	Glas Srpski pg. 3 and SRNA – on continuing talks at OHR in Sarajevo yesterday about the CoM reconstruction. Sefik Dzaferovic from the SDA stated that a progress had been achieved despite the fact that their party disagreed with certain issues. He further pointed out that the Federation and the RS parties had different opinions on how many ministries the new state government should have. Sahbaz Dzihanovic from the Working Group stated that the exact number of ministries would be defined in the next day or two. SDS representative Momir Tosic said that number of ministries and the rotation principle are still contentious issues. BOSS Chairman Mirnes Ajanovic said the parties agreed on nine ministries but did not specify which ministries will exist in the CoM. Mario Brkic, OHR Spokesperson, stated that the talks were held in a very positive and constructive atmosphere. He added that the Draft CoM Law was agreed on and the Working Group was going to devise a final version. Avaz briefly reported that the presidency consultation on the establishment of the new government would continue next Tuesday and Wednesday. Dnevni List pg. 1 & 3 'Meeting of OHR and parties that entered new composition of House of Representatives of BiH Parliament was held: Ashdown is imposing law on Council of Comment on establishment of	Ministers?', Vecernji List pg. 5 'Instead of 13, still only 8 Ministries' – Niko Lozancic from HDZ stated that he was pretty satisfied with the last night's meeting: "I have to say that there were a lot of identical stands coming from representatives of all three constituent peoplesI have to stress that there is a possibility that HR Paddy Ashdown proclaims this law due to the lack of time because we shall have the constituting of the BiH Parliament Assembly in ten day and also there is a need to constitute the BiH Council of Ministers." VL reports that after yesterday's negotiations in the OHR premises, representatives of Parliament (parties from both BiH entities) did not reach an agreement on the future structure and the way of decision-making in the BiH Council of Ministers. It was agreed that the Working Group would consider all proposals again and make a final draft law that would be acceptable for all.
Dismissal of 9,300	Vecernji List pg.5 by Zoran Kresic 'Serb radicals bring majority to moderate parties' - soldiers	reads that formation of the new executive authority will not be possible without both the national parties – i.e. HDZ, SDA and SDS – and moderate parties from the Federation – i.e.
	Party for BiH and SNSD in RS. Kresic goes on to say that the issue of compensatory BiH Presidency	mandates resulted in 14 parties making it into the State Parliament, which in turn complicated process of the establishment of authority, and which would hinder the session	efficiency of the authority in the next four years. The author notes that the HDZ, SDA and SDS together have 20 out of 42 seats in the state Parliament and that the answer to them might come in the form of a democratic opposition that could be called the 'Alliance for Reforms'. In that context, Kresic says that one could notice that such democratic alternative would need just one vote to gain the majority, and that vote could come from the Radical Party of RS. Kresic adds that both SNSD and PDP from the RS openly offer an alliance to the Radicals and goes on to say that even "such a stretched majority of election CIPS	losers in the State Parliament's House of Representatives could easily be put into question because of the division within the SDP". In that context, the author says that Sead Avdic , one of few who left SDP, did not leave much room to cooperation with SDP. Kresic concludes Leutar case	the piece by saying that there are two options to overcome the situation, a wide coalition or new elections.
	Avaz pg. 1 & 3 - the Federation and the RS Army will have to dismiss 'in the coming period' 9,300 soldiers. The Federation Army will have to be reduced from the current 13,200 soldiers to 7,000, and the RS Army from 6,600 soldiers down to 3,500 soldiers. According to daily's sources, the reductions are necessary due to constant requests by the NATO and IC officials. Mijo Anic, FBiH Defence Minister, stated that it was up to the new Defence Ministry structures to decide how to dismiss the soldiers – with or without the redundancy pay.
	RS Radio, Vecernji List pg. 1 & 2, Dnevni List pg. 6 - Although originally scheduled as a Bosna	part of the agenda, the BiH Presidency did not discuss the CoM conclusions on the violation of the UN resolution on the arms and military equipment export from BiH. The Presidency's Maating with Masia	Press Office said that due to other obligations of its members, the Presidency also did not Meeting with Mesic	discuss a report on the position of the inmates of the Correction and Penalty Institute Zenica. The Presidency verified a proposed decision on the participation of military monitors from BiH in the UN peacekeeping mission in Congo. 6 members of the RS and Federation Armies – 2 Serbs, 2 Bosniaks and 2 Croats – yesterday went to Congo, Boris Kujundzic , the Presidency's Public Information Officer, said. He announced that on 3rd and 4th of Illegal border	December the Presidency would resume the consultations with representatives of the HDZ, SDS. SNSD and SDP on the forming of the executive authorities in BiH – i.e. the appointment crossing	of the CoM designate PM.
	RS Radio , Avaz pg. 9 'Old passports invalid as of midnight' – The passports with entity insignia expire at midnight, and this will not have negative effects on BiH citizens, the Deputy Minister for Civil Affairs and Communications, Milan Lovric, told Srna. Those who happen to be abroad without a new passport would be issued a travel paper at the nearest BiH consulates in order to travel back home.

Federation BiH
Federation Police Director	Oslobodjenje pg. 6 'The Federation police Director to be appointed today', Avaz pg. 2 'PM Behmen ignoring SDA's view on Miletic's appointment' – responding to a warning by the SDA (see yesterday's media morning brief), FBiH PM Behmen stated that his government 'was not acting within a technical mandate'. As for the appointment of the FBiH Police Director, Behmen confirmed that this should be on the agenda of today's Federation government's session. Another article in Avaz entitled 'FBiH government conducted nine appointments and eight removals' – tells that the Federation government since the new elections and during so-called 'technical mandate' made 17 personnel changes. Also, on Avaz pg. 3 Comment of the Day was written by Adi Hadziarapovic and was entitled 'Hot Mostar session'. The title refers to today's FBiH government's session, which is to take place Financial police investigation	in Mostar. Arapovic claims that the job of any 'technical government' is to realise the budget plans and operation tasks related to the law implementation, but in now way should such government make strategic decisions or make personnel changes. ONASA – UNMIBH has noticed the increase over the recent days of comments made in the media by representatives of political parties on police matters. "We are particularly concerned about
Lagumdzija vs. Avaz	attempts by political players to obstruct the appointment of the Director of Police in the Federation of Bosnia-Herzegovina," UNMIBH said in a statement. Avaz pg. 1 & 8, FENA – Under the 'Exclusive' column, Avaz reported on its front-page on the FBiH Financial Police, which started yesterday, that has a goal of combating illegal Behmen apologises	trade of shares from the privatization – investment funds and stocks from companies where citizens' certificates were invested. The long-prepared action against the above-mentioned illegal actions was apparently sped up by the sudden sale of the large package of shares by the Sarajevo 'Put' construction company to the 'Nasicecement' company in Croatia. Avaz pg. 37 'Lagumdzija failed to appear before the court' – three-member Court Council of the Sarajevo municipality Court II, presided by Judge Aida Hadzimuratovic , held an initial hearing yesterday in the case of Avaz daily against Zlatko Lagumdzija . Avaz filed a lawsuit against Lagumdzija after a front-page text in Oslobodjenje daily from the SDP Main Board entitled 'Merciless campaign by Avaz's tycoons and Mafia'. The article quoted Lagumdzija who insulted Avaz daily. Now Avaz wants 300,000 KM in damages from Lagumdzija for the insulting language and 500,000 KM from Oslobodjenje for reporting the lies. Dnevni Avaz pg. 4 'Behmen publicly apologized to Avaz's journalist Faruk Cardzic' – reports that Alija Behmen opened yesterday's SDP conference with an apology to Faruk Cardzic , Dnevni Avaz journalist (see OHR Media Round-up from November 25,2002). Dnevni Avaz appreciates such a gesture but thinks that apology offered by a person who was not guilty was not enough. Moreover, the magazine is of the opinion that journalists should be protected at all times. As per Dnevni Avaz, it would be best if Zlatko Lagumdzija himself apologized. Moreover, disciplinary measures could be initiated against Sehic and Dzaferbegovic by the IPTF, who issued Sehic's certificate.

Republika Srpska

RS NA constituting	Avaz pg. 8 'Cavic, Osmanovic and Tomljenovic to take an oath', SRNA, FRY Nacional and session	Blic – briefly informs that the RS NA constituting session is to take place today where the new RS President Cavic and his deputies, Osmanovic and Tomljenovic, were to take an oath.
	Avaz pg. 10 'The participation of the SNSD in the government would allow for more efficient
PDP - SNSD	functioning of the RS authorities', SRNA – Mladen Ivanic, the PDP President, stated PDP - SNSD	yesterday that they would support the election of the Assembly leadership which would allow for the constituting of the RS NA. This means that the PDP would support the SDS, but not necessarily that the PDP would establish a collation with the same. "This way we are ensuring the establishment of the new government," said Ivanic. The daily also reported that late last night talks began between the PDP President Ivanic and the SNSD President Dodik. Nezavisne Novine pg.3 - quotes member of the SDS Main Board Milenko Stanic as saying that SDS will form a parliamentary majority with the PDP, SPRS and some smaller parties, but if that is not possible then SDS will form a government in the RS with SDA. He told the paper last night that it is obvious that PDP and SNSD failed to reach an agreement and that the SDS and PDP will make a new parliamentary majority. Stanic said he also expected the SPRS's support, regardless of what SPRS stated, that is, the SPRS will not form a coalition with national parties. The same daily quoted SNSD Chairman Milorad Dodik as saying that by accepting to play the role of a person who is tying the SDA and SDS flags, Mladen Ivanic has put the RS and the whole BiH in a great danger. SRNA news agency also quotes SNSD Chairman Milorad Dodik as saying yesterday afternoon that SNSD will continue to work as an opposition party unless Mladen Ivanic agrees that RS prime minister designate is an SNSD member and that PDP gets four ministerial posts. Dodik said that SNSD would support a PDP candidate for RS NA speaker. According to him, PDP would choose first the position in the CoM and PDP's members would be allowed to keep their positions in RS public companies. Dodik said that SNSD finds completely unacceptable the PDP's offer according to which PDP would get the position of RS PM and that each party (SNSD and PDP) gets four ministerial posts. Glas Srpski pg. 2 – quotes SNSD Vice Chairman Nebojsa Radmanovic who said yesterday that the SNSD would, together with the PDP, either form a Dodik-led RS government or become an opposition party along with other parties that joined the Alliance for Changes. Glas Srpski further reported that the SPRS Main Board decided at yesterday session that SPRS could only form a coalition with progressive and moderate parties at all levels, which excludes national parties. SPRS states that if this is not possible then SPRS will become an opposition party. The RS Vice President Dragan Cavic stated yesterday (Glas Srpski, Blic pg. 7) that pressures that some IC representatives exert on political parties do not contribute to creation of a democratic environment and they may cause a serious political and even parliamentary crisis in the RS. Blic pg. 3 – The SDA has said that it will support a government headed by Mladen Ivanic 'because in that government the SDA will get several ministerial posts".
	According to the SDA Vice-President, Elmir Jahic, the SDA has been offered posts of the RS NA Vice-President, the RS Council of People President, and three-four ministerial posts including that one of these ministers is RS Government vice-president. FRY Nacional pg.
	11 – The US Ambassador to BiH, Clifford Bond , is of the view that SDS should not be part of the RS authorities. "I do not see why SDS should be part of the political equation at all levels of the RS authorities. " According to Bond's words, a coalition formed by PDP and SNSD would be an important step toward the BiH recognition by the RS.
	Blic pg. 7, Nacional pg. 11 – During a meeting with the German Ambassador to BiH, Hans Peters, Prime Minister Mladen Ivanic informed Peters of his party's stance on the necessity for continuing implementation of economic reforms. Ivanic stated that during the talks on the establishment of new authority in the RS and BiH, his party offered a maximum, in regard to the participation of other political subjects ready to support reforms. President of the RS National Assembly, Dragan Kalinic , and German Ambassador Peters agreed during Wednesday meeting that the respect of election results and the formation of the executive
