Media speculate on possibility for Mladic's arrest

ICTY Chief
Prosecutor Del
Ponte: Mladic not arrested, he is hiding in Serbia

Hayat – The ICTY Chief Prosecutor Carla Del Ponte at the extraordinary press conference held in the Hague officially denied the speculations on Ratko Mladic being arrested on Tuesday and transferred to the Tribunal. The news, which caused great confusion especially among local media and public, were in brief spread around the world. "False rumour on arrest of Ratko Mladic has been initiated. The rumour is completely unfounded. There are no indications whatsoever which would prove that negotiations on Mladic's surrender are underway. I contacted Belgrade authorities on Tuesday evening and they assured me that this was not true; Mladic is still at large", said del Ponte. PINK -According to Del Ponte, Mladic has been hiding in Serbia since 1998, and is still there. She stressed that the negotiations on Stabilisation and Association Agreement between the EU and SCG could be suspended, and may even never conclude if SCG fails to fully cooperate with the ICTY. In this light, Del Ponte called on the EU to increase its support to the Tribunal and to clearly state to SCG what is the deadline for Mladic's arrest and which sanctions it would face in case of failure. BHT1, RHB, FTV, RTRS, Oslobodjenje cover splash, pgs 4-5 'Ratko Mladic can and must be arrested at once!' by Onasa, Dnevni Avaz cover splash, pg 2 'EU has a key role in Mladic's arrest' not signed, EUroBlic cover pg splash, pgs 6-7 'Ticket for The Hague waiting for Mladic' by Tanja Nikolic-Djakovic, Nezavisne Novine pg 3 'Ratko Mladic is still not arrested' by Agencies, Glas Srpske pg 2 'Rumours from Belgrade', Dnevni List cover pg splash and pg 6 'He is neither arrested nor negotiations on his surrender have been underway' by A. Serbian Government denied all information on Mladic arrest; analysts believe that Government placed info itself	BHT1 by Vesna Simic [Belgrade] – The Serbian Government denied all information on arrest of Ratko Mladic. Advisor to Serbian Prime minister, Vladeta Jankovic, stressed the Government regrets the media confusion that occurred on Tuesday night but she wouldn't answer any related questions asked by journalists. FTV – Head of Serbian Government press office, Srdjan Djuric, stated the motives behind allegations on Mladic's arrest are unknown. Hayat – Hayat features military analyst Aleksandar Radic who claims the information has been released by the Serbian Government in an effort to prepare its citizens for the "real" arrest. "Obviously, the Serbian Government needs to create an image for media as if Mladic is to be arrested against his will, since in that way long-lasting hesitation in attempt to solve the issue will be justified", said Radic. He says there are clear signs that an action is being carried out in Belgrade. British Embassy in Sarajevo refused to comment Dragas' claims and announced an official statement on Wednesday evening. According to Dragas, Serbian Prime Minister Vojislav Kostunica is allegedly waiting for visit of ICTY Chief Prosecutor Carla Del Ponte and her guarantees that once Mladic is apprehended, ICTY wouldn't demand arrestment of Radovan Karadzic by Serbian authorities. EUFOR denies Mladic was or would be transferred to base in Tuzla ; Hayat speculates news on Mladic surrender to come out on Sat	Hayat by Senka Hadzovic – Following the speculations that Ratko Mladic was arrested in Serbian and later transferred to the Eagle base in Tuzla, Hayat reports that on Wednesday reporters were still waiting in front of the EUFOR base from where Mladic should allegedly be transferred to the ICTY. Reporter further examines the speculations, stating that information among journalists is that Mladic's arrest would most probably be published on Saturday, in order to avoid protests scheduled for Friday by supporters of the ICTY indictee Vojislav Seselj to take place in Belgrade as Serbian authorities believe that such news could turn peaceful demonstrations into something more serious. EUFOR denies there were any special activities in the HQ on Tuesday and Wednesday, and adds that all activities were just ordinary tasks carried out by the EUFOR troops. EUFOR adds that it has nothing to do with the alleged Mladic's arrest. "We have received the news, but nothing is official yet and we cannot comment speculations. EUFOR is carrying out its activities, as planned. There are no changes. These are nothing but ordinary operations", said the EUFOR Spokesperson Georg Heartinger. International press on speculations regarding Mladic arrest: surrender is on the way, net around Mladic closes	Hayat by Asim Beslija – Speculation on Ratko Mladic's arrest has been published in great number of international newspapers despite official denials on Wednesday. UK dailies Independent and Guardian claim negotiations on his surrender were underway. Serbian dailies 'Glas Javnosti' and Kurir reported Mladic arrested. 'Blic' said Mladic was in house arrest, and negotiations on voluntary surrender were launched. Belgrade based 'Vecernje Novosti' quoted official of the SCG Council for cooperation with the ICTY saying preparations for the arrest were completed. He added that if Mladic were not to surrender, Serbian Ministry of Interior would arrest him. FTV – Mladic was on front pages of almost all world newspapers. Oslobodjenje overview of Serbian press on Mladic's arrest: Unconvincing denial by Serbian Govt	Oslobodjenje pgs 4-5 'Unconvincing denial' by B. Boskov – Commenting reactions of Serbian press on alleged arrest of Ratko Mladic, article reads that denial of Serbian Government spokesperson Srdja Djuric to these news was unconvincing, adding that it was rather incomplete than incorrect. Author concludes quoting Glas Javnosti: "There are some hard talks ongoing on the way he [Mladic] would be transferred to the Hague. Serbian authorities have interest, for sake of peace in the house, that Mladic appears before the cameras as a volunteer. This is why it has been assumed that 'operation' will last two or three days and that he would be transferred to the Hague after that."

NN: Kostunica does not want to lose political points by arresting Mladic in territory of Serbia	Nezavisne Novine pg 3 'Kostunica is trying to perform Mladic' arrest in RS' by M.Kusmuk/S.Karic – Sources close to Serbian Government claim Mladic refuses to go voluntarily to The Hague and the only possibility is seeing him get arrested, which Serbian Premier Vojislav Kostunica does not want to perform in the territory of Serbia for the sake of political points.
Oslobodjenje op-ed: Media speculations suggest that Mladic's transfer to the Hague is now a matter of day	Oslobodjenje pg 9 'Until hill becomes green' op-ed by Gojko Beric – Commenting all the media pomp on alleged arrest of Ratko Mladic, editorial reads that although it is suspicious "this media rumble is maybe not without a ground". Author says that SCG Prime Minister Vojislav Kostunica now has a real problem to explain how is it possible for Mladic to be located, when it was previously claimed that he was not in Serbia. Article reads that if Mladic is found in Serbia, than the Government should be removed for deceiving domestic and international public. Commenting allegations on possible Mladic's hand-over, authors says that if he had really wanted, he would do it long time ago. Editorial concludes: "The newest relationship between official Serbia and general Mladic, besides the fact that it confirms the country is in chaos, also suggests that his transfer to the Hague is now counting in days. (...) If this prognosis does not fulfil, keep reading the newspapers. Chase for Mladic continues, by tonight, by tomorrow, who knows by when... And soon the hill will become green."
DL op-ed: Mladic to be arrested soon/News about his arrest are just preparing of Serbian public for that moment	Dnevni List pg 2 'Days of Mladic's hiding counted off' by S. Bjelica carries that denials about the Mladic's arrest coming from the Serbian Government, del Ponte etc. are far from truth and it is just a matter of the moment when his arrest would be officially confirmed. The author believes that negotiations on his surrender have been underway and the information about his arrest that appeared during the last days are just preparing of the Serbian public for that moment. DL also says that it has been speculated that Serbian PM Vojislav Kostunica tries to agree with del Ponte that she does not raise the issue of Radovan Karadzic in return for Mladic's arrest.
Oslobodjenje op-ed: Mladic's punishment should lead to change of mentality	Oslobodjenje pg 9 'Ratko Mladic' op-ed by Edin Krehic – Commenting allegations on arrest of Ratko Mladic, editorial says Mladic's punishment for his deeds before the ICTY, should lead to change of sense by those who still think the general is a hero. "If this does not happen, Mladic will stay among us forever," concludes author.

NN op-ed: Serbian authorities are not negotiating with Mladic, but instead Military and Security Agency is	Nezavisne Novine op-ed pg 7 'Cer battle' by Pero SImic – In regard to recent media speculation on possible apprehension of Ratko Mladic, the author raises many issues such as: was there any sort of "battle" with Mladic, where was it, did members of Military Security Agency rig the entire chase to satisfy impatient authority, and so on. The author shares the view of "Politika" columnist and former senior officer of Yugoslav Army saying that the story about Mladic will soon be completed, and the most possible truth is that Serbian authorities are not negotiating with Mladic, but instead members of Military Security Agency who have known for years now where Mladic was hiding, but never provided those information to Serbian state officials.

Int press on Mladic arrest speculations: numerous rumours emerged in past years, but never this intensely; support for Mladic in decline, Serbs more concerned with Kosovo talks; Bildt: Mladic may never reach ICTY alive; AP: BIA leads operation

Today [Thursday], the international media – including Suddeutsche Zeitung, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, Frankfurter Rundschau – report that rumours on Ratko Mladic arrest have continue to “sweep through the region” despite officials denials by Serbian authorities and Carla Del Ponte.

Media note that the EU pressure on SCG has very much increased, and Telegraph notes that if Mladic is handed over to the justice “there will be little doubt that pressure from the EU played a decisive role”. International Herald Tribune stresses that “the speculation Tuesday was the most intense in years,” while Financial Times notes “there has been nothing to match the flurry of reports echoed around the world this week.” FT, and well as Telegraph, concludes “today support [for Mladic] is declining as Serbs realise he is blocking political and economic progress. Far greater passions are generated by the possible loss of Kosovo.” Wall Street Journal, Washington Post and IHT carried AP report: “Serb security officials insisted Wednesday talks were under way for the surrender of Mladic, despite denials... Serbian authorities have made contact with Mladic, a senior security official, close to the operation to capture the general, told The Associated Press. The official said “a direct line of communication” has been established... “If he does not surrender, we’ll do everything possible to hand him over” to ICTY, the unnamed official said.” Another IHT’s article reads “while there was no proof to substantiate the media claims, senior western diplomats and local analysts said there were indications that the Serbian government was closer than ever to finding the general.” IHT quotes “a diplomat close to police and legal officials assigned to help find the general” that “everybody who is involved in this process is on standby,” adding the operation was being led by members of the Serbian intelligence service. Telegraph also published blog by the former HR to BiH Carl Bildt who wrote that Mladic may never reach The Hague alive. Bildt writes: “Speculations in Belgrade point at three possibilities in play: the first and most serious one is that Mladic should commit suicide in the crucial moment. “The second is that he should be liquidated during the arrest, and the third, and least probable, is that he should be arrested. And I essentially agree with this.” Both Times and BBC publish articles by Nick Hawton from Kalinovik, Mladic’s birthplace reporting that “in his own mountains, Mladic is still a hero”. It also notes the possible relation with Kosovo negotiations: “This week also saw the opening... of talks on the “final status” of Kosovo...The Serbs’ hand will hardly be strengthened if they are seen to be protecting General Mladic.”

BBC analyses: "What's fuelling rumours of Mladic arrest?"	BBC's Nick Hawton reporting from Sarajevo wonders "What's fuelling rumours of Mladic arrest?" Analysing reasons behind rumours on Mladic arrest, Hawton says: "The bushfire of speculation and claims has reached a new intensity and has led many to believe that something is finally afoot. So what is actually happening? As the saying goes "there is no smoke without fire"... So why have all these rumours arisen at this time and so spectacularly? There are a number of possible reasons. Firstly, the Serbian government is desperate to be seen to be acting on the issue. Foreign aid, membership of the EU, even Serbia's international image are, in large part, dependent on its co-operation over the Mladic case... Secondly, and perhaps more intriguingly, is it possible that the current rumours have been started in order to test public opinion for a future Mladic arrest? The reports and speculation over the past few days could be a useful way of testing the water for any future reaction. Thirdly, it is possible that negotiations and an operation are really under way and that, somehow, details have leaked."
Independent, Telegraph: If Mladic surrenders, it would be for money; RS Police Director Andan negotiates scenario similar to Gotovina case	Independent analyses a possibility of Ratko Mladic's surrender: "possible negotiations... are likely to be tough for several reasons. [Mladic] is allegedly in a highly nervous and changeable state... and keeps changing his mind on whether to surrender or not". RS Police Director Dragomir Andan, reportedly arrived to Belgrade on Tuesday afternoon to negotiate a scenario similar to the arrest of...Ante Gotovina. Negotiations, analysts say, are not only about saving face, though, and money can be the deciding factor." Telegraph's last article begins stating "There must be many smiling faces in Bosnia. Ratko Mladic may be finally on his way to the courtroom." It further analyses: "Of course Mladic will not be surrendering because he has developed a conscience. After 11 years as a fugitive he has run out of road. His surrender would crown a process which the Serbian government has been encouraging since... Vojislav Kostunica took office two years ago." It adds that if surrender is to take place, than the reason will be the money, as "an appearance at the Hague would mean total humiliation" and notes Mladic "does not seem ready to follow the tradition of suicide that runs in his family and fall on his sword."

SDS calls on all Ministers to withdraw from CoM; Justice Minister Kovac says this would damage SAA process	RTRS – After RS President and SDS leader Dragan Cavic urged all SDS-supported ministers and deputies to withdraw from the BiH Council of Ministers, BiH Minister of Justice Slobodan Kovac commented that none of them should resign because of launched negotiations on the Stabilisation and Association Agreement with the EU. Kovac explained that all Ministers at BiH CoM have been appointed in accordance with laws, which also regulate the way Ministers can be dismissed. He stressed that, in accordance with these laws, Ministers are obliged to finish the started projects even if they are dismissed. BiH Presidency member Borislav Paravac stated that the call for resignation doesn't refer to him. He explained that he is successor of former Presidency member Mirko Sarovic, directly elected by Serb people. "Therefore, I have all the electoral rights that Sarovic had had when he was appointed", said Paravac. BiH Defence Minister Nikola Radovanovic, Deputy Minister of Foreign Trade Slobodan Ecimovic and Deputy Security Minister Dragan Mektic didn't comment SDS request for their resignations. In the press release issued by SDS, this party demands resignation of Radovanovic because of "latest stances of PDP on defence and accusations that RS President has lost the RS Army while he was attempting to preserve his own position". Therefore, SDS suggests that PDP appoints the new Defence Minister and demonstrated its new concept of defence. RS Association of Inmates and Association of Serb NGO's sharply condemned such behaviour and disputes, stating that Serbs can't be hostages of anybody's personal ambitions. BHT1 – SDS called upon BIH Minister of Foreign Affairs Mladen Ivanic to start an initiative for abolishment of BIH defence law if he feels that the defence reform is endangering Serb national interest. Kovac stressed that SDS has appointed him, but that he was elected by BiH Parliament where was supported by other parties as well. "I think that eight months before election it is not wise to withdraw people from CoM and everyone who see there a chance to take over the authority should do so when they get elected by people" stated Kovac. Stanimirovic repeated that SDP would not support Dodik if he does not accept SDP condition to candidate one Serb and one Bosniak for the ministers in new Government, adding that SDP would not give up on their principle of multi-ethnicity. Dodik demands SDP to candidate two Bosniaks, so he could fulfil national balance demanded by RS Constitution. SDP leader Lagumdzija on const. changes: Agreed solution on const. changes are not perfect but it is better than to wait for 2010	FTV – SDP leader Zlatko Lagumdzija feels that negotiations on constitutional changes in BiH should contribute to moving of sovereignty from entities towards the state, adding that participants of negotiations decided to accept SDP's proposal from September 2004, which was supported by Washington and Brussels. He stated that BiH would soon have one President, Prime Minister and BiH Parliament Speaker. "It was more important for us for BiH to have sovereignty on all its territory and for BiH Parliament to make all the laws than duration of BiH President's mandate", stressed Lagumdzija. He underlined negotiations haven't ended and added that significant progress was made in comparison with the last 10 years. RHB– Lagumdzija said that agreed solutions are not perfect, but reminded that they are incomplete and that negotiations would continue. Dnevni Avaz pg 5 'Constitutional principles would be discussed in the Parliament and not in front of it' – Lagumdzija added he hopes that the agreement on the issue would be reached soon and forwarded to the parliamentary procedure, "to the people elected to the Parliament and not to those who weren't" [refers to SBiH, SDU and BOSS]. Ivanic reiterated that only unofficial talks between several political parties, which took part at constitutional changes talks, were held and that such meeting were held several times. Agreement can be reached only at a joint meeting of all political parties and it could be valid only if all political parties support it, said Ivanic. Dnevni Avaz pg 5 'Agreement without representatives of all three peoples is not possible' by E. Sarac – Ivanic added all three peoples have to stand together behind joint solutions.
