SB says it possesses one of the key documents to be used in the trial, which is an official information submitted by FBiH Customs Administration on 6 May 2002 to than FBiH Prosecutor Marinko Jurcevic later used as a ground to raise 90 charges against owners of Lijanovic company. Document allegedly proves that Covic brought unauthorized decision to abolish the taxes on frozen meat waste enabling Lijanovici to avoid paying taxes [such decision could only be brought by CoM]. All 90 cases were lost by Lijanovici before the FBiH Supreme Court, however BiH Constitutional Court returned them back to procedure due to procedural irregularities.

Luzanski, Batinic: "We were right about Croat Self-Rule"

Oslobodjenje pg 6 "We were right about the Croat Self-Rule", mentioned on cover, by Az. Kalamujic – The leading officials of the "Croat Self-Rule", Ivo Andric Luzanski and Zdravko Batinic, told daily that "they were absolutely right when they entered the front for protection of Croat interest in BiH in 2001."

Day after Prosecutor John McNair dropped charged against them and five other officials for jeopardizing integrity of FBiH in 2001 [by establishing the Croat Self-Rule], Luzanski, who at the time was a Vice President of the FBiH, says he would "do the same thing for Croat equality today." Despite the fact he established that activities of Batinic, Luzanski, Ante Jelavic, Miroslav Prce, Dragan Curcic, Marko Tokic and Petar Milic did act towards the change of constitutional organization in FBiH, McNair was not able to prove that the top officials in this 'project' were ready to use force. "[Self-Rule] was political fight, and not a crime, which we proved in the investigation," said Luzanski and Batinic, who also claim that establishment of the third entity is the best solution for BiH.

Vecernji List, pg 5 'Today I look at Croat self-rule with sadness', by Misijana Brkic-Milinkovic – Carries an interview with Marko Tokic, one of indictees in the 'Croat self-rule' case against whom the BiH Prosecution has decided to withdraw the indictment. Commenting on the whole issue, Tokic says the indictment was politically motivated from the very beginning, claiming that the people involved in the 'Croat self-rule' always worked within the boundaries of the BiH Constitution, which is evident in the documents of the 'Croat self-rule' that have been published on the internet.

FBiH Supreme Court confirms verdict against Ivan Bender	Vecernji List, pg 2, mentioned on front ‘Ivan Bender gets four and half years of prison’, by Robert Soldo, Dnevni List, pg 5, mentioned on front ‘Four and half years confirmed for Ivan Bender’, by N. VL: Foreign judges take oath thus violating BiH Constitution	Vecernji List, pg 7, mentioned on front ‘By taking oath foreign judges violated Constitution’, by Zoran Kresic – The author notes that international judges that work in the BiH Court “took a controversial oath” in Sarajevo on Thursday when they swore to respect the Constitution of BiH and its laws, despite the fact that the legislation in BiH stipulates that judges and prosecutors in BiH have to be BiH citizens. The author also claims that the ceremony was done without the media covering the event, wondering whether the judges have been installed in BiH with a purpose that had been planned in advance. Furthermore, the author notes that the Constitution of BiH does not envisage the institution of BiH Court, underlining that the BiH citizenship is a prerequisite stipulated in the BiH for someone to become a judge or a prosecutor. The author also notes that foreign attorneys cannot be engaged in cases before the BiH Court, which springs the author to say one can label it as double standards, saying it is interesting that the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown, is concerned in his letter to the Chairman of BiH CoM, Adnan Terzic, in which he calls on BiH authorities to implement the Constitution.

BHT: De-certified police officers announce lawsuit against Ashdown	BHT Mirela Cosic – De-certified police officers announce filing of legal suit against the High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, and BiH before the Human Rights Court in Strasbourg. They also announce blockade of the border crossing Izacic. Police officers, de-certified by the UN IPTF, are the only ones who didn't get possibility of revision of those decisions after the HR announced last week revision process of removal decisions issued by OHR in period from 1998 to 2003. Human rights experts believes that there is no reason to treat de-certified police officers differently than those whose removals will be reconsidered by the OHR. "More than 70% of our labour disputes are blocked under pressures that comes from the OHR and BiH Presidency and Council of ministers", stated representative of the Association of de-certified police officers, Ramo Suljic. Former HR Wolfgang Petritsch stated for BHT that no one should be punished forever (BHT quoted statement from last Thursday). At the press conference in Sarajevo, Ashdown also underlined that revision process involves only the OHR's removal decisions. BH Dani weekly magazine Director, Senad Pecanin, said that exclusion of de-certified police officers from this process, which received court decisions that state their innocence, represents use of double standards.

interview:
Meddzida Kreso on war crimes trials in BiH

Dnevni List, pg 9, mentioned on front 'BiH Court could be left without cases', not signed – Carries an interview with the President of BiH Court, Meddzida Kreso, in which she talks about the future of war crimes trials in BiH. Asked as to when the war crimes trials could start at the BiH Court, Kreso says that when it comes to the 'Meakic and others' and 'Stankovic' cases, on which she attended a status conference in The Hague, it all depends on the ICTY and subsequent appeals of the parties involved. However, Kreso says having in mind that decisions in the ICTY are usually taken slowly, the trials could start in one month time plus the time for parties to appeal. Speaking more about the transfer of cases from the ICTY onto the BiH judiciary, Kreso says the BiH Court could be left without cases in case the indictees "run away" to the neighboring countries, which would represent a complete debacle for the whole project of war crimes trials at the BiH Court. Asked whether the BiH Court can demand the extradition of the indictees from the neighboring countries, Kreso says it cannot demand, however it can request, however there is possibility that a state in question rejects the request in case an indictee in question has the dual citizenship. In order to get to the indictees, says Kreso, the three countries (BiH, SCG and Croatia) have to reach agreements, stressing it is foremost a political issue.

Dani pgs 28-29 'Our problem is dual citizenships' by Emir Burlovic, Ljiljan pgs 22-24 'Because of dual citizenship we could be left without war crimes indictees' by Elirija Hadziahmetovic – Magazines run the interview with Kreso along the same lines.

TV Hayat broadcast story on start of war crime trials in BiH

TV Hayat Semsudin Skejic – Starting from March 11, BiH is enabled to process war crime cases. It seems as if BiH courts are going to have a lot of work since over 10.000 persons have been involved in war crimes. The ICTY has allowed indictments against 661 persons to be raised. The ICTY representatives say that the ICTY has allowed over 800 cases, but it is stated that the processes were going to take too much time. Over 100 cases have been processed within 9 years. “It seems as if BiH judiciary was not ready to process that great number of cases and it is clear that it is a great job. There were probably some political reasons for several cases not to be opened”, said the ICTY representative to BiH, Matias Hellman. Hellman adds that it is difficult to have impartial trials before the domestic courts, due to the security issue. Through the survey on corruption, Transparency International find out what BiH citizens think about BiH judiciary. BiH citizens believe that the judiciary is corrupted. “According to surveys, judiciary is one of the 10 most corrupted BiH institutions. Over 55 % citizens believe that almost all judges and prosecutors are corrupted. In that sense we should think about war crime cases. Most of the things in BiH are being politicized”, said the Spokesperson to Transparency International, Srdjan Blagovcanin. The OSCE mission has been supervising the process of having war crime cases processed before the domestic courts for over a year, and it is going to state its report on observations it made, within a month.

Paravac's office replies to RS POWs accusations re his attendance at WCC inauguration	Dnevni List pg 8 'Dukic: Paravac is trying to exert political pressure against us' by M. Battarelo carries that after President of the RS Prisoners of War Association Branislav Dukic criticised Serb member of the BiH Presidency Borislav Paravac because he attended the opening ceremony of the BiH War Crimes Chamber (see yesterday's OHR BiH Media Round-up), the Paravac's office issued a press release which says that 'as a Head of the state Paravac attended the opening ceremony, which was more of state than political character. Such role implies obligations that can be pleasant and unpleasant to a person.' The press release also says that Paravac has always supported the work of the aforementioned Association and he showed it by his presence to a failed attempt to place a memorial plaque in front of barracks 'Viktor Bubanj'. Commenting on this press release, Dukic said that all reactions coming from the Paravac's office serve a political showdown and covering up of the truth and those who are willing to talk about the truth.

Former senior RS intelligence officer: Those who searched for Hague fugitives were sacked	Nezavisne Novine pg 6 'Those who searched for Hague fugitives were sacked' by V. Popovic – NN carries an interview with Predrag Ceranic, former assistant to director of RS Intelligence Agency (OBS), who was sacked on 31 December 2004. he speaks about the establishment of the Initiative Board of Association of former intelligence officers who were sacked at the end of 2004. The Association is led by Edhem Besic, former executive director of FOSS. Ceranic says the purpose of establishing this Association was to provide legal aid to all those sacked in order to achieve respect of their rights. He warns: "The most recent screening of personnel at State Intelligence and Security Agency has resulted in removal of all those suspected of being involved in radical Islamic elements present in BiH. Furthermore, under the veil of infamous security check, all persons suspected of being engaged in locating war crimes suspects were also removed. On this, Dzuvo, Zaric and Cosic respected the principle that they should not interfere in others' job, meaning each of them made decisions on status of their compatriots." He comments on press question regarding silence of OHR regarding this issue saying that international organisations are presently not interested in the issue as to how the state agency would operate, but instead they were just interested in seeing the institution established.

Croatia slams
BiH's
"discriminatory" decision on free trade accord

RHB, BHT, FTV, Oslobođenje pg 7, mentioned on cover 'Diplomatic note to BiH Government', Dnevni Avaz pg 12 'Zagreb says Croatia is being discriminated' – The Croatian government on Thursday expressed deep dissatisfaction with the BiH Council of Minister's decision to temporarily suspend parts of the free trade agreement with Croatia, describing it as discriminating against Croatian exporters. The government decided to send a diplomatic note to representatives of BiH in Croatia and the Croatian Ambassador to Sarajevo, who will deliver it to the Bosnian authorities. The decision of BiH's Council of Ministers refers to 23 agricultural and food products and imposes customs duties on milk and dairy products, and meat and some meat products. The Croatian Government said it expected that the decision would be withdrawn in the shortest possible time and that joint efforts would be invested to find the best possible solution for both countries. The decision affects only Croatian exporters, and not those from other countries, despite the fact that none of the 23 products to which it refers receive production or export subsidies, according to the Croatian Government. The Council of Ministers passed the decision in anticipation of a bilateral meeting, thus jeopardizing the positive efforts that have been made so far and burdening relations between the two countries, the Government concludes. Dnevni List pg 7 'BiH CoM's decision discriminating' by I.G., Vecernji List pg 16 'BiH Government discriminates Croatian products' by D. Knezevic, Slobodna Dalmacija pg 4, mentioned on cover 'Croatian Government sent protest note to BiH' by O. Romljak also covered the issue.

Bulatovic – The article refers to the decision of BiH CoM to suspend a part of the Agreement on free trades between BiH and SiCG and to introduce customs duties for goods imported from Serbia. Inset 'Minus at the budget' carries a comment of Serbian Minister of Finances Mladjan Dinkic as saying the decision actually derived from problems with the budget BiH is facing and he thinks this would surely worsen diplomatic relations between the two countries. Serbian Minister for Diaspora Vojislav Vukcevic has stated they would ask from all competent ministries to influence BiH authorities to change the decision. Glas Srpske pg 2 'Ministers did not come' by Srna – carries a statement of Serbian Minister of Trades Bojan Dimitrijevic, who also announced they would ask for abolishment of the decision and he said such a decision is unsustainable and harmful to trade cooperation of the two countries adding 'this must have been some kind of a misunderstanding'. Nezavisne Novine pg 4, announced on cover 'Zagreb and Belgrade demand that CoM decision is withdrawn' by N. Krsman also carries Dimitrijevic's reaction. Representative Jozo Krizanovic stated that the session was interrupted since the BiH CoM representatives did not submit the information on temporary suspension of certain provisions from the Free Trade Agreement with Croatia and Serbia and Montenegro and because of irresponsible approach of the BiH CoM towards the HoR. Krizanovic added: 'The session will continue when the BiH CoM secures certain information that the Parliament demands from them.' RTRSDragana Knezevic – The decision of BIH Council of Ministers on suspension of some items of free trade contract with SCG and Croatia provoked reactions in region and in BIH. BIH House of Representatives discontinued its session on Thursday because none of representatives of BIH CoM were present. Pink, BHT, Hayat, FTV, Oslobodjenje pg 5, mentioned on cover 'February pensions for disabled persons, families of killed soldiers not reduced', Dnevni Avaz pg 10, mentioned on cover 'February invalid pensions not reduced' – FBiH Government decided not to reduce monthly veterans/disabled soldiers pensions, in spite of the World Bank (WB) request to do so. Economy experts say that the international finance institutions requests were expected, because BiH have no economy strategy, said reporter. Discussion on internal debt settlement: RS Government requests for review of foundations to invoke vital national interests clause Pink, Oslobođenje pg 2 'Criteria to invoke vital national interest clause' – FENA – Representatives of the RS Government on Thursday have requested from the international representatives in BiH to review the criteria for launching the vital national interest procedure in order to ensure that this procedure is not abused. In this context, the RS Government indicates that vetoing the amendments to the Law on the Executive Procedure by the Bosniak delegates in the RS Council of Peoples has disabled unblocking of the accounts of municipalities Trebinje, Vlasenica and Sekovici, whose functioning has been brought into question by claims for paying wartime damages. The RS Assistant Minister of Finance, Zarko Mionic, told the press that if the Council for Protection of Vital National Interest within the RS Constitutional Court rejects the amendments to the Law on the Executive Procedure, the RS Government would approach alternative solutions. Namely, this could be done by amending the Law on Administration and Local Self-government by which the municipalities would be provided with certain assets and it would be prescribed to which percent a municipality can compensate the wartime damages, i.e. the internal debt. Another solution could be to include the municipalities into the positive Law on Settling the Internal Debt, said Mionic. The matter of the internal debt was considered at the meeting in Banja Luka with participation of representatives of the Entity ministries of finance, administration and local self-government, justice, and economic relations with foreign countries, as well as the representatives of the OHR, OSCE, and several international financial institutions, the IMF, the World Bank and the U.S. Treasury. The RS National Assembly has tasked the RS Government to find the solutions for settling the municipalities' internal debt by March 31.

Author notes those do not mark any sort of alienation, but instead a part of well taught scenario, inspiration for which HR has found in centuries long colonial policy of his home land. The author is also critical of HR for having failed to cooperate with SDP of BiH and SNSD, but instead has turned towards nationalistic parties in BiH, which all of his predecessors viewed as being mainly responsible for one of the bloodiest Golgotha of this state. The author stresses this sort of politicians suits HR for two reasons. The first is that they can extend their mandate and purpose of stay in this state, a job well paid. The second one is that the so called reformists often prepare eulogies, which prepares grounds for fruitful continuation of his career within top circles of European policy.

Feral Tribune: RS Helsinki Committee Chair Dizdarevic comments on situation in BiH, role of HR Ashdown	Feral Tribune, pg 29 'Ashdown is stalling Bosnia', by Igor Lasic – Carries an interview with the re-elected President of BiH Helsinki Committee, Srdjan Dizdarevic, in which he, whilst talking about the situation in BiH and the role of the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown, in the country, says the problem with the HR is that he acts in BiH as a viceroy, in other words an imperial representative, who intends to keep the strings in his own hands and who does not show readiness to open dialogue and partnership with others, instead he imposes decisions and removes people. "The problem is in the man, not in the institution of the High Representative. Ashdown obviously wants to permanently stay in BiH, and wants to make it dependant on international factors. It would be sufficient that he acts as an interpreter of the Dayton agreement, and as an aide, but in this relation, things are obviously not moving, the country is becoming more dependent (...) It is clear that we do not have a firm political scene that would counter influences of the IC, a scene that would set itself as a partner, and which would lead the country to independence", says Dizdarevic.
