

Lajčák asks citizens: What do you expect from EU accession?

As part of his continuing dialogue with citizens, EU Special Representative Miroslav Lajčák has asked citizens a new question on the www.reci.ba website.

“I am sure and aware that there are many prejudices regarding the European Union, which is perhaps normal, as we were faced with a similar situation in my country while preparing for EU accession. There were all sorts of speculations. I would like to ask you to tell me what you expect from Bosnia and Herzegovina’s accession to the European Union, and what are your greatest fear in this respect?”, Lajčák said in his video message.

Citizens are invited to post their answers over the next two weeks directly on the www.reci.ba website. The EU Special Representative will review all posted opinions and respond to the most interesting comments.

At the same time, Miroslav Lajčák continues to answer questions submitted by citizens through the same website.
