DA: SDS will either cooperate or be destroyed

Dnevni Avaz cover splash, pg 2 'SDS will neither cooperate or be destroyed' by S.N.
– DA writes that "despite growing neurosis in the SDS," the IC representatives are determined to continue with the zero tolerance policy towards this party.
Apparently, as DA learns, pressure against SDS will be increased so as long the party doesn't endorse necessary reforms, especially those related to police. "While SDS threatens to leave the authorities [which caused a laugh in the international community]... OHR prepares new actions against SDS personnel and Boards failing to respect the law," reads the article further claiming that audits of the financial transactions can be expected in the SDS Boards of Trebinje, Foca, Bijeljina, Visegrad etc, while some measures could be expected already today.
The article concludes: "The message from the OHR is clear: unless the SDS changes and Pero Bukeylovic's Government stops with obstructions, the... largest RS party will be destroyed."

SDS leader Cavic: HR's decisions resulted in implicit banning of SDS	BHT, Hayat, RTRS, Oslobođenje cover page, pg 3' Paddy Ashdown brought SDS to/before abolishment', Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Lawsuit against Ashdown announced', Glas Srpske cover pg splash 'Retaliation over police' by D.Mo., Nezavisne Novine pg 2 'Dragan Cavic: SDS has been nearly banned', announced on cover 'SDS cannot function' by V.Popovic, EuroBlic RSp 2, announced on cover 'Cavic: Ashdown banned us' by Rajna Radosavljevic, FENA – President of the Serb Democratic Party (SDS) Dragan Cavic on Monday said that all the previous as well as the latest measures by the High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, have resulted in making SDS an implicitly banned political party. In recess of Monday's SDS Presidency session, Cavic told a press conference that this party has been disabled from functioning in any way possible and that its every decision can be characterized as a breach of the High Representative's Decision. When asked if SDS could exit the government in RS, Cavic said that this option is not excluded and added that it would be considered by the SDS Presidency, after which the Main Board would take the final stand. "We will respond with all political means, and all options are open. SDS can no longer be expected to be politically constructive or destructive, or anything until it has been put in an equitable position with the other parties", explained Cavic, referring to the measures against his party as a "classic act of political retribution/revenge". Cavic also stressed that if HR's measures aren't removed, SDS will not be able to participate in next elections, stressing that Municipality elections in Bijeljina are conducted without any incomes. "This kind of relation toward SDS awakes in it one serious radicalism, and that is natural consequence not of SDS's politics, which was normal, reasonable and in function of progress, but radicalism which was provoked by International Community by its measures. I do not believe that is can be stopped now"- stated Cavic. Asked what is the SDS's stance on police reform, Cavic said "It hasn't got any".

SDS to sue Ashdown over rights abuse

RTRS, Oslobođenje pg 3 'Lawsuit against HR', Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Lawsuit against Ashdown announced', Glas Srpske cover pg inset 'Lawsuit', FENA – The Serb Democratic Party (SDS) announced late on Monday that it would initiate a court procedure against High Representative Paddy Ashdown in Great Britain or some other country of the European Union. "Despite the newly-imposed blockade, the SDS will find ways to sue and initiate a court procedure against the High Representative in Bosnia-Herzegovina, Paddy Ashdown, in Great Britain or some other EU country which accepts jurisdiction for a legal dispute over the violations of human rights and liberties of members of this party committed during his mandate in Bosnia-Herzegovina," the SDS said in a statement issued after the extraordinary session of the party's presidency. The statement stressed that the High Representative's decisions had led the SDS to "complete financial ruin and that these measures are politically motivated with the aim of obstructing the party's activity, which represents the most flagrant violation of human rights and liberties guaranteed under the European convention on human rights and liberties, and international conventions on political freedom". The SDS expects solidarity and support from the parties constituting the majority in the Bosnia-Herzegovina parliament in its condemnation of what it describes as retaliation against this party over the past two days. "Failing this, the SDS will no longer have a reason to be a part of the parliamentary majority and SDS deputies will initiate a confidence vote in the Bosnia-Herzegovina Council of Ministers," the statement said.

Interview with Mladen Ivanic: CoM will not live to see elections

Nezavisne Novine pgs 8-9, announced on cover 'CoM will not live to see elections' by Natasa Krsman – in an interview to NN, BiH Minister of Foreign Affairs and PDP leader Mladen Ivanic says the current composition of CoM has no perspective and, most probably, will not sustain the same composition until the next elections. Ivanic sees a solution in a new CoM. With regard to his mandate, he criticized the manner in which CoM Chairman Adnan Terzic informed him about accepting his resignation and he added: 'This was politically primitive surfacing of a resignation submitted on some other occasion. Ashdown had stated the wish of the Chairman to appoint a new Foreign Affairs Minister was acceptable and, since Ashdown is a supreme authority, I am in a kind of a technical mandate'. He says police reform must be brought to an end through a compromise and he notes this is not a matter of a government but of a perception of peoples. He emphasises that the greatest problem of Serb people is not the police reform but the issue of war crimes. '...I think the critics were justified saying we have not distanced enough from the crimes indictees like Karadzic and others have committed', Ivanic said. With regard to his resignation, Ivanic said their (PDP's) goal was to establish new relations within CoM, stressing they had had two options – either to completely withdraw from CoM or to stay and make possible for an opinion other than SDS's to be heard at CoM. "A part of the international community, which had wanted PDP to remain at CoM had made a great step, which meant that the police reform must not be imposed", Ivanic says. Inset 'Dodik is the strongest party leader' – commenting on Adnan Terzic, Ivanic said it had become more important for Terzic to maintain regular meetings with HR. Hence, he had neglected relations within CoM and, as a result, a lack of trust can be felt in CoM. Asked who is, in his opinion, the strongest party leader in RS, Ivanic said it is beyond any doubt Milorad Dodik, while with regard to Dragan Cavic, Ivanic said he thinks his position is not simple at all since he is a symbol of reforms. He also thinks Cavic's position within his own party is unstable, since the burden of responsibility is too great.

Cenic announces consultations on police reform with RS pol. Parties/reactions by political parties	Nezavisne Novine pg 2 'Consultations with parties in the course of this week' by D.J. – Svetlana Cenik, RS Minister of Finance and member of the RS negotiating team, confirmed to daily that the consultations of negotiating team of RS Government with the leaders of the strongest political parties in RS on police reform will be held in the course of this week, adding: "It is still not known whether meetings would be held separately, or one meeting would take place. This mainly depends on party presidents and their wishes." EuroBlic RSpG 2, announced on cover 'Cavic: Ashdown banned us' by Rajna Radosavljevic – Mladen Ivanic, PDP President, says that PDP has not still received any official invitation for talks, adding that this party will take part in talks on police reform if SDS and SNSD are involved, "since this story would be meaningless without them". Krstan Simic, SNSD Vice President, claims that SNSD will not respond to possible invitation for police reform consultations, since the authority should take the burden of such decisions. Marko Pavic, DNS President, claims he holds no information on any consultation/meeting, stressing that there is always space for talks and DNS's stance will depend on "proposal of RS Government". Petar Djokic, SP RS President, is also of the view that the authority should bear responsibility for police reform, while this issue needs to be settled through institutions. EuroBlic RSpG 2 'Radicals support unity' – Milanko Mihajlica, President of the RS Serb Radical Party, stated that "RS has been exposed to pressures strongest of all so far and parliamentary parties in charge should sit and find a way-out from this, since only unified political response will make it clear to international community that such approach of its officials is not acceptable. Talks on police reform should resume with respect of interests and Constitutions of RS and BiH."

Oslobodjenje op-eds on current political scene in BiH and nationalistic attitudes	Oslobodjenje op-ed pg 9 'New barricades' by Mirko Sagolj – Writing about current political situation in BiH, the author notes that whenever a slightest possibility of seeing BiH avoid division upon ethnicity and new cataclysm, the ruling nationalists prevent it by placing new nationalistic barricades. He stresses that ruling Serb parties are now – at any cost – trying to keep authority over police, seen as guarantee for survival of Dayton RS. Furthermore, he refers to HDZ persistence on seeing Croat TV channel established, although Law on PBS is one of pre-requisites for BiH path towards EU integration. He concludes by raising the issue of education and division at schools by SDA and HDZ, concluding that “and if elementary school pupils are today separated upon ethnic basis, what can BiH expect in the future?” Oslobodjenje op-ed pg 9 'The issue of all times' by Zija Dizdarevic – The author notes that the RS is again using a conflictive Dayton concept of BiH and a habit of the international authority to treat it as equal to BiH state. He stresses that the obstruction of police reform from Banja Luka proves that survival of BiH is still a subject to negotiations. Noting not only RS and international officials can be blamed for the existing situation, the author raises the issue of why the coalition for EuroAtlantic BiH state has not been established, blaming SDA, SDP and Party for BiH – parties presenting themselves as fighters for BiH – for this failure. He concludes by saying that those political parties in BiH against EutoAtlantic BiH state are in favour of (pre)war option.

According to a spokesman of the Indirect Tax Authority, Ratko Kovacevic, any changes that would result in introduction of two rates would mean postponement of application of the VAT law since the ITA has trained its staff on basis of the current law and because the whole information system (software) is based on one rate of the VAT.

RTRS interview with PDHR Butler: Audits in RS unveiled organised crime network	RTRS Zorica Rulj– Principal Deputy of High Representative (PDHR) Lawrence Butler will meet on Tuesday with RS Chief Auditor Bosko Ceko, where they will discuss audits in public companies “Srpske Sume” and “Elektroprivreda”. Speaking for RTRS, PDHR Butler said that these cases show inefficiency of institutions in fight against organized crime and with regard to that he emphasized necessity of police reform. PDHR considers that audits in RS public companies have discovered the net of organized crime, stressing that he expects the Prosecution to act now, being that large amounts of money have been lost. “That is one of the reasons that I will talk to Mr Ceko. My team will sit down with his and we will pass through the audit, so that we will pass some things very concretely. We didn’t have time to do that thoroughly since it was presented, but next steps are in hands of the RS Prosecutor”, said PDHR. PDHR said that these embezzlements have shown that BiH doesn’t have Institution capable to deal with the crime, due to which it is necessary to continue the process of police reform, warning RS authorities that EU will not change principles for that reform. “Brussels will not change its stance when it comes to these three principles. That is why they are called principles. Those principles are nonnegotiable. We can’t allow ourselves, nor this country can think about getting closer to the Europe if we don’t fulfil police reform, based on these three principles”, said Butler. PDHR said that FBiH and RS Governments will have much to do, in order to start with VAT procedure on January 1st, stressing that authorities have to enable this, but also they have to protect those, who will be in need of help after that. RTRS late news brings full interview with PHDR, where he said that failure of police reform will have impact on BiH economy, because last years proven that RS or FBiH do not have efficient institutions which would deal with street crime, which disables investment and business. PDHR stressed that this is the reason why leading people of police organizations have gathered to try to overcome this last obstacle for signing of Stabilization and Association Agreement, which would also strengthen investment and business climate in BiH. Asked about Opposition’s demand for changes of the Law on VAT- PDHR Butler said that creation of indirect tax authority is a great thing for improvement of BiH economy, stressing that ITA is now making efforts to register companies. PDHR stressed that politicians should provide assistance to people who need it, stressing that this can’t be done by playing games with VAT, because VAT has to be transparent and equally correct in every segment of economy, but won’t be correct in segment of grey economy, which in fact is cheating people in BiH by not paying taxes and in that manner taking money from BiH citizens. PDHR stressed that in next few months Board of ITA will have lot to do to implement VAT, in sense to find mechanisms that will disable those who try to gain money from VAT for themselves. Glas Srpske pg 2 ‘Butler is coming’ by G.D. – carried OHR media advisory announcing visit of Lawrence Butler, PDHR, to Banja Luka today (Tuesday).
