Podrinje

Four years after signing of the Dayton Peace Agreement, approximately one million of BiH citizens still have not returned to their pre-war homes. The most difficult situation regarding the process of return is in the Podrinje region (around the river Drina). Inhabitants of the area claim that both, the BiH Federation and the RS authorities, have been preventing them from returning to their homes. Some positive moves have been happening only during election campaigns. Demining of the region and reconstruction of infrastructure, two main preconditions for return, have not even been started yet. The report on this was produced by OBN reporter, Anes Alic.

Suceska (Srebrenica Municipality)

Before the war, approximately 3,700 people lived in Suceska in the Srebrenica Municipality. Some 300 pre-war inhabitants visited their houses yesterday, OBN reporter from the area, Alma Hadziefendic, confirmed. Approximately 70 inhabitants submitted their claims for reconstruction of their pre-war houses to international organisations. The returnees said that the local authorities in the Tuzla Canton were against their decision to return to their homes.

Banja Luka

Board of refugees and displaced persons "Ostanak" from Banja Luka, has asked for an extraordinary session of the Town Assembly in order to achieve permanent solution for the status of refugees in the town, OBN reporter from Banja Luka, Nedeljka Breberina, confirmed. The Board has been gathering signatures of citizens on the streets of Banja Luka.

Sarajevo

The Spokesman of SFOR in BiH said that restructuring of SFOR in BiH was progressing as planned. The restructuring will be made in the period between November this year and April next year. He added that people should not believe some texts from the press about stopping of SFOR troops' reduction until the end of elections scheduled for next year, due to security reasons. The report was produced by OBN reporter, Vedran Persic.

Foca (Srbinje)

A report on the biggest wood factory in the RS. The company "Maglic" from Foca (Srbinje) is the best example of a company which succeeded in overcoming problems and developing production. The General Director of the Company, Zdravko Begovic, said that they started with an aggressive breakthrough to the market, including the market of the BiH Federation. The report on this was produced by OBN reporter, Damir Kaletovic.
