PIC session: OHR closing down on 30 June 2007

PIC Steering Board decides on closing down OHR end of June 2007; final decision depending on BiH progress at beginning of 2007 Hayat by Lejla Gutlic – The Office of the High Representative in BiH will be closed on June 30, 2007, was announced on Friday following two-day meeting of the political directors of the PIC [Peace Implementation Council] Steering Board countries. "We have decided that the OHR in BiH should be closed on June 30th, 2007, while the preparations for the closure should start immediately... I will remain the EU Special Representative, continuing the work of coordinating [the IC activities], facilitating progress and seeking solutions. I think that this is a good path for BiH's future", said High Representative Christian Schwarz-Schilling who noted that in the role of EUSR he would have lesser authorities. PIC made it clear that the ongoing reform processes had to be implemented and that BiH politicians had to make an agreement on police reform, based upon the three EU principles. PIC Steering

Board emphasized that the Police Reform Directorate was a legitimate, technical body, established to create a plan on implementation in line with the political agreement passed by all Parliaments in BiH, on October 5, 2005. The HR pointed out that BiH politicians had a number of tasks to complete by the October elections, such as to bring some crucial reform laws. FTVby Zeljko Tica – FTV notes OHR closure does not mean the withdrawal of the International Community; on the contrary, IC will remain fully engaged in BiH, with a larger presence of the European Union, and through EUFOR, EUPM and other countries' diplomatic missions. PIC also discussed the necessity of the full cooperation with ICTY. BHT 1 by Vanja Furtula – PIC announced it would reassess its decision on OHR closure at the beginning of 2007, in February; Schwarz-Schilling explained the implementation of this decision would depend on the reform processes and overall situation in BiH and region. BHT 1 says HR on Friday was not ready to answer certain questions, such as — what would happen in case the work of domestic institutions is blocked due to politicians' inability to reach an agreement.Oslobodjenje cover splash, pgs 4-5 'OHR to close down on 30 June next year', inset 'Without undermining Dayton' - PIC stressed that no attempt to undermine Dayton Peace Agreement would be tolerated either before or after 30 June 2007. Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'OHR leaves BiH on 30 June next year', mentioned on cover, by T. Lazovic - PIC also called on BiH authorities to solve the issue of allocation of public revenues from the single ITA account. RS Prime Minister,

Milorad Dodik, was asked to withdraw charges filed against leaders of Indirect Taxation Administration, Joly Dixon and Kemal Causevic. 	take upon themselves responsibility for the situation in the

PDPs Ivanic welcomes OHR closing down	<pre>Oslobodjenje pg 4 'Ivanic welcomes decision on abolishing OHR' - PDP leader Mladen Ivanic welcomed the termination or transformation of the OHR into an Office of the Special Representative of the EU deeming it is "extremely good for BH". "This process will end soon. This means that domestic institutions can stop counting on the OHR passing decisions on our behalf," he explained. In that context, Ivanic said the statements of BiH Presidency chairman Sulejman Tihic that the withdrawal of the OHR should be delayed until at least after the October elections are "very counter-productive" and "absurd". BHT 1 - "It will be a great challenge, especially for certain parties from Sarajevo who believe that international institutions will fulfil all their wishes. The time of such politics and political framework is definitely behind us. The OHR closure can only be a good thing for this country", said Ivanic. RS President Cavic: Decision on closing down OHR was expected	<pre>RTRS, Glas Srpske pg 3 'Expected decision', Nezavisne novine pg 3'RS in favor, FBiH against abolishment of OHR'- RS President Dragan Cavic stated on Friday that decision on OHR's closure next year was nothing unexpected and that it clearly showed that from 2007 BiH was entering an integration phase in which everybody would have to learn that all solutions in B-H have to be sought in partner relations. "Without this BiH will not be able to build its future and that is the best message to all in BiH," Cavic said, adding that in BiH nobody would be able to expect the international community to work instead of others, but that decisions would have to be made jointly. Cavic told journalists that the international community was clear about having B-H as a partner, not a disciplined child who is unable to make decisions on its own.</pre>
SNSD welcomes decision on OHR closing down	<pre>Dnevni Avaz pg 3 'They were an alibi for domestic politicians' - Commenting announced transformation of the OHR, SNSD Vice President Krstan Simic said he was also advocating for the BiH politicians to take over the responsibility for the future of this country. Nezavisne novine pg 3'RS in favor, FBiH against abolishment of OHR' - Nikola Spiric, member of SNSD's main board, said the decision was entirely logical and it means an obligation for local political to take over respobility.</pre>
HDZs Raguz, SDPs Krizanovic: process to be monitored	BHT 1 - "I think that previous role of High Representative will be included in the function of EUSR in BiH, with a high-quality monitoring over the whole process, and expert help to domestic institutions", said Martin Raguz, member of HDZ 1990 Croatian Unity. Nezavisne novine pg 3 'RS in favor, FBiH against abolishment of OHR' - Jozo Krizanovic, SDP Main Board member, says that if the politicians continue to act alike now, than the OHR's termination would be counter-productive.

Int with CoM Chair Terzic: IC has accepted nothing will happen in police reform before elections, that is wrong; tiding OHRs closure to date is wrong; Brussels doesn't want rapid progress in BiH; SAA will be delayed

Oslobodjenje 'Pogled' supplement pgs 4-5 'There is a crematorium in SDA to burn down people they previously placed at executing positions' by Senka Kurtovic – In an lengthy interview to daily, the BiH Council of Minister Chair, Adnan Terzic, admits he is skeptical of closing down OHR and abolishment of the Bonn powers:

"It seems that what I was most afraid is exactly what is happening. My idea was that the exit strategy must not be tied to date, but process... of singing the Stabilization and Association Agreement. If we say that OHR is to leave the BiH on 17 July next year, that is a certain way of ensuring nothing happens in BiH, as all will just sit and wait for the date to come." Commenting journalist's remark that OHR termination is being discussed despite the fact that main reforms have not been implemented, Terzic says: "I am afraid that IC has accepted the fact that nothing would happen in police reform before elections. That is a wrong way... I assume that the IC is mistaken showing an understanding for those with a problem about police reform because of elections. Nevertheless, I am certain everything will be accepted after elections." However, CoM Chair also claims it may be in Brussels' interest to slow things down in BiH: "I am afraid that even Brussels would love for us not to make rapid progress to avoid making distinction between processes in BiH and Serbia... I have a feeling Brussels would love to cease negotiations with BiH." Asked to elaborate why he feels this, Terzic explains: "Because we are a millimeter away from walking through European doors. We need an impetus from Europe. But, there is none. Europe sticks to 3 principles [on police] ... without stating precisely what do those are... I will meet [EC] Commissioner [Ollie] Rehn soon and I will try to get to clear position. It is impossible that European standard means drawing up a map of police regions, design of uniforms, HQ... Why do we deal with this? Those are internal issues of every state." Terzic also thinks that signing of the SAA would be delayed: "EU Council of Ministers could give approval in October in order to sign [SAA] in November. But, we'll certainly fail to meet that deadline... Problem is in political situation... Elections change everything." He notes that there probably would not be more talk before March next year. Finally, he commented the fact that SDA did not include him in its elections list for any of important positions: "I am 15 years a member of SDA and I know very well that inside SDA there is a crematorium to burn down people they previously place at executing positions... [so] this doesn't surprise me."

Dnevni list cover splash, pgs 2-3 'Islamisation has started' not signed – DL carries "exclusive story" on presence of the mujaheedins in BiH, grounding its story on information which is apparently confirmed by FBiH Interior Ministry and other security services. Thus, DL alleges that the "Islamisation" commenced in 1992 by conference of extremist organization Hesbollah, whose representatives met in Zagreb in April '92. According to the FBiH MoI and intelligence findings, mujaheedins arrived in BiH under the cover of humanitarian workers, using traveling channels between Croatian and former Croat Union Herceg Bosna. Furthermore, they would find "trustworthy" people in SDA or other recommended people, to establish and establish meeting points, checked routes and ways to transfer people to BiH. Trhough Split, mujaheedins would be transferred to BiH in collective centres in Zenica and Travnik, where they "systematically...conducted Islamic fundamentalist indoctrination of the local Muslim population." As war progressed, they allegedly were more trained and organized, soon having their own units within the BiH Armies. Bosniak leadership, says DL, was publicly claiming it had no authority over these fighters. Meanwhile, "during the exodus of Croat people, mujaheedins but also BiH Armv members committed terrible crimes." DL claims that the first "terrorist" unit comprised of mujaheedins in BiH was established in 1998. It also publishes the list of organizations allegedly suspected [without noting by whom] for terrorist activities: Bbi Bank, Bedr-Bosna, BIO Bank, Mos, Naba radio, settlements in Gornja Maoca, former municipality of Mostar South, company Vitezit, NGO 'Women to women', etc. It announces publishing the full list in next issue of weekly 'Danas'. The daily also says Air Bosna company was transferring these fighters to BiH, at which time the company office in Istanbul was lead by close associate of Haris Siljadzic.

RS Govt sets up Telekom Srpske privatisation plan; 65% of state capital to be offered through tender

BHT 1 by Zoran Sarenac – RS Government will announce at the beginning of July an international tender for the sale of 65 percent of state capital in Telekom Srpske. According to BHT reporter, only telecommunication companies with at least 800,000 fixed telephony subscribers, 1.5 million mobile line subscribers and €500 million of revenue in 2005 will be able to apply on the tender. "RS Government has adopted a decision on a special privatisation programme for Telekom Srpske company from Banjaluka, and forward it to the RS National Assembly", explained RS Assistant Minister of Transport and Communications Vlado Prpos. Representatives of BH Telecom and HT Mostar deem that BiH Council of Ministers or BiH Parliament should have approved the individual privatisation of telecom operators in BiH; however, they claim that the privatisation of Telekom Srpske will not harm their companies. "I don't think that the privatisation is such an easy job. In fact, I think that this privatisation of Telekom Srpske will be prolonged, and possibly carried out along with the privatisation of two FBiH telecom operators", stated HT Mostar Director Stipe Prlic. Financial advisers have estimated that Telekom Srpske is worth approximately €340 million; however, representatives of RS Government want at least €400 million for the 65 percent of state capital funds in this company.
