HR Inzko participates at Princeton Colloquium on “Emerging Security Challenges” held in Liechtenstein

High Representative Valentin Inzko is participating today in a closed colloquium organized by Princeton University and the Reigning House of Liechtenstein on “Emerging Security Challenges“, where he will discuss the challenges presented by the current largescale movement of migrants and refugees through the Western Balkans.

The colloquium is attended by a number of current and former high level officials, including the former President of the European Commission, José Manuel Barroso.
