Mesic said that he supported any solution which would make BiH function like a state. “Constitutional changes have to protect all three constituent peoples and provide mechanisms which would prevent blockade in constitutional changes in its second or third phase”, said Mesic. Dnevni Avaz pg 3, mentioned on cover ‘Mesic: We can move to EU only as good neighbors’ not signed – Mesic added: “I support everything could help BiH, but I consider that current constitutional changes in BiH need to fully protect all three constituent peoples.” He added that “cementing” could damage BiH thus if the country “is determined to progress on the road to Europe, than we all must support this, as the South East Europe must also become a part of the EU.” Vecernji List, pg 2, mentioned on front ‘Mesic wants guarantees for constitutional changes’, by Dejan Jazvic – VL notes that Mesic’s statement on constitutional changes in a way supports positions of parties that want clear guarantees that the issue of entity organization of BiH will be raised after the October elections. BiH political leaders claim that they have provided majority for support of the vote on proposed amendments

BHT1 By Marina Boskovic– Leaders of leading political parties in BiH who signed the agreement on constitutional changes in BiH claim that they have provided enough votes to have the amendments passed in BiH House of Representatives. After months long negotiations between the leaders of the political parties, final version of text of the Constitution has been harmonized and if amendments are not passed, BiH would have another chance only in 4 years. “I do not expect it to happen, but if does, BiH will not be able to move towards Europe as other states”, said the British Ambassador to BiH Matthew Rycroft. HDZ 1990 representatives believe that the proposed amendments would not be passed. After their amendments were rejected, HDZ 199’s Martin Raguz and Filip Andric left the Constitutional and Legal Affairs Commission’s session. In five days it will be familiar whether BiH is going to get the new Constitution. “We have agreed on the final text of the amendments, it came out as the result of compromise reached by all political participants and the BiH Presidency has reached the final decision and no changes can be introduced”, said SDS leader Dragan Cavic.

However, he added that his party would not abandon a demand to abolish entity vote in the BiH House of Representatives. "Even though our amendment wasn't passed we have submitted it to the procedure immediately, so that it would be discussed about at the Parliament's session" said Belkic.
CLAC member Kunic: traps for RS's competences remained empty	Glas Srpske pg 5 'Traps remained empty' by Z. Markovic – Member of Constitutional-Legal Affairs Commission Petar Kunic stated for Glas Srpske that the status of RS would have been reduced down to the level of a municipality if the originally suggested amendments to BiH Constitution had been adopted. 'Only upon the intervention of delegate Tihomir Gligoric and me, leaders of parties changed the amendments and this prevented the republic competences from falling in a trap from which these would never got out alive', Kunic stated.

Milos carries an interview with member of the Constitutional Legal Commission of the BiH Parliament Filip Andric. Commenting on the fact that correlation of forces in the BiH House of Representatives has changed when support to constitutional changes is in question and that it is quite certain that these changes might be adopted, Andric said: 'Unfortunately, this is the way it is. The only chance is to do something in the BiH House of Peoples, that might prevent this deceit.' Andric called on Croat MPs in the BiH HoP to prevent adoption of such Constitution 'on the ground of which others would be deciding on destiny of Croats'. Asked about the 2nd phase of the constitutional changes talks, Andric says that the Constitution is something that should be built at one time and completely.

AT the public debate on constitutional changes held in Banjka Luka, Lagumdzija said he sees no reason why these proposals for the change of BiH Constitution would not be supported by all, since the alternative is to maintain the current situation.
