Jahic	Avaz pg. 4 'The Commission's work is too important for the city of Mostar' – a statement by Mostar Mayor, Hamdija Jahic, who has been target of many accusations in relation to the reconstruction of the Mostar City. As for the most recent accusations by the SBiH that initial criteria for the Commission establishment were not followed, Jahic stated this was not the case and that all parties took part in the preparation for the Commission establishment. Added that full support was received in the process from the OHR and the City Council. As for the withdrawal of an SBiH rep, Bakir Krpo, Jahic stated that he heard that even Krpo, during the talks with OHR reps, expressed surprise and disappointment with the decision made by his party's city council. An insert 'Citizens' interest above all' – the OHR Mostar had no official information on Krpo's withdrawal. Their Spokesperson, Avis Benes, said it was up to local political parties and their determination that the work of the Commission depended on, and not on the collection of political points.
Lagumdzija	Oslobodjenje pg. 1 and 3 – SDP President, Zlatko Lagumdzija, called on the OHR and respective investigative bodies to conduct a revision of the state owned companies and private companies that conducted business dealings with the state owned companies. Thus, to stop using his wife's company 'As Creative' for the purposes of political showdowns. "In the course of last week, while I was away on a trip to Washington, I was a subject to a new series of organized attacks that included heads of ruling establishment – Tihic, Colak, Palavric, Lozancic and Halilovic." Avaz pg. 8 'Lagumdzija claims that Amina worked in accordance with the law' – Lagumdzija sent the above request in a letter posted to the BiH Presidency, chairmen of the CoM and BiH parliamentary assembly, BiH Court and Prosecution Office, OHR and ambassadors of the PIC member countries. Also, on the same page Avaz carried another article related to Lagumdzija entitled 'Why is Zlatko hiding the sudden profit of his wife's company from around 1,5 million KM' – another article by that offers proof that the company of Lagumdzija's wife was not acting in accordance with the laws and established much higher profit that Lagumdzija could admit. Dnevni List pg. 1 and 7 – Lagumdzija believes that behind the whole affair is the intention to sell the third GSM license for peanuts. Nezavisne Novine pg. 7 'Political conflicts and orchestrated assaults' – Lagumdzija is of the view that media accusations against his wife are used for political purposes against him.
Commentary in Oslobodjenje	Oslobodjenje pg. 2 'War for officials' by Zija Dizdarevic – starts off by recalling that it was a sharp letter by HR Ashdown that prevented the FBiH Parliament to adopt the Law on Civil Service. The author then goes on to list some of the means that the SDA and HDZ have been using in a battle for appointing their civil servants. The SDA accused the OHR of wanting to keep Lagumdzija's people, and the HDZ said it could not be expected from MPs to be turned in some sort of a service. They went on to intensify attacks against Lagumdzija through Avaz, Ljiljan, Walter and by using Fatmir Alispahic as their mouthpiece. The author further claims that the SDA has been exerting pressure on the police, judiciary, free media and the public by acting rather destructively against political and media atmosphere.
VL on threats against Rebac	Vecernji List pg. 1 and 3 – everybody believes that the BiH and not Russian Mafia threatened Head of the Federation of BiH Customs Administration Zelimir Rebac. According to unofficial information, Crime Department of the Federation of BiH Ministry of Interior identified certain individuals close to business-political lobbies against whom criminal charges were supposed to be filed soon due to violation of customs regulations. According to VL, the political structures, that have had a negative attitude towards the work of the FBiH Customs Administration, believe that Rebac made up the whole affair in order to protect his place of work. The article also says that well-informed circles believe that the Rebac case served as a political polygon for a showdown between the old cadres of the Alliance for Changes and national parties that are currently in power.

NN on Rebac	Nezavisne Novine pg. 1 and 3 – although the deadline, which Travnik-Herzegovina clan set for Director of the FBiH Customs Administration, Zelimir Rebac, (to withdraw from the office) expired last night, Rebac did not meet the ultimatum. As an NN source at the FBiH Interior Ministry confirmed, Rebac received another anonymous threat on Sunday evening. “It is a great pleasure to see how much support people of Mostar and Sarajevo, but also from international community, offered me,” said Rebac. He also expressed great satisfaction over a meeting with FBiH PM, Ahmet Hadzipasic, who promised a full police support and the protection for Rebac and his family.
Request by US Croats	Vecernji List pg. 3 – the Association of American Croat(ian)s handed over a letter to officials of the Upper and Lower Houses of the US Congress and Senate’s Board for International Relations and Foreign Policy in which they demanded support to newly elected Croat authorities in BiH and a Croat member of the BiH Presidency Dragan Covic in the implementation of economic and welfare reforms in BiH. “One of our basic conclusions is that the Croat coalition, that is currently in power in BiH, has to be a full partner together with the US and the IC in the establishing of the legitimate authorities with a clear vision of the market economy in BiH,” reads the letter.
CRO press on HNK govt.	Dnevni List pg. 1 and 3 – seven months after the elections, HNK (Herzegovina Neretva Canton) PM designate, Miroslav Coric, has submitted to Mostar-based OHR a proposal for the new cantonal government composition. The OHR has been requested to do the vetting procedure of candidates as soon as possible so that the new government could be established. DL reminds of Mr. Coric’s statements that he could not propose the government composition due to non-cooperation of parties in terms of reaching agreement on possible candidates. Saying that the Bosniak side requested the right to appoint two ministers who were not members of the ruling parties, the daily also reminded that the OHR had warned the SDA to accept the reality and not to have maximal demands and even the OHR intervention was announced. DL reports that in his letter to Ambassador Jean-Pierre Bercot, Mr. Coric wrote the following. “Not even after months long negotiations between the political parties on the formation of the government have we established the executive authority in the Canton. Taking my constitutional role into consideration, with the aim of normal functioning of the executive authority for the benefit of citizens, I hereby propose candidates for the ministerial positions in the HNK government with the respect of constitutional provision on representation of the constituent peoples and Others in line with the 1991 census”. On the same issue, Slobodna Dalmacija pg. 17 ‘The government of nine ministers’ – quotes Avis Benes, OHR-South Spokesperson, as saying that the HNK government can only consist of nine members: the PM and eight ministers. SD reminds of the High Representative’s Decision from 6 October 2002, which harmonizes the composition of the Federation of BiH and cantonal bodies of authority with the Constitutional Court’s Decision on constituency of peoples, according to which positions of deputy PM, deputy ministers, governor and deputy governor were abolished.

Miletic case	Blic pg. 7 'Gligoric: we will check the disputable appointment' – the OHR has denied they made a decision on the suspension of Dragica Miletic, former RS Deputy Public Attorney, from the RS Property Verification Commission as Sunday's press release of the Republic Administration for Geodetic and Property Issues claimed. As Blic learns, the Administration is not sure whether the High Representative or the OSCE suspended Miletic. They further claim that executors of the suspension were the ministries of refugees and justice. Spokesperson for OHR Banja Luka, Sonja Pastuovic, says the OSCE does not have mandate to remove local officials and that only the High Representative can do it, which was not the case this time. In the meantime, Miletic has been appointed as BiH Public Attorney. Director of the Republika Srpska Administration for Geodetic and Property Issues, Tihomir Gligoric, says that the question of appointing Dragica Miletic as BiH Public Attorney will be addressed at today's session of the Republika Srpska National Assembly. Glas Srpske cover page story 'Who caused budget loss?' – former Acting Head of the Public Attorney Office of Republika Srpska, Dragica Miletic, responds to Gligoric's accusations by pressing charges against him. The charges Miletic pressed against Gligoric include misuse of office and irresponsible conduct. Apart from pressing criminal charges against Gligoric, Miletic yesterday also filed a lawsuit against him, accusing him of slander and seeking compensation of KM 200 thousand.
RS NA session	Blic pg. 2 'PDP for, SDS is still pondering' – today's special session of the Republika Srpska National Assembly will discuss the government's proposal on economic policy for 2003. According to some announcements, it may happen that the government will not gain the parliamentary majority's support for the proposal, which may endanger the function of the executive authority. What is sure is that the PDP will support the proposal, which has been confirmed by a PDP delegate Nevenka Trifkovic. SDS Spokesman Dusan Stojicic says that the SDS will support the proposal only if priorities of work until the end of year are clearly defined. The SNSD will not support the proposal, because, as SNSD delegate Nada Tesanovic says, there is nothing to support. Vecernje Novosti pg. 19 reports about the Republika Srpska National Assembly's special session.
DL editorial	In light of frequent debates and initiatives on the change of the Dayton Constitution, Dnevni List pg. 6 by Slavo Kukic editorial says it is not disputable that the current constitutional structure is untenable and that there are two ways out – one that would persevere in maintaining the status quo and thus lead to the definite dissolution, and the other one which, engrossed in the integration of the state and society, can only end up in the constitutional reorganization of the country. Nationalists will, in Kukic's view, persevere in maintaining of, or slightly modifying, the Dayton state of affairs. Status quo suits followers of the Great Serbia project as it means preservation of the Republika Srpska (RS) and that is why they will try to make impossible any debates on the constitutional restructuring. Instead of entity organization, Croats have advocated canonization on ethnic principle and parity in the institution of the central authority. Yet, from the perspective of the integration of the state and society, as well as of the realisation of all the individual and collective rights, nothing would be gained as this would lead to connecting cantons on ethnic principle and the result would be the same – status quo and dissolution. Kukic also finds the alleged civic philosophy, which neither knows nor acknowledges differences, which are reality, and equally dangerous for this country's future. Differences should not be forgotten or, possibly, deliberately omitted in debates on changing the Dayton Agreement. The author concludes by saying that this country's Constitution cannot be based on supremacy of either civic or national principle, but there must be a constitutional balance between them.
