Regional conference, initiated by Stability Pact, has been directed to the issues of witness protection and documentation protection. Baris Colak, Security Minister, said that BH already adopted relevant Laws, in accordance with European standards. However, he added that the experience of the countries, which were in similar situation, showed that it was most important to implemented them efficiently. Assistant to the Interior Minister of Croatia, Zarko Katic said that these two issues, if properly regulated and coordinated, could offer significant help in fight against organized crime. Deputy Chief of Administration for Fight against organized crime of Serbia, Miodrag Vukovic added that it was necessary to make general agreement on witness protection on the regional level, calling it a minimum for guaranteeing success. Further discussion between experts will be continued today. Nezavisne Novine, pages 1 & 2, 'Protection of witnesses and information in the focus' – The regional conference of the Interior Ministers of the South-eastern European states on the fight against organised crime has commenced in Sarajevo yesterday. In that context, the author says the appointment is no fluke considering that the HDZ, SDA and SBiH tried to remove Miletic from his office because of Miletic's engagement in shedding light on links between the organized crime and senior officials from the FBiH. "For months we have had opportunities to hear lamentations from Sulejman Tihic, Dragan Covic, Seada Palavric, Mila Gadzic and other Ashdown's reformers that Miletic is just remains of the 'police state' which has to be destroyed once and for all so the plunder can go on unhindered like it was the custom before"

I believe that's a wrong approach, because in that case many could say not much has been achieved at the summit. As far as I know, the preparations are going very successfully, the next steps have been determined and there is a general possibility the whole region joins the EU membership. On aspirations by some of the countries, like Croatia and Serbia, to join the EU by 2007, Busek says: "I think it is pretty clear that the main interested countries have a lot of common problems. Problems that exist in BiH need to be solved, in Kosovo too. Serbia and Montenegro need to regulate their relations. I think the mentioned countries need to solve many problems independently. They cannot wait whole the time what the EU is going to say, it's important what they are going to do."
