Constitutional reform

BiH HoR fails to adopt amendments to Constitution – 26 MPs voted in favour, 16 against; main objection: entity voting

BHT1 and RTRS late news reports – The session of BiH House of Representatives on the amendments to the BiH Constitution ended on Wednesday night at 22:45 with the rejection of the proposed amendments. 26 deputies voted for the amendments, and 16 were against which meant that the proposal was not supported by 2/3 majority of present MPs. The session was commenced on Tuesday, but on that day was interrupted after 15 hours long discussion without conclusion. Media report that the main reason for the rejection was objection by some FBiH parties against the perseverance of the entity vote in the House of Representative. Official proponent of the amendments was BiH Presidency, which came after the agreement was reached by the leaders of major BiH political parties in March. For the changes to be introduced before the October elections, deadline was set up for May 4 when the BiH Central Election Commission would schedule the elections. The changes proposed legislative authority for the Parliament, 87 MPs in the HoR, changing the role of the House of Peoples to deal only with the issues of vital national interest, election of one President and two vice presidents by the BiH Parliament, and broader authorities for the BiH Council of Ministers. US Ambassador Douglas McElhaney, Austrian Ambassador Werner Almhofer and Chief of EC Delegation in BiH Michael Humphreys attended the session, and were later joined by the High Representative Christian Schwarz-Schilling.
