UN Security Council demands fulfilment of IPTF decisions	BHT – UN Security Council (SC) calls on BiH authorities to ban BiH Courts to consider returning to work police officers that were de-certified by the UN IPTF. UN SC also calls for abolishment of all decisions, which already allowed certain de-certified police officers to gain get their former jobs. BiH authorities would directly violates human rights is they obey to these demands, comments BH TV. On this issue, the HR Paddy Ashdown stated: “If BiH does not fulfil its obligations in accordance with instructions given by UNSC Chair, there will be nothing from integration into EU and NATO. NATO will not change its rules because of BiH and I do not understand why BiH Presidency did not undertake any actions regarding this for three months now.” BiH Presidency Chair, Sulejman Tihic , explained: “According to this, BiH authorities, assemblies, parliaments should adopt laws that will ban courts to protect individuals from decisions on de-certifications and which will ban these persons from work in law enforcement bodies.”
BiH Presidency responds to HR’s accusations	Glas Srpske pg 2 ‘There were no obstructions’ by Srna ; EuroBlic RSp4 ‘There were no obstructions’; by J.D. , Oslobodjenje pg 10 ‘We were not obstructing IPTF decisions’, Dnevni Avaz pg 2 ‘IPTF decisions have not been obstructed’ – The BiH Presidency yesterday released a press statement following HR’s, Paddy Ashdown , statement. BiH Presidency is of the view that its activities did in no way obstruct implementation of IPTF decisions related to certification and re-certification of policemen. On this, Presidency notes that the session dated 9 March discussed this issue and asked some more information of this complex issue from the BiH Mission in New York . Hence, Presidency would discuss this issue at its next session. Presidency further notes that it has previously warned BiH institutions they must comply with international duties.

Reactions to latest HR message re RS cooperation with ICTY	BHT – RS President Dragan Cavic stated that additional removal of 90 or more RS officials because of lack of cooperation with ICTY would not mean abolishment of Republika Srpska. Abolishing of RS is an illusion. RS is 1.2 or 1.4 million people. Who can abolish that? RS is 20 000 dead, RS is every Serb in RS who doesn't want BiH without RS, short and clear", says Cavic (RTRS also carried the statement). After the HR Paddy Ashdown's statement "work or it will hurt you a lot", in RS it is believed that if the entity's cooperation with ICTY does not improve by the end of this year, 90 more RS officials could be removed. Igor Stanojcic from SNSD believes that "any radical OHR move before elections would have, without doubts, impact on the election results and that would represent direct OHR's interference into the elections race." Dragi Stanimirovic from SDP commented: "Yesterday's Ashdown's statement shows that coalition of national parties and the HR have no solutions for any serious problem in BiH". BHT unofficially found out that government negotiates with several indicted persons of lower rank on their voluntary surrender, but without results. RTRS – Reporter notices that BiH Presidency Chairman Sulejman Tihic did not speak on mistakes of the Presidency but did not fail to speak of RS as the barrier on BiH path towards Europe. "RS authorities are not cooperating. Since Dayton agreement onwards they have not arrested any war criminals, they have not processed any war crime cases. They have not raised any indictments. You are witnesses; so far 317 mass gravesites (were discovered). However, not a single legal procedure has been started with regard to this. I think that the HR is completely right and he is just performing his duty. It is a pity that former HRs did not insist on this as well", says Tihic.

RS President Cavic condemns Ashdown's statement as "human rights violation"	RS Radio, FTV, Glas Srpske pg 2 'The Hague is the hardest test' by S. Radjen –Todorovic – Addressing reporters on Thursday in Bijeljina, RS President Dragan Cavic characterized latest warning by High Representative Paddy Ashdown that the authorities of the RS, even after the June dismissals, failed to take serious action to prove there is progress in cooperation with the Hague tribunal as a drastic violation of human rights. Cavic nevertheless admitted that only full cooperation with the Hague Tribunal could improve the international position of the RS. "The future of this country cannot be built on human rights violations or political brutality, although we are taking the threats of the high representative very seriously. However, even without those threats, we are aware of the necessity for cooperation with the Hague tribunal," Cavic said. "I have proposed a resolution to the National Assembly. The National Assembly resolution constitutes a clear political commitment by all political parties and the RS parliament to cooperation with the Hague tribunal. What else is left? That those who are paid to do a job actually do their job – primarily the government and the Interior Ministry in the framework of the government, as well as the relevant prosecutor's offices and the relevant court. They should all do their job. That means that the obligations imposed on us by the Hague tribunal today constitute the only hindrance and burden on the RS. If we want to eliminate, once and for all, the sanctions, pressure, dismissals, political suppression, political retaliation and everything to which we have been submitted by the international factor in BiH, that is, both OHR and SFOR, because both have been violating human and civil rights in the alleged implementation of their mandate.... They will very soon be faced with many charges before the Strasbourg-based European Court of Human Rights. However, at the same time, the RS institutions must do their job. Only then can we be fully justified in asking the international community: What are you doing? Why are you taking measures and why do you exert such brutal pressure in the country you want to see in the European Union? We have started carrying out our duties," Cavic said. Cavic voiced dissatisfaction with the fact that RS interior minister had still not been appointed, which could motivate representatives of the international community to exert more pressure. In the course of the day, Cavic also held closed-door talks with representatives of the RS Veterans' Organization, who expressed their concern about the growing political pressure on the RS. Furthermore, the veterans voiced the expectation that representatives of the RS authorities would stand up to that pressure in the framework of their constitutional powers and the Dayton concept for the functioning of BiH. Dnevni List pg 3 'Cavic on HR's warning' not signed, Oslobodjenje pg 3 'No way the Constitution is going to be changed', Dnevni Avaz pg 5 'Both OHR and SFOR abuse

Jadranko Prlic, Slobodan Praljak, Milivoj Petkovic, Berislav Pusic, Bruno Stojic and Valentin Coric will most probably stay in Croatia while waiting for the trial to begin. Dnevni List, pg 5 'Six indicted Croats arrive to Zagreb', mentioned on front, by NINA, Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 3 'Six BiH Croats arrive to Zagreb', by S. Dukic, Vecernji List, front 'Six come back home' and pgs 2-3 'Trials to six maybe in Zagreb', by Zoran Kresic also covered the issue. VL carries the Croat member of BiH Presidency, Dragan Covic, as announcing that trials to Prlic and others could take place either in Sarajevo or Zagreb. "They will wait for the trials at home. We expect and believe that they could be tried in BiH or Croatia because they have dual citizenship", said Covic prior his departure to The Hague where he will be meeting the ICTY President, Theodor Meron, and Chief ICTY Prosecutor, Carla del Ponte. Covic did not say whether he will request anything like that in talks with Meron and del Ponte.

VL interview: Minister Kristo on cooperation with ICTY	Vecernji List, pg 2 'Documents were not crucial for release', by Valentina Rupcic – carries an interview with the FBiH Justice Minister, Borjana Kristo, who is on the BiH Croats' delegation that is travelling to The Hague today. Minister Kristo notes that the release of the 6 BiH Croats on pre-trial release is not connected to collecting of Herceg Bosna documents, saying the ICTY is an institution that does not bargain. Regarding today's talks with the ICTY President, Theodor Meron, and Chief ICTY Prosecutor, Carla del Ponte, Minister Kristo says the Croat delegation will try to present its cooperation (with the ICTY) and its position on the issue. She also says that there are no reasons for any removals of officials or for additional pressures, announcing that del Ponte will be presented an analysis of activities, which will prove the seriousness dedicated to the cooperation with the ICTY. Inset entitled 'Documentation for new indictments' notes that according to sources close to the ICTY, the ICTY Prosecution has requested documentation of the former Herceg Bosna in order to complete new indictments, since all investigations have to be completed and indictments raised by end of 2004.
DL and VL say BiH Croats cooperate with ICTY	Dnevni List, pg 2 'Confirmation of cooperation with The Hague', by Ivica Glibusic – carries an op-ed in which the author argues that the departure of a senior Croat delegation to The Hague for talks with the ICTY President, Theodor Meron, and Chief ICTY Prosecutor, Carla del Ponte, prove the full cooperation of the BiH Croats with the ICTY. The author notes that the BiH Croats have so far fulfilled all the conditions set forth by the ICTY, and according to some information, the ICTY will not be issuing any new indictments against the BiH Croats. Vecernji List, pg 2 'No reasons for sanctions', by Miso Relota – prior to today's talks between senior Croat delegation and the ICTY President, Theodor Meron, and Chief ICTY Prosecutor, Carla del Ponte, and amid reports that some 20.000 documents related to the wartime work of Herceg Bosna had been recovered thanks to efforts of the Croat leadership in BiH, the author notes that the Croat leadership has again shown its full dedication to the cooperation with the ICTY.
SDS versus SNSD and cantonisation of RS	EuroBlic RSp2 'SDS opposes to cantonisation of RS' by Srna – SDS Banja Luka yesterday released a press statement, where it expressed a firm determination in the fight against cantonisation of the RS, whose model is announced by SNSD President, Miload Dodik, through the so called community of municipalities, Banja Luka-Laktasi-Gradiska (whose centre Laktasi would finally become, in formal and legal manner). SDS further calls on citizens of RS to prevent a catastrophe hanging above Banja Luka .

Sadovic on demands for removal of SDA ministers from RS Government	EuroBlic RSpg5 'The destiny of ministers from SDA uncertain' by Rajna Radosavljevic – Tarik Sadovic, President of SDA Caucus at the RS NA, is of the view that if Ministers of SDA sitting at RS Government were removed, the parliament majority could be established with votes of Serb Radical Party, which would mean that RS Government is taking a course with right orientation. Accordingly, the international community might oppose to this, says Sadovic. He further stressed: "If SDA ministers were removed, SDA Caucus at RS NA would go to opposition, and the increased role of radicals would result in new political blackmails and diverting from pro-European course." According to EuroBlic inset RSpg5 'Matijasevic leading RS MOI?', the candidate for position of RS MOI is Darko Matijasevic, currently BiH Military Attache at NATO in Brussels. His name had already gone for vetting procedure at OHR, according to EuroBlic.
Ivanic: Foreign Ministry not responsible for BiH Presidency members inability to agree on ambassadors	Dnevni Avaz cover page 'Tihic's positions sometimes look like rumours', pg 5 'Foreign Ministry not responsible for BiH Presidency members inability to agree on ambassadors' – In a response to Sulejman Tihic's criticism against BiH Foreign Ministry officials absence from the Presidency sessions, BiH Foreign Minister Mladen Ivanic said that certain BiH ambassadors had not been appointed not because of this absence but because of a lack of agreement on the issue amongst the Presidency members.
Feral Tribune on names of streets in Mostar, BiH	Feral Tribune, pgs 18-19 'Mile Budak's alleys', by Ivan Lovrenovic – amid requests aimed at erasing of names of streets in Mostar, which were named after Mile Budak and Jure Francetic (Ustasha officials during WWII), the author argues that the requests are overdue, not devoid of daily politics prior to local elections and exclusively raised by the Bosniak side, which shows typical Bosnian feature, lack of self-criticism. Still, the author says that, in principle, the requests do not diminish the political, historic and ethic justification to erase the names of the streets. The author also notes that the Croat political mentality and the public in general is not showing signs of changes because it "still lives in a closed world of historic shadows and political ghosts", since no public, political, intellectual or religious figure had enough political intuition and moral intelligence to explain to the public that the selection of Budak and Francetic for national heroes is fatal and idiotic.

D. Stojanov elected Prime Minister of Alternative Government	Dnevni List pg 9 'Dragoljub Stojanov Alternative Prime Minister', mentioned on cover, by D. Polovina-Mandic and Vecernji List pg 4 'D. Chairman of the Alternative BiH Presidency Mersed Serifovic stated that they decided to take this step since the current authority is implementing reforms very slowly and it has not found the way out from the current difficult economic and social situation. Stojanov himself did not want to talk about the first moves that he will take as a Prime Minister of the Alternative Government since he does not have the Alternative Government yet. Sarajevo media also reported on the issue.

It reminds that both son and father had always denied that Bakir has any political ambitious, claiming that the truth is that "Alija Izetbegovic subjected everything to one and only cause: to create such system or such chaos out of Bosnia and Herzegovina and Bosniak people in which, after he would leave the authority, nobody will be able to rule but his son Bakir!" Avdic also accuses Bakir Izetbegovic of criminal activities, and of using his father's rule to create a power in which nobody could in the past 10 years could become rich without "Bakir's blessing." Article concludes that Alija Izetbegovic dedicated the last few years of his life placing ambitious, but non-competent, officials in SDA making a space for party to be headed by his son. "It is absolutely irrelevant when that would happen officially: Today, Bakir Izetbegovic, on billions of grounds and criteria, is a Chief of SDA and new leader of SDA's, that is of majority, part of Bosniak population!"

BiH House of Peoples accepts differentiated VAT rates	Herceg BosNA Radio, FTV, RTRS, Oslobođenje pgs 4-5 'Support to three VAT rates', Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'There is no amnesty for war crimes', Nezavisne Novine pg 4 'Support to VAT Law' by Agencies; Glas Srpske pg 2 'A passing grade to Tax', FENA – BiH House of Peoples on Thursday supported the principles of the draft Value Added Tax (VAT) Law, which foresee differentiated tax rate, in accordance with the recommendation of the Parliament's Commission for Financial and Administrative Affairs. This means that instead of a single tax rate, as proposed by the BiH Council of Ministers, there will be three tax rates – standard, lower and zero. The heights of the tax rates have not been defined. They should be known after the relevant commission prepares a new report in the period of 15 days, taking into consideration parliamentary discussion and the new amendments that might be submitted in this period. Dnevni list, pg 4 'Extended list of goods with lower VAT rate', by Danka Polovina-Mandic also reported that the House of Peoples of the BiH Parliament supported the principle that the future VAT in BiH has three different rates. The chamber left 15 days for submitting of additional amendments and proposals related to the rates, especially because the chamber adopted its commission's proposal on standard rate fixed at 20% and lower rate at 10% (BiH HoR proposes standard rate of 18% and 8% respectively). Osman Brka, Hasan Cengic and Halid Genjac were against the decision of the HoP, believing that the Law on VAT should be enacted in its entirety as soon as possible. The HoP also extended the list of goods that is to be taxed at lower rate. The list includes detergent, shampoo, soaps, children footwear, used cars etc.

supports a single VAT rate
in BiH

Herceg Bosna Radio, Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'No one can guarantee the prices will be lower' – European Commission delegation believes that introduction of a single VAT rate is the best for BiH. According to the EC, several rates and too many tax free transactions will increase necessary administration and make VAT implementation even more complicated. EC emphasises that if certain products have 0 rate in order to help most vulnerable social categories it does not necessarily mean the product itself will be cheaper. In most cases it will mean that the profit of companies that deal with 0 rate products will increase.

Oslobodjenje pgs 4-5 'Protection of poor people but bigger possibility of fraud at the same time', mentioned on cover 'Bigger possibility of fraud' carried EC Spokesman Frane Maroevic's statement on the issue.

Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'Many rates just opens space for tax evasion' quotes economic experts including Izudin Kesetovic, who is also a deputy to the FBiH Parliament, and Mehmed Jahic, Director of the FBiH Bureau for Accounting and Audit, who basically support initial introduction of a single VAT rate.

RS/Serbian

principles

Nezavisne Novine cover and pg 4 'Several levels of VAT make more space for frauds' by N. Krsman, I. Simundza; EuroBlic RSp1 'Two eggs can be double-taxed' by Nedeljka Breberina – Frane Maroevic, the Spokesperson of the European Commission to BiH, yesterday stated that "EC is of the view that the most efficient VAT rate would be the one with 0 rate for import solely. The process of tax exemption would be in accordance with 6th Directive of the EU on VAT. Several rates would only complicate the process of VAT introduction."

Maroevic also noted that several-rates VAT system would increase possibilities for tax evasion and frauds.

NN brings some comments on VAT.

Dragoljub Stojanov, Professor with Sarajevo Economic Faculty, is of the view that the BiH Parliament has reached a good decision. He noted: "Discord of the international community with this decision is their full right, which is grounded on their picture of us as incompetent and ignorant. A single VAT system represents collection of tax over the backs of people. Accordingly, those who love the people would not make such a decision."

Rajko Tomas, economic analyst, is of the view that decision of BiH Parliament is of political nature, even very wise during pre-election activities. He noted: "The fiscal theory says that VAT has better effects if the rate is single. It can be implemented with several-rate system, but then effects are not so good and malversations become more evident."

Dusko Jaksic, Director of the Economic Institute in Banja Luka, is of the view that introduction of three-level VAT in BiH would represent a blow to budget incomes, noting that this measure is not so bad since it represents a sort of social protection of citizens. He notes it is not a problem to make any correction (regarding VAT Law) after first implementation results are seen. (EuroBlic RSp1 'Jaksic: Burden from citizens transferred onto the budget')

According to EuroBlic, Borislav Bjelic, external associate at the Banja Luka Faculty of Economic, is of the view that: "A single VAT rate would be a right solution under conditions that BiH's gross national income would equate with or be close to those at EU states. Since we do not have it, our Parliament made a right decision."

(Glas Srpske pg 3 'One rate, calm sleep' by N.Z. – GS carries report on press release issued by EC, wording the statement reported above by Frane Maroevic.)

The author says that since the Mostar Municipalities ceased to exist the whole city of Mostar has to pay off this loan now and the Croat side is not satisfied with this solution. SD also says that according to some unofficial information the option according to which the Federation of BiH Government will treat the Kuwaiti loan as a debt and pay it off is being discussed, however, the final agreement on this issue has not been reached yet.

Dani pgs 24-26 'Radomir Njegus: RS Director' by Dzenan Karup-Drusko – "Radomir Njegus, RS Police Director, is a protector of organized crime in smaller BH entity!" reads the introduction of the article which further accuses Njegus of being connected to drug mafia, theft of vehicles, and protection of Radovan Karadzic. Despite all his crimes, says Dani, Njegus "purges" police removing all those opposing him. Article connects him to the irregularities in the work of RS Interior Ministry laid down in the audit report, and reminds of his recent clash with journalist. Calling him the "most important official in RS" Dani wonders who protects Njegus, adding that "it is known that for more than a decade this high police official in RS has permanent support of both OHR and SDS." Commenting to his recent statement that soon charges will be pressed against those who "lead dirty hunt against him with an aim to destabilize RS MoI", article concludes that the main target is a leader of the opposition in RS, Milorad Dodik, who recently accused Njegus of criminal activities adding he has evidences for such claims. "Affairs around RS Police Director last for months now. Longer than police investigations in this country. So far, it seems, only BiH Court is interested, which – Dani learns – will give opportunity to SNSD leader to present his evidences," concludes the magazine.
