In explaining their request, the Association recalled that several days ago Jaganjac told the Sarajevo-based "Dnevni Avaz" newspaper that he was of the view that "he as a Bosniak should have priority compared to other candidates". He further said that he "supports the new territorial organisation of police structures in BiH" which was recently proposed by the HiRep, Paddy Ashdown. "Jaganjac, also, said that if he is eventually selected, his task will be to abolish the IEBL between the two Entities of BiH", the Association says stressing that Jaganjac's appointment to the position of the RS Police Director would be shameful as he is, with his statements, violating the Constitutions of the RS and BiH, and denying its (RS's) constitutional position.

RHB, TV Pink, Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'BiH at the doors of modern industrial revolution', Dnevni List pg 8 'Through legalization of software to 600 new places of work' by E. Mackic, FENA – The BiH Ministry of Transport and Communications and UNDP jointly organized the two-day International Conference on Information Society that started in Sarajevo on Monday. The Conference gathered over 400 participants including government officials, local and international experts as well as leading companies. The main purpose of the Conference is to present and promote the Strategy of the Information Society, with the focus on the legislation aspect. This document, together with the Policy and Action Plan for development of information society, has been prepared by BiH experts engaged by UNDP. The BiH Council of Ministers has adopted these documents. "UNDP gathered young and smart BH experts, who have proved, by preparing the initial documents for information society development, that BiH has the intellectual capacities for enhancement of the BiH's road towards final acceptance into a European family of nations", said Branko Dokic, Communication and Transport Minister of BiH. He concluded that the world is in an information revolution and that the development opportunity of small countries such as BiH lies in their participation in that revolution. Dokic said that significant funds would be needed for information society development and that one of the ways for getting money could lie in the legalising software not legalised so far, as well as in the strengthening of information-communication (ICT) industry. BiH Council of Ministers Chair Adnan Terzic said that BiH is one of the few countries in the region to have an information society development strategy and stressed that it has been entirely adjusted to European standards. He stressed that the priority now is on the implementation of this strategy, which represents a step forward in the integration of BiH into Europe, its connection to the world and sustainable development. Principal Deputy High Representative Donald Hays said that BiH still needs to go through an information revolution and that all should unite on this into a single process. He stressed that BiH needs to find a way to expand all capacities in this field and find resources because the chance for economic and social development of BiH lies in the development of information-communication technologies. Head of the European Commission Delegation to BiH Michael Humphreys said that information technologies are the key part of BiH integration into the EU and expressed hope that the creation of a dynamic ICT sector would be a priority for BiH in the upcoming period. He stressed the need for establishing an information society agency soon, as this is one of the requirements from the Feasibility Study.

Vecerni List
on bomb hoaxes in Mostar,
Livno: Political
showdowns
through threats

Vecernji List cover pg splash 'Political showdowns through threats' and pgs 2 and 3 'Terror of bomb hoaxes' by Z. Kresic – VL says that since the election of HDZ Commissioners in Mostar local boards started, relations between two fractions of HDZ Mostar have been very strained and they were insulting, imputing and threatening each other. According to VL, those who are better familiar with this case claim that the raid was not justified at all and the FBiH policemen reacted on the ground of completely false information. VL also says that bomb hoaxes in the Herzegovina-Neretva Cantonal Government could also be one of political means for destabilization of the situation. An inset in VL under headline ' 'Bomber' stopped Government's work' says that there was another bomb hoax in the HNC Government's building on Monday. Another inset to the VL article under headline 'Inspector was one who was 'ordering' bombs in cafe!' carries that the Municipal Market Inspector J.B. was arrested on Monday on the ground of suspicion that he was paying to Ante D. to make phone calls and give false information about explosive devices which were, allegedly, planted in a cafe in Livno. The motif of this crime was extortion.

One of them is a person whose "truth" was unfortunately presented by the daily last November.
