VL: Croats not represented enough in senior posts in SIPA

Vecernji List, pg 3 'It's about national parity', mentioned on front 'SIPA: Head of Mostar office removed', by Dejan Jazvic – reports that leadership of SIPA (BiH State Agency for investigation and protection) removed Andjelko Hrgic (Croat) from the office of head of regional office of SIPA in Mostar last month and appointed Vahid Alagic (Bosniak) to the office. According to VL, this move disrupts the national representation in senior offices of one of most important State institutions. VL goes on to say that there are almost no Croats in senior posts in SIPA because in the same time Hrgic got replaced, the Head of Protection of VIPs, Mijo Golub (Croat), also got removed too. VL unofficially learns that two of them got removed after a special commission of SIPA decided not to award them the rank of chief inspector, which is one of formal pre-requisites to assume senior posts in the Agency. VL reckons that in reality this means that young officials do not have much chance to assume senior posts, since only between 8-10 old Police officials will be in the running for the posts. VL notes that Dragan Lukac, Deputy Director of SIPA, is the only Croat with the rank of chief inspector.
