BHT1 speculates on future of SDS and future steps of IC

BHT1 By Zoran Sarenac – SDS assesses the investigation on their finances as an introduction to abolishment of their party, while SNSD considers that this campaign is prolonging SDS's time limit. The reporter stated that HR Paddy Ashdown has most certainly introduced SDS with sanctions that he will install due to failure of police reform, while on the other side SDS has started a campaign, searching for sympathies for alleged abolishment of the party. Analysts consider that HR is acting in accordance with the instructions of International Crisis Group, which recently suggested abolishment of SDS and change of the Constitution, but leader of the strongest BiH Party (Reporter's words) Milorad Dodik claims that all this is a calculated game. Many speculations have came out regarding this situation and most of them say that if Cavic fails to persuade RS politicians to accept police reform, SDS will cease to exist, Cavic will establish new Party, while International representatives will raise the issue of change of the Dayton Agreement, on its  $10^{\mbox{\tiny th}}$ anniversary.
