Talks on constitutional changes end without agreement

BH Radio 1 By Vanja Ilcic – Early this morning, at 3.30 am, leaders of eight political parties finished the first round of negotiations on constitutional changes without any agreement. Politicians weren't able to reach agreement on BiH Presidency or BiH Parliament, even though international representatives were present as mediators and U.S. Undersecretary Nicholas Burns has talked to them. U.S. Ambassador to BiH Douglas McElhaney kept his optimism until the end, but reporter comments that no one had reason to be satisfied once the negotiations were over.

SDA leader Sulejman Tihic stated that no agreement was reached on key issues and that everything remains undefined. SNSD leader Milorad Dodik commented: "Negotiations have ended at BiH House of Peoples. Attempt with the package failed and it remains for BiH Presidency to be elected as it was case before." The only agreement had been previously reached on human rights and expansion of Council of Ministers. "There is remaining dilemma whether competences of BiH House of Peoples could be built into new constitutional amendments or not. That part is unclear," stated PDP leader Mladen Ivanic. HDZ leader Dragan Covic however said that huge job was done, even though not everything as planned.

"We came to point of discussing certain finesse...we have left for experts to try to modify this what we have done, into a document, so we could see once more what can be done" stated Covic. RTRS – Mladen Bosic, SDS Vice President, is of the opinion that 99% of issues related to future constitutional order of BiH has already been solved. Zlatko Lagumdzija, SDP of BiH President, stated that the party leaders did not have enough courage to undertake a crucial decision. Members of the International Community will hold the press conference on the issue today.

RTRS: Agreement failed over rotation, voting by entities	RTRS – According to reporter, participants of talks split on two major issues on which international mediators insisted, and those are: rotation principle at the BiH Presidency and entity's principle of voting. RS representatives regarded it as unacceptable that president of the state should be elected directly through voting of all peoples, opposing to insistence of political parties from FBiH regarding abolishment of entity's principle of voting.
Cardinal Puljic: Dayton agreement buried Croats alive	RTRS, RHB – The round table discussion on the topic 'What is BiH to Croats' was held in Krizevci, Croatia. Cardinal Vinko Puljic and Banja Luka Bishop Franjo Komarica attended this discussion and Cardinal Puljic sent a message to the International Community that Croats want to live in BiH although the Dayton Peace Accord buried Croats alive. Puljic also criticized both the IC and Croat politicians for the difficult position of the Croats.

He underline he could not understand how he was cleared by the OHR to become the Cantonal PM in the first place, since according to him, the OHR said in September 2004 that there was no violation of the BiH Election Law (on his part).

Talks on constitutional changes

Talks on constitutional changes: rotation in tripartite Presidency, method of electing HoP, voting in HoR not yet agreed	RTRS – On the second day of the negotiations on the constitutional changes, which has gathered the leaders of eight political parties, the package was offered to the participants which contained the agreement on method of electing the members of BiH Presidency, election of deputies in the House of Peoples and voting in the House of Representatives. Some extent of the agreement has been reached when it comes to Presidency [tripartite Presidency consisting of a President and two Vice Presidents] and BiH Parliament. However, participants still have not reached an agreement on rotation in Presidency, whether to maintain voting by entity in HoR and the method of electing HoP. While SDP and SBiH representatives comment that negotiations go around in circle, SDA and HDZ are pleased about reached agreement. “When it comes to House of Peoples, there will be 21 members. The way members would be elected is yet to be decided we are going for direct way of election through House of Representatives. There are three members of Presidency; the only dilemma is rotation or non-rotation” said Dragan Covic, HDZ leader. RS representatives did not want to talk publicly on details of negotiations and they all agreed that better improvement could have happened if parties from FBiH did not keep insisting on decisions that would deny RS. “I think that members of Bosniak side can not accept the fact that scope of constitutional changes must be in accordance with political ambient, wishes and needs of all in this country, not only one side,” commented Dragan Covic, the president of the SDS. Mladen Ivanic, PDP president expressed his concern regarding intense insisting on abolishment of entities, coming especially from SDA and SBiH. Milorad Dodik, SNSD Chair said that RS officials offered two or three options for election of deputies in House of Peoples and that parties from FBiH did not support it. SDA leader Zlatko Lagumdžija stated that the negotiations are walking in circles. Hayat, BHT1– comments that it is almost certain that BiH would have one President, but remaining question is whether there would be rotation in the Presidency or not. PINK, FTV– also reported on negotiations. Dnevni List, pg 3 ‘Solution on state level at sight’, by Dn. L. – carries statement of Covic that agreement is reached on three members of BiH Presidency and that a solution on rotation is still being sought. VL: Confirmation of Dayton for assimilation of Croats?	Vecernji List, pgs 2-3 'Confirmation of Dayton for assimilation of Croats?', by Zoran Kresic – According to Kresic, the most important effect of a possible confirmation of constitutional changes in relation to the BiH Parliament, Presidency and BiH CoM is that the Dayton Constitution of BiH would be confirmed, which would mean that the politicians would either make 'a historic move or mistake' depending whether they are representatives of Bosniak, Serb or Croat people. VL notes that the ratification of the Dayton Constitution means that the Serb would once and for all cement the division of BiH into two entities and preserve the RS, the Bosniaks would be forced to create 'their own' state in the FBiH, whilst the Croats would be destined to assimilation. Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 21 'Covic getting ever closer to Dodik', by Zlatko Tulic – carries an outdated report on Sunday talks

To back his claim up, Glibusic argues that the RS representatives do not even allow that talks tackle issues such as abolishment of entities or change of name of entities, which in reality will mean that BiH will keep on fighting with huge administration and interests of entities that are slowing down the process of enactment of laws and implementation of reforms that would lead BiH closer to Euro-Atlantic integration.
RS politicians and lawyers: either election of new Government or dismissal of RS NA	Nezavisne Novine pg 3 'Either election of the new Government or dismissal of the parliament' by V. Popovic – Representatives of RS political parties and lawyers believe there are only two ways to overcome RS political crisis – either to establish a new Government or dismiss RS NA and organize early elections. They believe the key to a solution is in hands of RS President Dragan Cavic, whose constitutional obligation is to preserve functioning of RS institutions. Lawyer Miroslav Mikes and Professor of Constitutional Law Zeljko Marjanic explained the constitutional procedure that needs to be followed in such situations. SNSD's Milorad Dodik, PDP's Veselin Poljasevic, SDA's Sefket Hafizovic and Sadik Ahmetovic believe RS President is responsible for such a situation, while SNSD's Igor Radojicic thinks the solution is election of a new Government.

In brief, he explains his political view of talks on constitutional changes, stressing that IC has taken the stance which is allowing too much compromise for the RS. Durakovic expressed his fear that the talks would finally result with the solution worse even than the Dayton Peace Agreement.
Tihic: PMs resignations destabilize situation in Cantons; SDA: OHR's arrogant behaviour politically motivated	FTV magazine '60 Minuta' by Amarildo Gutic – Zenica-Doboj Canton (ZDC) Prime Minister, Nedžad Polić submitted resignation after ZeDo Cantonal Assembly official, Zoran Marković, asked him to resign. In September 2005, the BiH Election Commission issued information stating that Polić and Prime Minister of Bosnia-Podrinje Canton, Saliko Obhodžić, were both violating the Election Law as neither PM should have appeared on the election lists because both had been sanctioned by the provisional election commission. Polić submitted his resignation before being replaced by Paddy Ashdown. On 12 January, OHR sent a letter to the SDA leader Sulejman Tihic stating that Polić should resign, or SDA could face sanctions at next elections. It also suggested the same for "This isn't good, it destabilizes situation in Cantons several months before elections... we are talking about successful Prime Ministers", said Tihic. On being asked what he was going to do after resignation, Polić said that he was most probably going to return to the company he used to work before being appointed as the Prime Minister. Oslobodjenje pg 4 'Arrogant behaviour towards party' by E. Aganović – SDA also issued a statement in which they call OHR's demand "shameful and against all the codes and conventions on human rights". HoR delegates decided to return proposal to the BiH Commission for finance and budget, after the majority of the delegates have requested the amendments to the budget to be adopted. The Commission is expected to complete its work by January 30, and subsequently to report to the HoR. "I think that we do not have much space for budget correction, and I think these 15 days are taken for some political arrangement... I think that we will have budget by the end of January," said Adnan Tezic, BiH CoM. SDA was supportive of budget adoption. However, SDA did not justify its opinion by adequate distribution of resources but rather with opinion that budget adopting is condition for continuation of reforms. Proposals of Law on changes and amendments of Law on VAT also did not get support of Representatives to be discussed urgently. FTV – The most of objections refer to the budget of the BiH Defence Ministry which is 278 million KM. Minister Nikola Radovanovic stated that this Ministry starts 2006 with 13 070 staff members and added that 2070 of them would loose their income in 3 months. Beriz Belkic from SBIH reminded that failure to pass the state budget would slow down functioning of institutions. RHB– BiH Minister of Finance and Treasury Ljerka Maric stated that temporary budget for the first three months of 2006 has been submitted. Hayat feature on the BiH institutions' budget	Hayat by Snjezana Mulic– Commenting the proposed budget and in light of the negotiations on the constitutional changes, Hayat brings that it is a well-known fact that BiH institutions are spending enormous amounts of money, which is not a surprise considering the fact that almost everything in this country is multiplied by three. More than 70 experts and advisors serve three BiH Presidency members, and they are all financed from the state budget. The budget of tripartite BiH Presidency was almost six million KM in 2005, which means that they spent only one million less than the whole BiH Parliamentary Assembly, two times more than BiH Ministry of Defence and almost ten times more than State Attorney's Office. "The state would be much more functional with only one president, it is clear if only we take a look at all the other countries in the world, and the way they are functioning... plus, large amount of money would be saved, especially in administration", stated Osman Brka, SDA's representative in the BiH Parliamentary Assembly. But the representatives from the RS have completely different opinion: "It is clear that BiH Presidency has to have three members, since BiH is composed of three constitutional peoples... We should save money in some other places: first of all, we should stamp out crime and corruption", stated SRS' Mirko Blagojevic.

RS delegates claimed state institutions were squandering funds while, on the other hand, they forgot to mention the entities have failed to reduce their administration expenses, despite to the fact competences of military, customs and intelligence service have been entirely transferred to the state level. At the end, the author concludes by saying the obstacle to police reform and strengthening of state security institutions was the fear from losing influence and control over these institutions.
Lozancic: FBiH Parliament is directly responsible for failure to pass the budget	FTV '60 minuta' current affairs program by Bakir Hadziomerovic– In interview for magazine, FBiH President Niko Lozancic spoke about FBiH Government's failure to persuade FBiH parliament to pass the budget for 2006. Lozancic warned that both FBiH Government and the FBiH Parliament are to face consequences if the budget is not adopted by the end of January. Lozancic added that in that case it would be impossible to implement laws passed by the Parliament in 2005, especially those referring to benefits for disabled war veterans, disabled persons, pensioners, etc. FBiH President added that stated that FBiH Government has done it share of the job, stressing that he hold FBiH Parliament responsible for failure to pass the budget.
