give up from sanctions against RS'

Nezavisne novine pg 5, announced on cover 'I did not give up from sanctions against RS' by M. Cubro – carries a page-long interview with HR Paddy Ashdown in which he state: 'I did not give up from sanctions against RS and I will use this should RS and SDS choose isolation instead of integration to EU'. Asked whether he believes one can achieve a progress towards EU with parties that have been blocking reforms for ten years, HR has stated he does not support parties – SDS was on power in years that have passed, yet a lot had been done. 'People elected nationalistic parties and, if these can implement reforms, then I can continue working with them. It is important to say that should nationalistic parties fail to transform into European conventional parties they would have no future', HR said. He refused to say whether he had reached an agreement with RS President Dragan Cavic on police reform, but he said especially brave and encouraging initiatives are lately coming from Milorad Dodik. Asked to comment the announcement on arrival of Serbian President Boris Tadic to Srebrenica commemoration, HR said it is important for Serbian President to come to Srebrenica and it is important that he had expressed his wish to attend this event. 'I hope we will use this to show the admittance of the crime that was committed, to show true respect and to show BiH can be a country that can leave its past behind it', HR concluded.

Vasilj – Commenting on the position of the Croat people in post-Dayton BiH the author says that in spite of the fact that the Dayton Peace Accord (DPA) guaranteed some sort of equality to the Croat people due to the revision of the DPA, its non-implementation and wrong interpretation Croats have been brought in the position of a national minority. The author blames for this situation the Croats themselves who were not able to organize themselves and fight for their rights. Vecernji List pg 7 Croat Interest Community' by R. The author concludes that there are two scenarios how the situation can unfold, it will be either the HDZ appealing to the BiH Constitutional Court (vital national interest), or accepting the proposed solutions.
