

Interview: Valentin Inzko, EU Special Representative and High Representative in BiH: “EU test is passed by cooperation with neighbors”

I hope that not only Serbia but all Western Balkans countries, including BiH, will use the opportunity given to them.

From our correspondent: Davor Kovačević

Serbia has intensive contacts with EU member countries in its neighborhood, which is good, of course, because regional cooperation and good neighborly relations are an essential part of the process of Serbia's movement towards the EU, which stands at the position that a stable and prosperous Serbia, fully integrated in the European family, is of great importance for the stability of the whole region. Concerning visa liberalization, a very important issue for the citizens of the Western Balkans, Serbia has a reason to be optimistic. This is corroborated by the statements of the EU Enlargement Commissioner Ollie Rehn, said the High Representative and EU Special Representative to BiH Valentin Inzko in an interview to “Politika”. He also announced that he would visit Belgrade soon, a city which he says “was his first diplomatic destination for Austria, and one's first job and first love are never forgotten”.
