisively rejected the proposal for the existence of three ethnic armies in BiH. Commenting on Monday's statement by High Representative Paddy Ashdown that the final draft on defence reforms will not encroach on the existing structure of the entity armies, Tihic said that the idea of reforms was understood by the BiH public to mean change, rather than legalization of something which does not legally exist. "According to the BiH Federation defence law, ethnic components do not exist, while we have to legalize the proposals of Locher's commission. This is contrary to the BiH Constitution and represents a backward step," Tihic said. He rejected Ashdown's claims that the proposed reforms will be creating a single leadership and command system in the armed forces at state level. Tihic points out that according to this proposal, the chain of command at state level allows for a monoethnic command structure, from a member of the Presidency to the last soldier. Tihic warns that introducing parity in key positions in the future BiH Defence Ministry and joint command will lead to the formation of a parallel system under which everyone will be commanding their "own" army. Nezavisne Novine, pg. 3 - 'Tihic: I am ready for compromise' also carried a very similar Tihic's statement.
Cavic slams SDA's attempt to halt defence reform	BHTV, FTV, RTRS, Dnevni Avaz pg. 4 'SDA does not accept reality', Oslobođenje pg. 8, Nezavisne Novine, pg. 3 - 'Condemnation of SDA's obstruction', Glas Srpske, pg. 3 - 'An agreement broken', Dnevni List page 10, "SDA not ready to accept reality", unsigned, SRNA - RS President Dragan Cavic said on Monday that defence reform was of crucial importance and that it was unacceptable and flagrant for the Party of Democratic Action (SDA) to halt the process in which a full consensus was reached on solutions which would be discussed in the forthcoming period and debated in parliament. "If it is true that defence reform will be stopped because of the SDA, then this indicates that certain Bosniak politicians are unwilling to accept the reality that in BiH it is impossible to introduce a concept which implies majority rule, or for decisions to be made by one group on behalf of another," Cavic said in Prijedor. He said that the RS representatives were not happy with solutions stipulated in defence reform, but that this was an inevitable process. The RS President said that it was unacceptable for defence reform to be stopped because of dissatisfaction expressed by one political party and that such a move needed to be condemned in every way. "If anyone from the Serb side decided to reject any joint solutions or concepts, they would not be able to get out of it merely with such qualifications and comments, but it would invoke more energetic and scathing criticism," said Cavic, who is attending a forum of cities and regions in Southeastern Europe held in Prijedor.

BiH politicians' defence reform related reactions carried by Nezavisne Novine, Dnevni List, Oslobodjenje	Nezavisne Novine, pg. 3 – 'Condemnation of SDA's obstruction' – The newspaper carries a number of reaction by BiH politicians on defence reform disputes. The SDS Spokesman, Dusan Stojicic stated that Tihic's objections prove that politicians in BiH Federation cannot get used to the fact that BiH is a complex state, comprised of two entities and three constituent peoples. The daily quotes Stojicic as saying: 'SDS condemns all attempts to obstruct the work of the Defence Reform Commission which is in the final stage.' Dnevni List page 10, "SDS expects political sanctions against Sulejman Tihic", unsigned) – an SDS spokesperson, Dusan Stojicic, is quoted as saying that the "SDS believes that the obstructions of the work of the Defense Reform Commission by member of BiH Presidency, Sulejman Tihic, will be sanctioned and not be an obstacle to final solutions to defense reforms". Nezavisne Novine pg. 3 – SNSD's Spokesman, Igor Radojicic condemned 'requests of SDA and its leader, Sulejman Tihic, for establishment of single BiH Army and centralisation of the country, It is about time for the international community to finally say to its long time nourished pet – SDA – that there are limits and that they cannot come forward with the same ideas as 12 years ago.' Dnevni List (page 3, "Single army according to NATO standards", by D. L.) – SDP BiH is appalled with the fact that the polemics regarding the defense reforms is being run via the media, whilst in the same time the parliamentary parties, including the SDP, do not have official information on the issue. Believing that the reforms to the defense system is one of key issues for BiH, the SDP BiH says BiH should have single army organized in accordance with NATO standards, State Ministry of Defense, civilian command at level of BiH Presidency, parliamentary control at BiH level and transparent military budget. Nezavisne Novine pg. 3, Oslobodjenje pg. 4 also carried the SDP reaction.
War veterans, Bosniak intellectuals support SDA	Dnevni Avaz pg. 4, FTV – Several associations of war veterans opposed proposed draft Law on Defence thereby supporting the SDA's position on the issue. Associations of Green Berets, Patriotic League, Veterans of Defence War, and JOB signed a letter rejecting the draft and they demanded the establishment of a single Army in BiH as a precondition for joining the NATO. In their view the draft would cement current divisions within the country. On the same page, the newspaper carries a release by the Bosniak Intellectuals Congress saying that the NGO fully supports position of the Bosniak representatives in the Defence Reform Commission.
Slobodna Dalmacija on defence reform	Slobodna Dalmacija (page 13, "Common army will not save BiH", by Marin Erceg) – the author wonders whether it is possible to reach a solution that would satisfy all sides in BiH, a solution which would help BiH join the PfP programme, and in that sense the author is not very optimistic believing the key players in BiH still have different positions. Erceg goes on to say that Sulejman Tihic and various Bosniak associations are wrong because they do not realize that BiH, as they see and advocate it, cannot survive. In that context, the author says that the former Yugoslavia had a joint army with which was dominated by the biggest of people (Serbs), and the same would be here in BiH (Bosniaks), which would lead to collapse of the both the State and army.
DL on HR Ashdown	Dnevni List (page 6, "Problem is not in Ashdown", by Slavo Kukic) – according to Kukic, amid all the critics against the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown, that he is guilty for this and that, for pretty much everything, people in BiH must get serious and realize that whoever is the leader of the IC in BiH, be it Ashdown or somebody else, "his range, when out destiny is in question, is limited". Kukic argues that many issues in BiH should have been dealt with in a different way, however he gives credits to HR Ashdown for his efforts in the taxation and defence reforms noting that there's different side of the story too, the story being that "we are responsible for our destiny", which was best evident in the last elections and in many elections before.

"Principles on which the EU has been established are very important for the whole region, especially for BiH. The key principle is to bring closer authority to citizens," Cavic said. Chairman of Working Group for Democratisation and Human Rights of the Stability Pact for South East Europe, Elisabeth Rehn, said that in the work of Stability Pact for South East Europe there were two important principles: one is regional and the other is principle from the bottom to the top. "If you do not have good bases at the bottom, then you do not have a basis for a good and strong country," Rehn said. Head of OSCE Mission, Robert Beecroft, emphasised the importance of simultaneous development of the region and states. PDHR Donald Hays said that BiH needed strategies that would strengthen the economy.
