

Accession of Bosnia and Herzegovina to the Council of Europe: Progress Review # 14

The Human Rights Co-ordination Centre was tasked by the Human Rights Steering Board to draft an assessment on the progress to date of Bosnia and Herzegovina towards meeting the accession requirements identified by the Council of Europe in May 1999. In this report the HRCC tracks progress on those requirements pertaining to human rights. The report is intended to provide factual updates but does not intend to provide an opinion on whether or when BiH should accede to the CoE.

Please note that the Council of Europe now distinguishes between the legislation passed by the local authorities and the legislation imposed by the Office of the High Representative, which was not the case in the assessment papers issued before July 28, 2000.

Please contact HRCC if you would like copies of past reports. Please send information/comments to Eleanor Gordon (fax – 387-33-283-501 or email – Eleanor.Gordon@ohr.int) or to Elisabeth da Costa (email – ElisabethC@oscebih.org)

*UNHCR has contributed to, reviewed, and approved sections directly relevant to its mandate. The sections are noted by an asterix (*) in the text*

The “ ” symbol in the text indicates issues where changes have taken place since the last progress review.

1. In Perspective

This section is intended to provide information on the latest developments that relates to the human rights situation in BiH. The issues mentioned in this part of the report are not part of the original list of requirements set by the Council of Europe in May 1999.

- Election Law – On 12 April, the Council of Ministers (CoM) adopted the Draft Election Law and subsequently passed it on to the BiH Parliamentary Assembly. On 17 May, the BiH House of Representatives (HoR) agreed to discuss the Draft Election Law under urgent procedure. At that same session, HDZ introduced its own Draft Election Law into the parliamentary procedure, and the House decided to deal with this Draft under urgent procedure as well. This means that two Draft Election Laws ([1] the Draft adopted by CoM, -which is a slightly amended version of the OSCE Draft prepared by a mixed expert group- and [2] the HDZ law) will be discussed in parallel. CoE Political Rapporteur Laszlo Surjan, who addressed the Parliamentarians during their session on 17 May, passed a clear message to the BiH Parliamentary Assembly, saying they would have to adopt the Election Law latest 22 June as a clear indication that BiH is ready -both in terms of willingness and ability- to join the Council of Europe in 2001. The debate in Parliament promises to be intense since there is, as yet, no political consensus on the Election Law, with some parties claiming that the Draft Law, although fully in line with the BiH Constitution, contains some discriminatory passages that may be in conflict with the European Convention on Human Rights. Meanwhile the process of constitutional reform at Entity level (in order to harmonise Entity Constitutions with the Constitutional Court's decision on the constituent peoples of BiH) is ongoing. As soon as this process is finalised, the results will have to be incorporated into the Election Law (which, for the time being, contains three 'empty spaces').

- Government – In March, Bosnia and Herzegovina saw the establishment of authority on all levels. On March 12, nearly four months after the elections, FBiH got its first government comprising representatives from parties that are reform-oriented and were not in power during the war, led by Social-Democratic Party (SDP) member Alija Behmen. On March 20th, the BiH Parliament House of Peoples was constituted with Ilija Simic of the Croat Peasant Party (HSS) as Chairman and Sejfidin Tokic (SDP) and Nikola Spiric of the Party of Democratic Progress (PDP) as his deputies. On May 23, after the resumption of its third session, the BiH Parliamentary House of Peoples passed, using emergency procedure, 11 of the 16 laws imposed earlier by the High Representative in BiH. Delegates from the Republika Srpska blocked five of the imposed laws, including the Draft Law on the Court of BiH. The BiH Parliament also elected the new Croat and Bosniak members of the BiH Presidency: Beriz Belkic (Bosniak, Party for BiH) and Jozo Krizanovic (Croat, SDP) will join the last remaining member of the old Presidency, Zivko Radisic (Serb, Socialist Party of RS) in the joint leadership of the country. Their election had become necessary due to the resignation of Alija Izetbegovic last October and the dismissal of Ante Jelavic by the High Representative. On April 2nd the BiH Presidency held its first meeting agreeing that their top priority will be the strengthening of the state institutions.
- Croat Self-Rule □ The reporting period was also marked by the unconstitutional and illegal activities of leadership of the Croat Democratic Union (HDZ) and the Croat National Assembly (HNS). On 03 March 2001, the Croat National Assembly (HNS) unanimously decided to create an interim "Croat Self-Rule in BiH". Thereafter, HNS officials instructed Croats and their legally elected representatives to reject the newly-elected Federation Government. Subsequently, on 07 March 2001, the High Representative removed Ante Jelavic as a member of the BiH Presidency and as President of the HDZ, together with three of the other most senior HDZ members: Ivo Andric Luzanski, Marko Tokic and Zdravko Batinic. As part of the ongoing dispute, a number of HDZ officials left their post in the Federation, taking sides with the HNS. The Federation authorities dismissed a number of disloyal Croat officials, including Filip Andric from the Federation Customs Administration and a number of senior officers of the Croat component of the Federation Army. On April 3rd Herzegovina-Neretva Canton Interior Minister Dragan Mandic and 19 other Croat officials in the ministry declared they no longer acknowledged the authority of Federation Interior Ministry. On April 6th, the High Representative appointed an auditor, Toby Robinson, as Provisional Administrator for the Hercegovacka Banka in Mostar. The OHR was in possession of well-founded information that public funds were disappearing from the Bank. The attempt of OHR, SFOR and Robinson to take control of the Bank in Mostar and other towns in BiH on the same day was met with organised violence from Croat extremists. On April 18th, OHR and SFOR re-entered the headquarters of Hercegovacka Banka in Mostar, retrieving the remainder of documents required by the Provisional Administrator. There was no opposition to the second operation, which was carried out with enhanced security. The recent HDZ actions resulted in the High Representative's April 26/27 passing of five Decisions creating a framework for the establishment of law and order across the Federation. The High Representative removed Dragan Mandic from his post as Herzegovina-Neretva Canton Interior Minister, suspended three other officials from the Ministry and transferred the investigation, prosecution and trials of incidents of violence and intimidation during the past month to the Cantonal Prosecutor and Court of Sarajevo.

- Minority-Related Violence – A significant breakthrough was the long overdue issuance of an urban permit for the reconstruction of Banja Luka's Ferhadija Mosque on March 24, by RS authorities. The Human Rights Chamber had requested RS authorities to issue all necessary permits in its June 1999 ruling. The Ferhadija Mosque was completely destroyed by Bosnian Serb forces in 1993. On May 7, the ceremony to mark the commencement of reconstruction was violently disrupted by several thousand people. This was the second time in three days that small groups of extremists have managed to disrupt ceremonies marking the beginning of the reconstruction of mosques in the RS: three days early a similar incident happened in Trbinje. These incidents sparked off a number of minority-related security incidents throughout BiH. On 15 May 2001, the RS Government announced resignations and dismissals of senior officials in Republika Srpska in connection with the Trebinje and Banja Luka riots. They include the RS interior minister, Perica Bundalo, deputy RS interior minister Brano Pecanac, the RS security chief, Dobrislav Planojevic, and the Head of the Banja Luka Public Security Centre, Vladimir Tutus.

2. Highlights of the Reporting Period

- The establishment of a mechanism to ensure access to and recognition of personal documents was upgraded from “unsatisfied” to “partially satisfied” due to the adoption of the draft BiH Law on Recognition of Public Documents by the Council of Ministers (CoM) and, thereafter, by the BiH House of Peoples (HoP) on May

16. However, the process before final adoption is still lengthy and the political will needs to be sustained. Page 15

- Compliance with ECHR – The Draft BiH Law on Associations and Foundations was adopted by the CoM and, thereafter, the House of Representatives (HoR) on April 13, 2001. Page 10
- Human Rights Institutions – The three governments of BiH signed the Agreement drafted by OHR regarding the transfer provisions in Annexes 6 and 7 of the General Framework Agreement for Peace. Page 6
- Education – Following the formation of new Entity governments, regular meetings of the Conference of Entity Ministers of Education could be resumed in April 2001. The new Ministers, especially on the Federation side, signalled their unequivocal will to promote progress towards multi-ethnic and quality education in both Entities. Page 19
- ICTY – Since March 2001, RS Prosecutors began to submit case files of alleged war crimes to the Rules of the Road Unit in The Hague for review, under the 1996 Rome Agreement. Despite this progress, overall co-operation of RS authorities with the ICTY remains very poor. Page 13

3. Human Rights Institutions

BiH

- Commitment to adequate Funding of the Human Rights Chamber, Ombudsperson and Commission for Displaced Persons and Refugees

Not Satisfied. The Council of Ministers of BiH proposed in October 1999 (for the first time) that the funding levels for the Institutions established in Annex 6 and 7 be raised from 200,000 to the level of 600.000 KM. The year 2000 budget provided for 400.000 KM per institution, which remains below 600.000 KM, deemed to be “adequate funding”. Note that the latter sum is less than each Institution pays for nationals’ salaries at BiH salary levels.

By 3 March 2000, the State government had completed outstanding payments towards the total funding committed for 1999 to the Human Rights Chamber, the CRPC, and the BiH Ombudsman. The total amounts are still below KM 600,000 per institution, but do at least fulfil the amount of 200.000 KM per institution, which the state itself budgeted for 1999.

The three institutions received 250.000 KM of the 400.000 KM required by the year 2000 budget.

The 2001 draft budget now provides for a projected amount of 100.000 KM each for the CRPC and the Human Rights Chamber, while 400.000 KM is allocated for the BiH Ombudsman. These amounts are unacceptably low, and do not meet the "adequate" amount required. " To date the State has not paid these amounts.

BiH, F BiH and RS

- Full compliance with decisions of the Human Rights Chamber and recommendations of the Ombudsperson

" Compliance with the decisions and reports of the Annex 6 Institutions is now at 73%.

Compliance with Human Rights Chamber Decisions:

	Implemented	Not implemented	Other
Federation	134 (91 %)	13 (9 %)	18	91 %
RS	44 (73 %)	16 (27 %)	37	73 %
Total	178 (85,7 %)	29 (14.3 %)	55	86 %

Compliance with BiH Ombudsman Decisions:

	Implemented	Not implemented	Other

Federation	248 (70.5 %)	104 (29.5 %)	348	71 %
RS	61 (57.0 %)	46 (42.9 %)	264	57 %
Total	309 (67.3 %)	150 (32.6 %)	612	67 %

	Implemented	Not implemented	Other
Overall	487	189	667	73 %

Note that the term “Other” refers to cases in which (1) the deadline has not yet expired, (2) cases in which all parties to the case deem the case “resolved” although the order or recommendation of the Chamber / Ombudsman was not implemented or (3) cases in which almost all of the requirements for compliance have been implemented, “ or (4) in the Ombudsman’s cases, cases that are still not public for various reasons.

The Entities have not demonstrated an ability to provide any reliable assurance that the many thousands of remaining property repossession cases (see graph above) can be resolved within a reasonable time, and certainly not within the time limits established by law. BiH is therefore not currently in a position to be able to prevent future violations of the Convention, which is fundamental to the European Court of Human Rights system. Regarding this criteria, BiH would be unable to satisfy this compliance requirement used by the Committee of Ministers, as many thousands of cases involving “possessions” (which comprise over 70% of the claims brought to the BiH Human Rights Ombudsman and the Chamber) are not resolved. About twenty percent of applicants to domestic housing bodies have been able to repossess their house or apartment. Until this percentage increases significantly, under Human Rights Chamber / Strasbourg jurisprudence, large numbers of admissible applications could reach the European Court of Human Rights upon BiH accession under the “continuing violation” principle.

BiH

Satisfied. The State (as opposed to the Entities) has been found to be in violation of the European Convention on Human Rights and other international conventions in very few instances, due to its limited competencies under the Constitution of BiH. The State has implemented all orders and recommendations of the Chamber and the BiH Ombudsman in which the deadline has expired.

FBiH and RS

Regarding implementation generally, significant progress has been noted. The Agents, who are undertaking much of the work, were appointed in early 1999. It became clear in the year 2000 that the Agent of the Federation was, in large part, able to comply with the orders of the Human Rights Chamber, and was making progress in the implementation of the recommendations of the BiH Ombudsman. The RS Government has not demonstrated a similar ability, although the rate of implementation increased lately. More work will be required in this respect in the year 2001. Co-operation between the Agents and the Chamber is generally at a good level, and has been supplemented by monthly meetings between the Agents, OHR, OSCE and the BiH Ombudsman.

RS

Partially Satisfied. The RS is not meeting its obligations with regards to compliance with Chamber decisions (currently 73%). The RS has not yet implemented all orders issued by the Chamber in the June 11, 1999 Decision of Islamic Community in BiH v. RS, nor has it implemented the Chamber's orders in the case of Matanovic v. RS, which has been outstanding since 1997. Broadly speaking, implementation has been achieved in most non-property Ombudsperson cases, but only in a minority of cases involving property repossession. In addition, there has been non-compliance neither in a case involving two disappearances " and in the case involving enforcement of a final court judgement (to pay 300.000 DM). Some improved implementation has been seen with respect to a series of property cases in the RS city of Gradiska. In December 2000 the RS Government paid due compensation to 37 applicants, but only capital sums without interest.

FBiH

Partially Satisfied. The Federation is moving towards complete compliance with decisions of the Human Rights Chamber (currently over 90%), although often with the assistance/involvement of OHR, OSCE and other international organisations. As a result of OHR involvement in legislative amendments, the Federation has complied with requirements in several death penalty cases. There are only a few cases of non-compliance with decisions of the Ombudsperson, including length of administrative proceedings, failure to deal with the 1997 "Liska Street Incident", and ill-treatment by law enforcement officers. The issues of individual property and changes to JNA property legislation would not have progressed without OHR involvement. The Federation currently has a limited number of Human Rights Chamber decisions to implement, but there remain many repossession cases filed with the Ombudsperson of BiH in which there has not been implementation.

FBiH and RS

- Establishment of a working group with OHR and Council of Europe for restructuring human rights protection mechanisms in accordance with recommendations of the Venice Commission

Partially Satisfied. Restructuring of the human rights mechanisms is currently under discussion with the Venice Commission, the OHR, the OSCE, the relevant institutions, and State bodies. On 1 April 2000, the Venice Commission adopted a plenary opinion on the future restructuring of the human rights institutions. The report was made public on 16 June 2000. The OHR prepared draft agreements regarding the transfer provisions in Annexes 6 and 7 of the General Framework Agreements " and the three governments have signed it. OHR has also drafted an outline of a law regulating the merger of the Human Rights Chamber and the Constitutional Court, and discussions in this respect have recently begun, in consultation with the Venice Commission.

FBiH

- Passage of legislation on the Ombudsmen recommended by the Venice Commission and guaranteeing their continuing independence

Partially Satisfied. On 28 July 1999, OHR, OSCE, and the Council of Europe proposed a draft to the Federation Minister of Justice. On 28 July 2000, the Parliament of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina adopted the Law on the Federation Ombudsmen. However, problematic amendments affecting the independence of the institution were included. OHR and OSCE have proposed a series of amendments, which were discussed with the Venice Commission and the Ombudsmen at a meeting in Strasbourg on 12 January. Organisations will work with the Federation government in order to ensure that these provisions are implemented.

· The OSCE has been drafting memoranda of understanding concerning the transfer of full responsibility for the Entity Ombudsmen to national authorities. The financial implications of this structure will require international financial support of the institutions in the next five years.

RS

- Establishment of the Ombudsmen as a multi-ethnic institution

Partially Satisfied. The Law on the Ombudsman of the Republika Srpska prepared by the Venice Commission and other organisations, which includes the establishment of the Ombudsmen as a multi-ethnic institution, was adopted on February 8, 2000 and came into force on 17 February 2000. The Law conforms to European standards and is in accordance with the Venice Commission Draft Law. It is important to note that this law remains to be implemented. Implementation will require action on the part of the RS authorities, in particular the provision of substantive support of the RS Ombudsmen in the budget for 2001, and will be closely monitored by OHR and OSCE. The three Ombudsmen have been appointed on 30 April 2000. They are Mr Franjo Crnjac, Mr Darko Osmić and Ms Slavica Slavnić. They have been on study visits on three occasions, prepared their Rules of Procedure and employed and advised its staff appropriately. The Office began its regular work with applicants in November, 2000, and has established four field offices, Bijelina, Foca, Prijedor and Doboј, as well as its headquarters in Banja Luka.

4. Judicial System

- Adoption of legislation to achieve professional and independent prosecutorial and judicial system

The recently adopted judicial service laws, which provide for a non-political, merit-based, structure for the appointment and dismissal of judges and prosecutors, are being implemented in both entities. Laws and regulations providing for a new budgetary and administrative mechanism for courts and prosecution offices have also been suggested in order to prevent the executive from unduly influencing judicial decision making through courts and prosecution office budgets.

Draft entity laws providing for Judicial and Prosecutorial Training Institutes have been prepared in both entities with the assistance of OHR and CoE experts. The Federation law is now pending before the House of Peoples. An Interim Inter Entity Co-ordinating Board for judicial and prosecutorial training has assumed responsibility for the co-ordination of training initiatives in the interim period. " This Board met most recently in Sarajevo on April 26, 2000.

Efforts continue at revising the Criminal Codes and Criminal Procedure Codes in both entities. One of the most important goals of these reforms is to change the structural relationships between courts, prosecutors and police, leading to a clarification of their roles and greater independence for judges and prosecutors. In the RS, the Criminal Code entered into force on October 1, 2000. Reform of the RS Criminal Procedure Code is still in progress and the draft code is being reassessed in the light of CoE comments and the need for a consistent approach across the State and entity jurisdictions.

In the Federation, the second phase of criminal law reform (the first phase was completed in 1998), aiming at further improving the Criminal Code and the Code of Criminal Procedure, is under way, and the CoE has already provided comments on some proposed amendments to the Criminal Code.

FBiH and RS

- Adoption of laws to establish independent selection procedures for judges and prosecutors and priority to adequate judicial salaries

This much-needed reform provides for the establishment of special judicial commissions/councils in the entities responsible for the appointment, discipline and dismissal of judges and prosecutors. Under an 18-month period of “extraordinary review”, the councils and commissions are scrutinising all sitting judges and prosecutors. Parallel to this, and after the 18 months is over, the councils and commissions will review all new appointees for judicial and prosecutorial positions and present the successful candidates to the respective assemblies for appointment.

The laws in both entities have either been imposed, in the Federation, or adopted, in the RS. The implementation of these laws is not part of the criteria originally set by the Council of Europe but is nevertheless discussed as a key rule of law element in this paper.

FBiH

The law was imposed by the High Representative. The draft Law on Judicial and Prosecutorial Service was passed in February 2000 by the House of Representatives and, after the House of Peoples failed to pass it, imposed by the High Representative on May 17, 2000. The High Representative also amended the draft law as passed by the House of Representatives in order to provide the following: better Federal Commission monitoring of the work of the Cantonal commissions; consideration of multi-ethnicity and gender balance within the commissions and the judiciary; initial judicial and prosecutorial training; improved salary structures; and procedural rules for the extraordinary period of review under which all sitting prosecutors and judges are scrutinised. The Federation Commissions for Judges and Prosecutors held their inaugural sessions on 15 and 16 June 2000. The Federation Commissions also adopted provisional Books of Rules. All cantonal judicial commissions have also been established and have begun the process of extraordinary review and review of new appointments.

UNMIBH/JSAP supervised and supported this work. The Independent Judicial Commission assumed responsibility for this and other judicial reform tasks on November 30, 2000.

The new law dramatically increases salaries for judges and prosecutors. After some initial resistance, all cantons have accepted their obligation to pay the higher salaries, and all but two have begun to do so.

RS

Satisfied. The Law on Courts and Judicial Service and the Law on Public Prosecutor's Office were passed by the RSNA on April 24 and 25. The RS High Judicial Council and High Prosecutorial Council are now engaged in the process of extraordinary and regular review. Books of Rules providing detailed provisions for the implementation of the new legislation have been prepared with the support of JSAP and have been adopted by the High Judicial and Prosecutorial Councils. The RS Government has begun paying the higher salaries required by the laws. " The IJC is monitoring the work of the councils to ensure that the structures and principles provided for in this legislation are properly implemented.

5. Constitutional Court

BiH

- Commitment to adequate funding of the Constitutional Court in a manner which sustains its independence and implementation of its decisions

Unsatisfied. The situation has improved but remains unsatisfactory. The sum of 1.516.430 KM approved by the Assembly for 2001 covers the material expenses of the Court, but still does not allow paying all the judges of the Constitutional Court salaries as high as those in the Entities. Also, from the approved budget for 2000 the sum of 54.000 KM was never transferred to the Court.

6. Compliance with the European Convention on Human Rights

BiH

- Adoption of Immigration and Asylum Law****

Partially Satisfied. The House of Peoples, the second Chamber of the BiH Parliamentary Assembly, based on a draft elaborated by OHR, CoE and UNHCR, adopted the Law on Immigration and Asylum on December 3, 1999. The Law was published in the BiH Official Gazette on 23 December 1999 and entered into force on December 31, 1999. The Law establishes the legal framework for the admission and stay of aliens, as well as the criteria and procedure for determining refugee status and granting asylum in BiH.

However, implementation can occur to a very limited level only, as necessary by-laws still need to be elaborated and adopted and instructions at the State and Entity level issued. As the legislation represents a complete structural and administrative reform, the elaboration of such by-laws is taking time. Moreover, a number of legislative amendments will be required in other legislation. Further, a number of bodies foreseen by the law must still be created and funded. These include an Asylum Unit fully qualified in refugee law and capable of undertaking refugee status determination within the Ministry for Human Rights and Refugees and an Appeals Panel under the Council of Ministers. Entity-held records regarding decisions on entry and stay of aliens made prior to the entry into force of the law to the Ministry for Human Rights and Refugees must still be transferred to the State Ministry, and Entity departments must be strengthened in order to handle immigration related issues. OHCHR (Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights) and the Ministry for Human Rights and Refugees have established a joint working group to address the drafting of the by-laws. " However, the change in Government has entailed a change not only at the Ministerial level but also below. For one, the Assistant Minister for Immigration and Asylum has resigned. While a new appointment has been made, there has been no progress made in the elaboration of the by-laws.

BiH, FBiH, and RS

- Adoption of Law on Associations and Foundations respecting independence of Non-Governmental Organisations

Partially Satisfied. The Draft State level Law on Associations and Foundations has been finalised by OHR and sent out to the Ministry of Civil Affairs and Communications. " Based on several meetings between OHR and the Ministry of Civil Affairs and Communications the draft has been forwarded to the Council of Ministers, which adopted the draft. The draft has been sent to the State Parliament and adopted on April 13 by the House of Representatives. It will be necessary that the House of Peoples adopts the draft before the Law on Associations and Foundations is finally passed on the state level.

Concerning the draft Law on Associations and Foundations in Republika Srpska (RS), the draft law passed the first reading without debate in July 2000. However, the draft was sent to OHR for comments, which, in response informed the Republika Srpska National Assembly (RSNA) that the Law was not in compliance with the BiH Constitution. " OHR, ICNL and RS NGOs met in April with the RS Ministry of Administration and Local Self-governance in order to harmonise the draft with the CoE standards and best regional practice. The Ministry accepted the suggestions and is going to present the draft before the RS Government which will then propose the draft to the RSNA.

With respect to the Federation Law on Associations and Foundations, OHR, OSCE, USAID, ICNL and NGO representatives have had several meetings with the Federal Ministry of Justice and Ministry of Social Affairs, Refugees and Displaced Persons in order to finalise the draft. The draft has been finalised " and the Ministry of Social Affairs, Refugees and Displaced Persons has agreed to relinquish the Law on Humanitarian Organizations and Humanitarian Activities which is not in compliance with the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) and international standards in this field. The draft is supposed to be proposed to the Federation Government by the Ministry of Justice and forwarded to the Federation Parliament.

RS and FBiH

- Establishment of groups to examine compatibility of legislation with ECHR, and regular consultation with OHR and CoE on legislative initiatives

Partially Satisfied. The Ministry of Justice of the Federation and the Ministry of Justice of Republika Srpska established ECHR compatibility groups of five members each in 1998 (FBiH) and 1999 (RS) respectively. There is a co-ordinator in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. However, while some members of the groups have taken part in a study visit to Hungary to discuss the compatibility procedure, the groups have not met officially or started their work of drafting reports assessing the compatibility of domestic legislation with the ECHR. The Council of Europe has therefore recently decided to change the composition of the groups. There is consultation with OHR and CoE on legislative initiatives, but this is predominantly initiated by the international organisations rather than by government ministries.

RS and FBiH

- Legislation on Conscientious Objection and Alternative Service

Unsatisfied. Legislation in both Entities falls short of ensuring the right to conscientious objection and alternatives to military service, both regarded as essential components of the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion (article 9, ECHR and Recommendation No. R (87) 8, issued by the Council of Ministers of the Council of Europe in 1987).

OHR and CoE initiated discussions regarding proposals for amending this legislation in September 1999, but there has been no follow up from the relevant entity authorities.

“ In April this year OHR, OSCE, CoE, UNHCR and SFOR held a meeting and agreed to re-launch discussions with the relevant authorities as regards the legislation that regulates the conscientious objection and alternative service in order to harmonise it with the CoE standards.

RS and FBiH

▪ Revised Law on Internal Affairs

RS

Unsatisfied. The RS National Assembly passed amendments to the Law on Internal Affairs in its session on 14 and 15 July, 1999. After a preliminary review of the latest version of the Law, UNMIBH raised a number of concerns, including inconsistencies with the Dayton-Paris Peace Accords and the European Convention on Human Rights. UNMIBH proposed a full review of the Law and requested the expertise of the CoE, which completed a review in early 2000. In addition to the concerns raised previously, the CoE found that the Law lacked specificity in many areas, and that the Law delegated a significant amount of authority by overly deferring to non-legislative Books of Rules. Although the RS National Assembly was to have considered a draft revised law in mid-2001, the RS authorities have not yet begun the revision process, and there has been no substantive discussion of revisions with OHR or UNMIBH. Political considerations appear to have halted the revision process for the near future.

FBiH

Unsatisfied. The Federation Constitutional Court decision of March 25, 1998, removed a number of articles in the Federation Law on Internal Affairs. The Court reasoned that the provisions in question unconstitutionally granted powers to Cantonal Ministries that were exclusively within the domain of Federal authorities. Additionally, the Court found that the powers granted to the Federation Deputy Minister of Interior exceeded those envisioned by the Federation Constitution. Although amendments to the Law have been proposed, the Federation Parliament has failed to pass legislation that would bring the Law into compliance with the Constitutional Court decision. The voided articles have not had the force of law since September 1998.

At the request of OHR and UNMIBH, CoE has provided extensive comments on the current law; OHR and UNMIBH have raised additional considerations to Ministry officials. The issues raised include the need for clarity in outlining the duties and responsibilities of law enforcement officers; relations between Federation and Cantonal Ministries; distribution of authority between Ministry officials; and the need for strengthening provisions related to disciplinary responsibility.

Ministry officials have addressed some of these in a draft revised law. Discussions of the draft have revealed disagreements over the need for provisions aimed at de-politicising the police.

BiH, F BiH, RS

- Law on Citizenship****

BiH

Imposed by the High Representative and subsequently adopted by the Parliament. The BiH Law on Citizenship was imposed by the High Representative and entered into force January 1, 1998 on an interim basis, pending adoption by the BiH Parliamentary Assembly. On July 27, 1999 the Law was adopted by both Chambers of the BiH Parliamentary Assembly and was subsequently published in the Official Gazette on August 26, 1999.

Outstanding. The Madrid PIC urges BiH to conclude, with the assistance of the High Representative, bilateral agreements on dual citizenship with neighboring countries as soon as possible, but no later than June 30, 1999. To date, no such agreements have been concluded.

RS

Satisfied. Amendments to the Law on Citizenship, ensuring full compliance of the RS Citizenship Law with the BiH Citizenship Law, were published in the Official Gazette RS no. 17/2000 on 27 June and entered into force on 5 July 2000. The RS Government committed itself to pass the necessary regulations for the implementation of the Law. In particular, such regulations will enable those former SFRY citizens, who under the Law are entitled to BiH and RS citizenship, to apply for citizenship. As background information, the RS Citizenship Law was passed by the RS National Assembly in December 1999 and entered into force December 14, 1999.

In addition, the RS National Assembly passed the Law on Changes and Amendments to the Law on Ministries, (published in RS Official Gazette, no. 15/2000). The amendments stipulate that citizenship and basic registration shall be taken over by the Ministry of Administration and Local Self-Government.

FBiH

Not satisfied. The adoption of the FBiH Law on Citizenship has been problematic. A working group comprised of representatives of OHR, UNHCR, the FBiH Parliament and the Council of Europe agreed upon the draft Law in April 1998. All provisions of the Law were in compliance with the BiH Citizenship Law. However, the FBiH Ministry of Interior subsequently, unilaterally, and without the knowledge of OHR revised certain provisions of the draft Law delegating the decision-making competence from the FBiH to the Cantonal level. After OHR intervention the Ministry of Interior reverted to the previous draft in compliance with the BiH Law and, in the spring of 2000, forwarded the draft Law to the FBiH Parliament. The draft was then returned to the FBiH Ministry of Interior to incorporate acceptable amendments given by delegates in the FBiH Parliament. The FBiH Ministry of Interior completed that task and resubmitted the draft to the FBiH Government on 18 September 2000.

“ The new Federation Parliament recently decided to resubmit certain laws that were proposed by the Bicakcic Government to the new Federation Government for its approval, including the FBiH Law on Citizenship. As a result, the Law will again be reviewed by the Government before resubmission to the Parliament for final review. OHR has requested that the Prime Minister of FBiH provide a firm date by which the Law will be resubmitted to Parliament and has stressed the need for its urgent adoption. Adoption is indeed crucial, since many former SFRY citizens who took up permanent residence in BiH before 1998 became eligible for BiH citizenship as of 1 January 2000 and are unable to do so in the absence of a Federation Citizenship Law.

RS

▪ Adoption of the Criminal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure

Partially satisfied. Efforts to revise the Criminal Code and Criminal Procedure Code are ongoing. The 11th session RS National Assembly passed the proposed Criminal Code on June 22, 2000 and the Law entered into force on October 1, 2000. The Criminal Procedure Code has undergone review by Council of Europe experts and will be prepared with members of an inter-agency working group for presentation and discussion to the RS working group in order to provide consistent approach across State and entity jurisdictions. It is expected that this will be placed before Parliament in the latter half of 2001 for final passage.

7. ICTY

▪ Full co-operation with the ICTY

Unsatisfied. To date, the only arrests of alleged war criminals, indicted by ICTY, have been facilitated by international armed forces. The limited involvement of the local authorities in this respect and their lack of co-operation has not changed since the beginning of the assessment exercise.

“ Since the inception of ICTY, 100 individuals have been publicly indicted by The Hague Tribunal. Sixty-seven public indictments remain outstanding, with 26 indictees remaining at large. Of the remaining 42 indictees, international armed forces have seized 20, 14 have voluntarily surrendered and 7 have been arrested by national police forces (outside BiH).

“ In the reporting period, one individual indicted by ICTY for alleged war crimes was apprehended by international armed forces. In total, international armed forces have apprehended 22 indictees. In addition, 21 have either voluntarily surrendered or been apprehended in third countries. According to a statement made by ICTY on May 23, all 38 fugitives (26 public indictments and a recently disclosed 12 sealed indictments, at present) are believed to be currently either in the RS or FRY. Whilst not all indictees are of Serb ethnicity, this does indictae the relative lack of co-operation of RS and FRY with ICTY.

Under the 1996 Rome Agreement (‘‘Rules of the Road’’), signed by the signatories of the Dayton/Paris Peace Agreement, representatives of BiH Entities agreed to submit all cases of war crimes suspects to the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY) prior to arrest by national authorities. While national authorities have complied with the Agreement, it has only been in this reporting period that concrete signs of RS co-operation have been seen. Since March 2001, RS Prosecutors submitted 30 case files to the Rules of the Road Unit in The Hague for review. Prior to this occasion, the ICTY had only ever received 2 case files from the RS for review since the Agreement was signed. Despite this progress, overall co-operation of RS authorities with the ICTY remains very poor.

9. Property Laws (Return of Refugees and Displaced Persons)***

Full co-operation and compliance with Annex 7 on Refugees and Displaced Persons of the Dayton Peace Agreement in the Implementation of the property laws

Unsatisfied. From January through March of 2001, the rate of implementation in BiH accelerated at a rate of approximately 1% per month. At this continued rate of implementation, it would take roughly six more years to fully implement the property laws. This is not acceptable, especially as some municipalities have shown that it is possible to reach better implementation rates by consistently increasing it by over 3% per month.

The rate of implementation continues to vary widely throughout BiH □ with from less than 5% to over 50% of claims having been realised in various municipalities to date. In Cantons 4 (Zenica-Doboj) and 6 (Central Bosnia) several municipalities are nearing completion of the implementation process, in direct contrast to areas where progress remains slow: the Croat-majority areas in Cantons 7 (Herzegovina-Neretva) and areas of the Eastern RS including Bratunac, Foca/Srbinje, Srpsko Gorazde and Visegrad.

Outstanding. Local authorities are still, in many cases, failing to take full ownership of the implementation process. In many cases, both in the Federation and in the RS, local authorities have provided neither adequate resources for the full functioning of housing offices, nor sufficient alternative accommodation. " Local officials also fail to address the problem of housing officials who fail to undertake their responsibilities. There continue to be many illegal acts encountered in implementation of the property laws, including illegal allocations of private property, looting, violence against housing office employees and illegal revalidations/privatisations, which have not been adequately addressed by local officials. There also remains a considerable problem with public officials occupying claimed space.

FBiH and RS

- Revised laws to guarantee the right to return of individuals whose apartments have been permanently reallocated to another person

Imposed by the High Representative. The High Representative issued a Decision on April, 13 1999, by which new permanent occupancy rights were 're-converted' to temporary occupancy rights, to be resolved through the administrative claims process. This Decision has been accepted by both Entities and published in the respective Official Gazettes. Implementation has begun slowly. However, as the category of new permanent occupancy right holders includes many well-connected people, there is strong resistance to evictions and strong international pressure is required to achieve any progress.

FBiH and RS

- Establishment of a mechanism to ensure access to and recognition of personal documents

“ Partially Satisfied. An advisory committee prepared draft legislation regarding access to public administrative documents. The draft BiH Law on Recognition of Public Documents was adopted by the Council of Ministers and, thereafter, by the BiH House of Peoples on May 16. As such, the assessment of this requirement was upgraded from “unsatisfied” to “partially satisfied”, although the process before final adoption is still lengthy and the political will needs to be sustained.

In relation to documentary evidence for the property claims process, access to documents remains problematic in many parts of the country. Claims without supporting documentation are wrongfully refused at the filing stage, whilst copies of documentation remain extremely difficult or expensive to obtain from cadastral administrations and property book services. A number of municipal housing authorities have no access to the cadastre or housing records, either because they have been destroyed or because they are held elsewhere (usually across the IEBL).

FBiH and RS

- Revised Law on Housing Relations

Satisfied in the Federation and imposed by the High Representative in the RS. Amendments to the problematic provisions were adopted by the Federation Parliament in January 1999, and imposed in Republika Srpska by a Decision of the High Representative on 13 April 1999. Following these amendments, it is no longer possible to cancel the occupancy rights of individuals if displaced. Prior court decisions cancelling occupancy rights on this basis have been annulled.

FBiH and RS

FBiH

- Full implementation of the Decisions of the Human Rights Chamber concerning former Yugoslav National Army (JNA) apartments

Partially Satisfied. A Decision of the High Representative on July 1, 1999, agreed in advance with the Federation Government, establishes criteria for determining which former occupants of JNA apartments should be considered displaced persons with the right to return. For those granted the right to return, procedures have been established for recognising their pre-war contracts of sale. For those not permitted to return, they will be reimbursed for any money paid towards the purchase of the apartment. Where the individual is unable to reach an agreement with the Ministry of Defence, the responsible court will have full jurisdiction to adjudicate.

The recognition of contracts of sale of those who remained in possession of their apartment is proceeding satisfactorily. Repossession of JNA apartments, however, has made little progress due to insufficient administrative capacity in the Sarajevo Cantonal Housing Department.

RS

- Establishment of an effective property claims process

Partially Satisfied. This accession requirement refers explicitly to the establishment of offices to receive claims, including staffing, funding and other resources. The issue of implementation is discussed above and is not part of this specific requirement.

The claims process in the Republika Srpska is now roughly complete, as in the Federation, with the similar exception of cases of private. There are no further reports of individuals being completely prevented from making their claim in the RS in recent months. However, more adequate staffing levels have only been achieved as a result of the assistance from the US Government: the RS Government must now take steps to ensure the continuing provision of resources after the budget support programme ends.

11. Education

Overall progress in the current education system in BiH remains unsatisfactory for a number of reasons, including lack of material resources, lack of access or facilities for disabled children and the gender imbalance that exists in relation to male-dominated directorial positions in schools. However, the major problem lies in the effective division of the education system along ethnic lines, which acts to inhibit sustainable minority return and ethnic re-integration; further, it encourages future destabilisation through radicalising, and thus polarising, another generation of citizens. To address this issue the International Community focuses on excising offensive materials from text-books, on promoting multi-ethnicity and tolerance in the classroom, and on gradually working towards the adoption of a joint core curriculum.

- Substantial progress in the amendment of textbooks, including withdrawal of all offensive materials by beginning of 1999/2000 school year

Partially satisfied. Some progress has been made towards removal of offensive materials from all textbooks. This ongoing exercise, involving extensive negotiations with local education authorities and substantive work by local teams of experts followed by consultations with an International Independent Commission, is an interim step, to be followed by substantial further improvement of textbooks to ensure that they eventually meet European standards. Continuous pressure from the International Community remains necessary. Extensive spot checks carried out in schools throughout the country between late October and late December (whereby approximately 10% of all the schools were actually visited) revealed that the level of compliance is generally acceptable. However, compliance is better in the Federation than the Republika Srpska, and better in primary than secondary schools. Schools following the Bosniak curriculum have the highest compliance level, followed closely (except in some problematic mixed areas of the Herzegovina – Neretva and Central Bosnia Cantons) by schools with the Croat curriculum. Schools following the Serb curriculum have the lowest compliance levels, partly because the Ministry issued a different instruction from that issued by OHR, leading to the surreptitious introduction of a new set of textbooks into the Republika Srpska in September 1999. Those textbooks were not reviewed by the expert teams of the other constituent peoples of BiH before they were actually introduced.

- Review of the education system in order to eradicate all aspects of ethnic segregation

Unsatisfied. In most cases, the education system in BiH is effectively entrenched along ethnic lines. Eradication of all aspects of ethnic segregation can only be achieved over the long term, through continuous pressure from the International Community and growing involvement of the civil society in the education system, provided the political will exists on the part of the national and local authorities. Under the Federation constitution, education is within cantonal competence, except where the municipality has a different majority ethnic population from the canton as a whole, when it becomes a municipal competence. In the Republika Srpska, however, education is an Entity responsibility. In the Federation, the Deputy Minister continues to see ethnic segregation as necessary to protect the rights of the Croat constituent people, whose numbers were reduced from 750.000 before the war to about 400.000 now. In this respect, OSCE and the International Human Rights Law Group have reported several cases of physical segregation.

A symposium on the curricula of the “national” subjects was held in Sarajevo on February 7 and 8, where the participants agreed to adopt the Swiss model. The plan, which allows a great degree of autonomy for each canton, also requires a sophisticated level of co-ordination and exchange between the cantons and between the Entities. The symposium was designed to pave the way towards a sustainable education system. No joint curriculum can be envisaged in the short term. However, a process has now been initiated, which will produce gradual change that should eventually lead to a more integrated education system in BiH on the basis of accepted European standards and norms.

On May 10, 2000 the Entity Ministers of education endorsed this strategy by signing both a Declaration (formulated as a strategic plan) and an Agreement (formulated as an operational plan). The Agreement and Declaration itemise the short- and medium-term reforms to be implemented throughout BiH, with a view to desegregating existing education systems, harmonizing curricula and textbooks, establishing mechanisms for recognising diplomas, certificates and professional qualifications, and thereby facilitating the return of displaced families throughout the country.

Under the terms of the 10 May 2000 Agreement, a "Curriculum Harmonisation Board" was formed. Several meetings were held by its members and Entity Ministers are now called upon to make decisions regarding the concrete measures to be implemented by September 2000. Obstructionist tactics by the RS Minister and the Croat Deputy Federation Minister have been observed lately, particularly with regard to the country-wide introduction of "curricular modules" on language, literature, culture and religion, reflecting the traditions of the three constituent peoples, which have to be taught to all children in BiH, as well as the introduction of the second alphabet. Negotiations were then taken to a higher political level and eventually, at an Entity Ministers' meeting on September 26, 2000, the Croat Deputy Federation Minister agreed to allow the teaching of the second alphabet on the terms that had already been agreed to by the two other sides. The three Ministers also agreed to proceed with the substantive preparation work of the curricular modules. UNESCO agreed to take the lead in this respect, and assigned one curriculum expert to this task, which is financed by OHR. It is anticipated that the 36 modules which have to be developed should be completed by March 2001.

The International Community has also focused these past few months on resolving a certain number of school crises in the Federation (Stolac, Vares, Bugojno Gornij Vakuf, Vitez et al).. While the recent Agreement provides the necessary framework for solving such cases, direct political intervention and pressure remains indispensable. Thus, the primary schools of Stolac, Vares and Bugojno are now shared by the Croat and Bosniak children. In addition, an agreement was recently signed in Mostar on the highly symbolic Gimnazija which, in the future, will be shared by the two communities. Furthermore, the Central Bosnian Canton recently issued a decision on the rational use of school facilities throughout the Canton which mandates the implementation of the Bugojno agreement principle of " two schools under one roof " as an interim solution to tackle the serious school accommodation problems that the Canton is faced with. A gradual process of reintegration is thus being made possible but utmost vigilance remains necessary.

- Higher education developments

The Higher Education Co-ordination Board was finally established formally in June 2000. It had been under discussion for over two years, and World Bank funding and EU technical assistance was conditioned upon its creation. In the first stage, its main task will be to adopt its work plan based upon the recommendations contained in the World Bank/ Council of Europe report, which identified the need for a long term strategic plan between the BiH universities to modernise their under-funded and under-managed system. The recommendations acknowledge the crucial importance of reforms to the university system for the future of a sustainable BiH.

- Short term perspectives

While there is no alternative to the slow process of the regular meetings of the Conference of Entity Ministers of Education, new political instruments have to be developed that will accelerate this process. Among them is the development in 2001 of a modern legal framework for primary and secondary education, which could eventually be imposed, as well as more focused political attention.

Furthermore, efforts are now underway to establish “a regional taskforce on education” involving BiH, Croatia and the FRY, in order to accelerate the adoption of European standards and devise a common approach to education geared towards reconciliation and peace building at school.

The four religious leaders met on February 19, 2001 and acknowledged the importance of the teaching of a new subject presently called “culture of religions” and expressed their desire to give their input to what should be taught under this subject. They will each nominate an educational expert who will forward their ideas and proposals to the Office of the High Representative, which will co-ordinate them. OHR and the religious leaders agreed to speedily proceed on the development of the subject. The decisions on the exact designation of the new subject and all implementation details will be taken immediately afterwards in close consultation with all concerned parties, including the Inter-Religious Council.

▪ “ April □ May 2001 developments ”

Following the formation of new Entity governments, regular meetings of the Conference of Entity Ministers of Education could be resumed in April 2001.

The new Ministers, especially on the Federation side (3 Croat majority Cantons – out of 10 – can be considered as not involved at the present stage), signalled their unequivocal will to promote progress towards multi-ethnic and quality education in both Entities. OHR and other IC organisations emphasised the need to fully implement the items of the 10 May 2000 Education Agreement in a first stage.

The recent events in Trebinje and Banja Luka, as well as the backlash which they provoked in various parts of the country, if anything, testify to the urgent need to educate both the young and adults of this country about the basic values of a civilized, democratic society, and about religious tolerance and the rule of law. Schools, it was agreed, can and should play a major role in achieving ownership of such values.

Components of a large scale reform of education in BiH, supported by a sustained and co-ordinated effort, were discussed and adopted, such as:

- the short term development by OHR and the CoE of a modern legal framework for Primary and Secondary education;
- the short term development of a modern legal framework for Higher Education via the work of the Higher Education Co-ordination Board;
- the ambitious proposal by the EU of a medium term sector wide reform of education and professional development scheme over 5 years (also for Primary and Secondary education);
- the short term operationalisation of the Standards and Assessment Agency (which has been delayed by almost 1 year);
- a public campaign targeted towards the stakeholders of the education system and civil society organisations in order to foster public support for the reform of education and moves towards multi-ethnic education;
- the need to make visible, publicise and make available to all schools and education professionals the results and valuable contributions of all the education development projects and schemes funded and carried out these past years by numerous local and international NGOs and associations involving hundreds of BiH teachers and trainers (travelling education fair, public information campaign) at all levels of education;
- the need to continue the series of professional seminars on history teaching and the development of new history curricula (UNESCO and CoE);
- the need to organise in Sarajevo in autumn 2001 a meeting of the Conference of Ministers of Education from South East Europe in order to review the impact of work undertaken within the Stability Pact and focus on issues of common interest, such as education strategies to prevent brain drain.

UNMIBH/IPTF Human Rights Office: The existence of International Police Task Force is mandated by Annex 11 of the Dayton Agreement. Under Security Resolution 1088, the IPTF's work includes "investigating or assisting with investigations into human rights abuses by law enforcement personnel." The main objectives of the Human Rights Office are to: investigate human rights violations by law enforcement agents; design remedial measures to correct such violations; and to monitor and ensure the implementation of corrective measures. To implement these objectives, the Human Rights Office carries out investigations into serious incidents of police misconduct and conducts comprehensive inspections of law enforcement agencies to address persistent endemic institutional deficiencies. The Human Rights Office is comprised of 145 International police and 17 international civilian staff, deployed throughout the country.
