DA: HDZ to chose Covic's successor at secret mtg in Sarajevo
tonight

Dnevni Avaz cover splash 'Decision to be made at secret meeting in Sarajevo', pg 2 'HDZ chooses Covic's successor at the confidential meeting' by H. Orahovac – DA learns from the member of HDZ leadership that the HDZ representatives in BiH Parliament will decide on replacement for the removed Dragan Covic at the confidential meeting to be held in Sarajevo tonight. In addition to the HDZ reps in BiH House of Representatives, the meeting will also be attended by four HDZ reps in BiH House of Peoples, and party's chair Barisa Colak. A source says the agenda will also include the discussion on the overall Croat position in BiH. Underlying once more that the HR Paddy Ashdown's decision was illegitimate and unconstitutional, the source says: "We will try to raise this issue through the institutions of the system, and decision on what to do is up to the will of others in legal authorities... Everybody in BiH must realize that BiH Parliament is the place to bring key decisions for BiH."

Jovic notes that even if the BiH Parliament concludes that the removal was illegal and anti-constitutional, such conclusion will not be binding for the HR. "Such conclusion would be a satisfaction to Dr. Covic that the Constitution and European convention on human rights were violated in the case of his removal and such decision would represent a position of the top legislative authority in BiH", says Jovic.
All BiH Croat parties to try to reach consensus on Constitutional changes	Dnevni Avaz pg 5 'Bosniak and Croat parties have consensus on change of Constitution' by Husein Orahovac – DA brings an interview with Marko Tadic, the chair of HSS party, who initiated the meeting to be held in Sarajevo on Tuesday where all Croat parties in BiH will meet to reach a consensus on the constitutional changes. Tadic is determined that this can be done, adding that Bosniak and some civic parties in RS could also reach a consensus on this issue. Talking about possible difference in opinions between the Croat parties, Tadic explains that all agree the BiH and local governance must be strengthened, however the issue is what would be in middle between the state and the municipality – region, canton or something else.

He added that reports that Chair of CoM, Adnan Terzic, wants to remove him to overtake control in Brod oil refinery were just pure speculations.

of HR in BiH

Nezavisne Novine pg 6 'BiH authorities still cannot function without High Representative' by Radio Free Europe – The Radio Free Europe carried a program reporting that Borislav Paravac and Sulejman Tihic, members to BiH Presidency, share the view that BiH authorities cannot function without High Representative ten years after the Dayton Agreement had been signed. Paravac said in a statement to RFE that the function of HR should gradually fade away instead of getting stronger. Zlatko Lagumdžija, SDP of BiH President, is of the view that it is necessary to bring the role of HR into partnership relation with the local authorities, adding: "What is evident is that departure of HR Paddy Ashdown should not equate with departure of the institution of HR. the fact is that Ashdown would be remembered as a person, who has destroyed the partnership between local political forces and international community, and who is also to be partially blamed for having given the licence to false reformists ." Hans Joachim Gizmann, Director of the Hamburg Institute for peace research and security policy, is of the view that HR has over pronounced authoritative role. Claiming that majority of domestic politicians also label HR Paddy Ashdown as the main culprit for the situation in the country, DL carries the Head of SDA Caucus in the FBiH House of Representatives, Semsudin Mehmedovic, who says it is unacceptable that some OHR officials are interfering into staffing issues in the BiH security agencies. According to him, that is most evident in the functioning of SIPA and OSA, because certain officials of the OHR have the biggest influence when it comes to appointment of staff.
DL: OHR influences staffing issues	Dnevni List, pg 2 'Accepting responsibility', by Ivica Glibusic – Commenting on the situation in BiH, foremost about the role of the OHR in the country, the author claims that the OHR is trying to give itself credits for everything good in BiH, whilst domestic authorities are being ascribed with all negative events. The author goes on to say that irrespective of the IC accepting or rejecting responsibility for events in BiH, the IC has influenced the appointment of staff in state institutions. In that context, Glibusic says the decisive factor was the loyalty to the OHR, not the expertise. The author concludes it was time the OHR and other international organization leave the job to domestic institutions.

VN int with Dodik: 'Out to the open with all affairs'

Vecernje Novosti pg 5 'Out to the open with all affairs' by Slobodan Pesevic – Daily carries an interview with SNSD Chairman Milorad Dodik in which he assessed the current political situation in RS as depressive. He thinks there are no signs of exit from such situation, adding: "Perhaps [Paddy] Ashdown and others, after they have removed several persons two-three months ago and caused crisis, have found it suitable to have a sterile RS Government of mixed composition." He claims ruling parties are trying to keep their chairs at any cost, even if it means accepting reforms that are devastating RS, i.e. bringing it into a position of complete independence from "mood" of the international community. With regard to next general elections, Dodik thinks these would be the least fair elections because the ruling parties would fight to remain at their positions in order to keep many affairs from coming out to the open. He assesses SNSD has the support of 35% of voters in BiH. He explained his most recent claims with regard to the breach in Serbian financial transactions system in 1996, on which occasion, according to Dodik, Radovan Karadzic had a great amount of money for himself. Regarding the situation in BiH, Dodik says the authorities do not know what they want and have recently started raising issues of war past, noting: "Newspapers are full of top stories related to surrenders to the Tribunal, bringing of persons before courts...This is a tragic image of current functioning of BiH, therefore this country has no chance to enter European integrations in next ten years'."

Comments on DPA	EuroBlic pgs RS 2-3 'Good ideas, worn solutions' by Rajna Radosavljevic – Daily carries extracts from interview Novi Reporter published with Steve Mayer, Professor at the Washington University for National Security, says that the western politicians have imposed Dayton Peace Agreement as a solution for BiH, not in order to establish a just state, but instead to serve their interests. Tanja Topic, political analyst is of the view that referendum is not possible to implement, and that border issues are fait accompli. Senka Kurtovic, editor of Sarajevo "Oslobodjenje" says that it is high time Dayton concept was abandoned, since economically and politically divided state cannot survive.
