Cubro – ONASA – As expected, BiH did not get a green light for starting of negotiations for signing of the Stabilization and Association Agreement with the European Union (EU) because it has not met two conditions – the police reform and the adoption of the law on Public Broadcasting System, it was announced in Sarajevo on Thursday. Director of the European Commission Directorate General for Enlargement Reinhard Priebe said after the sixth meeting of the Consultative Task Force on Thursday that the most important thing at the moment is to reach an agreement on these two issues. "This country needs an efficient police structure, based on unique rules on the state level. It must also be harmonized with EU principles," Priebe said. He said that unless an agreement is reached on these two issues, the EC will not be able to give its recommendation for the start of negotiations. At the CTF meeting, the BiH officials presented the EU representatives with the ongoing reform processes in the country. Director of BiH Directorate for European Integrations Osman Topcagic confirmed that there were still two remaining issues that were police reform and law on public RTV system. According to announced agenda, EU ministers won’t further discuss BiH police reform at the next meeting scheduled for Monday.
Ashdown says police reform requires change of Dayton	RTRS – A short preview of HR Paddy Ashdown’s interview for RTRS Aktuelni Razgovor current affairs program was shown in the news. The author stresses that the truth is just the opposite to words British exhibitionist, as he calls him, says. "The only true thing is that we have a nationalistic authority and we cannot get to Europe with it. Anything else is cleansing of somebody conscience. And transfer of responsibility onto other for his own failures."

The author also talks about recent meeting of Croat political parties in BiH, which are discussing the issue of constitutional changes, with HDZ on one, and other (Croat) political parties on the other side. In that context, Lovrenovic says it will be very difficult for the parties to come up with some sort of a "Croat platform" because of evident differences in interests among them.

DL: Conflicts within HDZ, Covic in close ties with British MI6	Dnevni List, pg 9, mentioned on front 'Personal conflicts intensified', by Investigative team – DL learns from "intelligence-political circles" that personal conflicts within the HDZ BiH, prior to the HDZ BiH convention scheduled for June 4, have intensified. According to DL, an information has leaked according to which former member of BiH Presidency and candidate to become new HDZ president, Dragan Covic, kept close contacts with senior agents of the British MI6. To back this claim up, DL says some BiH intelligence officers are in possession of a document which shows that Covic had several meetings with British agents in Vienna in June 2002, prior to BiH general elections, when Covic asked for help in order to defend himself from several court cases and enable him to run for the BiH Presidency. Claiming that the British intelligence is incorporated into the BiH intelligence and political system through the OHR, DL says Covic, as a return favour, promised he would make staff changes within the HDZ BiH that would help realization of UK's aims in BiH.

severs connections with HDZ of Croatia

Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 14, mentioned on front
'HDZ BiH severs cooperation n with HDZ', by Marin Erceg – The author argues that the two sister parties, HDZ BiH and HDZ of Croatia, are parting ever so much. The reason behind this, according to Erceg, is because the parties' leaderships are running completely opposite policies. Erceg explains: "Sanader (Ivo, Croatian HDZ president, Croatian PM) in Zagreb is running a policy that is in the interest of the party, people and the state, running a new, pro-European policy, whilst Dragan Covic is running a policy that serves his personal interest and the interest of those who can help him in that, even if they are Serb and Bosniak politicians or Paddy Ashdown himself.
Everything else is less relevant".
