Mostar municipalities abolished, city united	RTRS, BHTV 1, FTV, RHB, Oslobođenje cover, pg 8 'Mostar municipalities officially abolished', Dnevni Avaz pg 3 'Six municipalities in Mostar do not exist anymore', Nezavisne Novine cover, pg 2 'Mostar re-unified city', Glas Srpske pg 3 'Mostar re-unified' – In accordance with the decision by the High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, as of Monday, Mostar is a single city with one City Administration. "As of today, Mostar has one mayor, a single budget and a single administration which will serve all its citizens," High Rep said at news conference in Mostar on Monday. In addition, Mostar municipal councils cease to exist legally, economically and administratively. "Today Mostar is taking a decisive step in the city's unification process and this on schedule, on time and according to the new Statute of an united Mostar. Many doubted that it would ever come to this. They believed that the two sides were too far apart to ever meet and work together in a single city administration, but today Mostar has shown all the skeptics that they were wrong," Ashdown said. In his address, Mostar Mayor Hamdija Jahic said one important phase of implementing the decision of the High Representative has been completed, although the most difficult part remained. "We anticipate the abolishment of parallel institutions, that is unifying them in accordance to the multiethnic character of the city. We have to introduce new organizations and adopt a new budget based on the principle that the city will fund only that which is urban, unifying and which will serve all its citizens... I hope that through this construction we will, in fact, realize specific projects that will benefit the city and its citizens," Jahic said. Ashdown met with both Jahic and his deputy Mayor Ljubo Beslic whom he stressed that no people will have domination over others in Mostar and ythat the Statute will provide a chance for better management of the public acquisitions. HR has explained that while rights of citizens to be provided with the services will not change, the quality of those services would. Ashdown also said he would insist on adoption of the law, according to which five of FBiH Ministries should be transferred from Sarajevo to Mostar. RHB, Dnevni List front pg, pg 7 Ashdown: Parallelisms abolished – Mostar becomes single city', Vecernji List front pg splash 'Mostar one city', pg 5 'Mostar without municipalities and any domination', pg 18 'New beginning for Mostar', Slobodna Dalmacija front pg splash 'Historic day – Mostar united', pg 16 'Historic day for Mostar', 'Neither Ashdown nor Bosniaks mind the monument', Vjesnik pg 10 'Paddy Ashdown abolished Mostar municipalities' – HR Ashdown also commented the issue about his alleged opposition to the construction of the monument to Croat defenders in Mostar, on Rondo Square, the story that the Bosniaks would take it as a provocation. "I have been informed that the erection of the monument is legal, and on the other hand, the Bosniak leaders assured me they do not take it as a provocation", said HR Ashdown.

Op-eds on Mostar unification	Nezavisne Novine 'Date for history' op-ed by Josip Blazevic – The author is writing about re-unification of the City of Mostar. He disagrees with the High Representative to BiH, Paddy Ashdown, in his view that Mostar sides are now closer than they have ever been before. On this, author says that there is enormous distrust between ethnic communities not only in Mostar, but the entire BiH. However, he agrees with the HiRep that a first step has been made, which is the most important thing. He concludes the article by saying that: "The other side of the medal is that Ashdown did not have courage to use the sample of Mostar as solution for similar multi-ethnic communities in BiH." Oslobodjenje pg 2 'Big step' op-ed by Mirko Sagolj – Author regards unification of Mostar as a historical move, however argues that unless political parties support it the results of it will be 'taken by Neretva.'

HDZ Spokesperson Pero Pavlovic stated HDZ still has no negotiations team, as its president Barisa Colak expected to meet SDA President Sulejman Tihic instead of teams. HDZ SP Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'Colak postponed today's meeting with Tihic' – DA brings that SDA Vice President Elmir Jahic [not Mirsad Kebo] are part of the commission tasked to negotiate with HDZ. According to Tihic, the meeting was supposed to be held today, however Barisa Colak postponed it. Also, SDA tasked Tihic to organize the meeting of all parties that make up parliamentary majority on both state and entities levels. The agenda of the meeting should include the discussion on 16 preconditions laid down in Feasibility Study.
NN int with Tihic on SDA/HDZ crisis	Nezavisne Novine cover, pg 6 'We will not accept HDZ ultimatum' – In an interview to NN, Sulejman Tihic, SDA President, says that SDA will not accept any HDZ ultimatum, neither changes of the Rule Book of Government of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina. He promised he would do all he could to prevent that decisions at Government of F BiH are not passed through outvoting. He does not believe that HDZ would leave the authority. He concludes that media give more attention to relations between SDA and HDZ than it actually deserves. He further blames parties from Republika Srpska for problems regarding BiH admission into PfP.
SDP on HDZ/SDA rift	RHB, Oslobođenje pg 3 'Rule or leave' – SDP Presidency commented that "public break-up of the so-called partnership between the SDA and the HDZ which has lead to the blockade of the cantonal, FBiH and state institutions and completely paralyzed the reform process,... such toying with government institutions by the leadership of the nationalist parties was utterly unjustified." SDP believes this will lead to the blockade of the reformatory process in entire country. Last night, SDP Presidency held the session concluding that BiH citizens became the hostages of SDA and HDZ personal problems, and they invited International Community to ensure government functions at all levels.
DL Statement of Day	Dnevni List, pg 2, carries in its 'Statement of Day' Party for BiH President Safet Halilovic as saying: "Party for BiH will consider whether it will stay in authority or not."

SNSD on protests and early elections; SDS and RS Radicals against early elections	Oslobodjenje pg 9 'Opposition brings down the authorities', Nezavisne Novine pg 5 'Early elections through protests', Glas Srpske pg 2 'Peacefully to changes', RTRS – Protests in Banja Luka, announced for 23 March will be only a beginning of the same protests around RS and other parts of BiH, said Chairman of SNSD Executive Board, Nebojsa Radmanovic. He pointed out that the problems are same in entire country and that is why the party will not give up on its demand to hold extraordinary elections. Radmanovic added that disturbance of the public order will not take place during the protests, adding that the Government intimidates the citizens. On the other side SDS Spokesperson, Dusan Stojicic, said that extraordinary elections would be contra-productive for RS, adding that SNSD-organized protests are only another attempt by Milorad Dodik to return to power, and a trial to bring down legally elected Government. SRS President, Mihailo Mihajlica said his party was also dissatisfied with the work of the Government, especially when it comes to the privatisation process, but agreed that early elections would not solve problems.

DL editorial supports Ashdown	Dnevni List pg 6 'Ashdown needs to be supported' by Dr. Slavo Kukic – The author claims that the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown, has taken on "the nationalists of all colours" in past one month, first by giving a lecture to the owner of "Dnevni Avaz" that censorship is not when judges ban you to write untruths, and lately when he pointed finger at the parties (SDS, HDZ and SDA), who he put at fault for delays in implementation of reforms. According to Kukic, even the Chairman of BiH Council of Ministers, Adnan Terzic, was surprised with the sharpness of the HR, even suspecting his good intentions. Kukic concludes the piece by saying that HR Ashdown has realized what kind of games the aforementioned parties were up to, noting that it seems that the HR will start dismissing everything that represents an unwanted weight. In this context, Kukic says people should not be constantly accusing the HR of mistakes he has made, but give him support "for moves Paddy is, it looks that way, definitively ready".

Oslobodjenje op-ed on SDA, HDZ, SDS	Oslobodjenje pg 2 'Parties are not to be blamed' op-ed by Zija Dizdarevic – In a light of the newest OHR warning regarding the public broadcasting, author writes that this is a continuation "of the strongest criticism" coming from OHR and "directed to the local authorities." Arguing that such attitude by IC was commenced during the HR Paddy Ashdown's visit to UN Security Council and continue upon return, editorial reads that the strong pressures is placed on RS, especially in the matters around the appointment of the Defence Minister and workings of Srebrenica Commission. Noting that SDA and HDZ also faces criticism for different obstructions [in judiciary and education], editorial concludes: "International authorities objectively, and subjectively, supported nationalistic parties. But, the key BiH paradox is that, despite everything that happened since 1990, majority of Bosniaks by voting for SDA, actually votes for SDS and HDZ; the vote of Croat for HDZ is a vote for SDS and SDA, as votes of Serbs for SDA are at the same time votes for HDZ and SDA. That threesome is being constantly elected by the active electoral body, but also by elections-wise passive population who is in that way the most responsible for the situation in BiH."
