RS Govt
filed today
lawsuit vs
ITA SB Chair
Dixon,
Director
Causevic

RTRS – Milorad Dodik, RS Premier, has today stated that the RS Government has today filed a suit with BH Prosecutor's Office against ITA Steering Board Chair, Joly Dixon, and ITA Director, Kemal Causevic. Dodik said RS Government sued them because "by violating the law and regulations and decisions of the ITA SB, they have damaged the RS budget for over BAM 50 thousand." Dodik explained: "We are of the view that there is a criminal responsibility of Mr Dixon and Mr Causevic for a damage inflicted upon RS over distribution of resources from ITA single account." Dodik explained that in 2005, Dixon has passed and signed independent decision, while Causevic was aware this decision was not discussed at the SB but still he implemented it, by which he had violated the Law and previous decision of ITA SB. Dodik also said: "Dixon is a foreigner in BiH and his professional employment is at ITA – therefore, speculation is not true he does not bear legal responsibility or holds immunity." He stressed that Dixon is responsible in line with BiH Laws, since "he causes consequences here, not from where he came." RHB, BH Radio 1 – also reported.

But the message that came from the BiH is negative. BiH is indecisive when its road is in question..." However, Ambassador stressed that "US stands by BiH peoples and BiH". BiH HoR MP Potocnik: IC will take break and see nothing can be done by force	Dnevni Avaz pg 5 'End of take-it-or-leave-it system' by S.S. – Commenting failure of BiH House of Representatives to adopt amendments to the BiH Constitution, independent deputy Mladen Potocnik , who voted against, said that nothing horrible happened: "We showed our readiness and will for constitutional changes, but not any kind. New constitution has to be made, but it should not be done under someone's pressure." He added that International Community would take a break after this and see that nothing can be done by force.
Chief Negotiator Davidovic: this would be dissimulating for SAA talks	Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'This is dissimulating for further talks to the EU' by T.L. – BiH Chief Negotiator for Stabilization and Association Agreement Igor Davidovic stated for DA that failure to pass amendments to BiH Constitution would be dissimulating for continuance of the talks on SAA. "Such development of events would certainly not be stimulating for course of the talks. That is clear when we see how strong EC and Head of the Delegation Michael Humphreys were supporting the reforms," said Davidovic.
SD: SDP tried to trick Croats, Lagumdžija insulted HDZ 1990's Raguz	Slobodna Dalmacija , pg 19, mentioned on front 'Zlatko Lagumdžija insulted Raguz', by Zlatko Tulic – according to Tulic , the most interesting moment of the 2 nd day of session of BiH HoR happened when the SDP made a proposition to the Croat MPs (that when all seven MPs of a one constituent people in the BiH HoP reject a law adopted in the BiH HoP it would automatically be rejected, without the need to send the law to the Constitutional Court for assessment). According to Tulic , it was the last and desperate attempts by Zlatko Lagumdžija, Dragan Covic, Dragan Covic and Sulejman Tihic , to carry out another 'deception' in the BiH HoP through a Croat member of SDP who would be sitting in the BiH HoP. This was rejected by HDZ 1990's Martin Raguz , which allegedly made Lagumdžija very angry and triggered him to insult Raguz.

DA: Tuesday and Wednesday were two most tempestuous days at State Parliament since Dayton	Dnevni Avaz pg 5 'Two most tempestuous days at State Parliament' by N.Orahovac – Daily notes that this weeks' Tuesday and Wednesday were the most tempestuous days at the BiH Parliament since the Dayton was signed, adding it may be a usual thing when Constitution of a state is changed. Daily observes the sessions were unique chance to see "alive" how parliamentary lobbying looks like, since there was no free space either room where "a duo" of delegates was not seen explaining each other what is wrong with proposal and in what manner "everything should be resolved once and for all". Daily adds the most interesting thing to see was how Douglas McElchany, US Ambassador to BiH, was calling on delegates for a talk, like Mehmed Zilic, Sead Avdic, Mladen Potocnik, Mirko Blagojevic. Daily adds Zilic was "a special target" not only from his party colleagues from SDA but also of SDP' Zlatko Lagumdžija, but he proved to be "tough". Daily adds Avdic also had some bad time, while Martin Raguz was at one point seen "all in sweat talking with himself". According to inset 'Pensioner also endured', one of delegates from those opposing changes commented on lengthy breaks (recognised as tactics of exhaustion), said: "They cannot exhaust us. We will also ensure – more easily than they will. Because they have one pensioner." The latter refers to Pensioners' Party delegate, Muhamed Altic, who will turn 74 in December.
Osl. op-ed on const. chgs: 'Things that were agreed are political capital that should be used'	Oslobodjenje pg 9 'Singling out' by Z. Dizdarevic comments on non-adoption of the constitutional changes and the author says that BiH has missed a chance to move from the Dayton, take on a reform and European course. Osl. also says that US Ambassador Douglas McElhaney was completely dedicated to this project and that one can only hope his statement saying Washington would not participate in the next attempt to change the Constitution if the first one fails would be changed. The author concludes that the most stupid thing to do now would be to completely reject the things that are the result of hard negotiations since this is a political capital that should be used.
NN op-ed: politicians once again ignored will of majority of citizens	Nezavisne Novine op-ed pg 7 'Now what?' by Aleksandar Sekulic – Referring to failure of politicians to adopt constitutional amendments, the author notes certain local politicians once again ignored will of the majority of their citizens and – just to make it more complicated and unbelievable – the debacle was ensured by those representatives of parties that used the parliamentary discussion for their personal pre-election promotion only.
DL comment: Entity voting is too big a deal to be ignored	Dnevni List, pg 2 '(No) Constitutional changes', by Pejo Gasparevic – the author generally disagrees with the proposed entity voting in the BiH HoR, which would "endanger the status of a constitutional people to Croats in our country", arguing it is "too big a deal" that one must not ignore. Gasparevic also notes that Croat politicians have been in past 15 years signing all agreements, often with no vision at all, which in turn made the Croat position difficult, which was not the case this time around.

VL comment: Voting in BiH HoR again showed differences between peoples	Vecernji List , pg 4 'Freak', by Zdenko Cosic – the author argues that the events in the BiH HoR and previous practice that the OHR is the one that carries out interventions in the BiH legislation have shown that BiH has become an infinite protectorate. Cosic also argues that the BiH HoR session again showed the differences between the three peoples in BiH, in which the Serbs want to preserve the RS, the Bosniaks want to establish a new, civic, Bosnian identity, whilst the Croats want equality in the state. As a conclusion, Cosic says BiH continues to live as a freak, no matter whether the changes get adopted or not.
VL comment: BiH deeply in pre-election campaign	Vecernji List , pgs 4-5 'Pre-election game about Constitution', mentioned on front 'First phase of pre-election campaign', by HINA – the article notes that the failure to adopt constitutional changes clearly shows that BiH is already deep in the pre-election campaign, arguing it is mostly used by the HDZ 1990, which gained publicity by taking on the HDZ BiH leader, Dragan Covic , and confronting him on the issue, and by the SBIH, which used the issue to foremost launch back into the politics its founder Haris Silajdzic .
VL comment: There are many pros and cons after const. changes got rejected	Vecernji List , pg 4 'Demise of Croats from political scene prevented', by M. V. – the author argues there are many pros and cons when constitutional changes i.e. the failure to adopt them is concerned. Author says that good sides of the failure, are that Croats will not be sidelined owing to the entity voting, the RS based on genocide will not be legalized, and that BiH still has politicians that care about the sovereignty of the country by not giving in to various pressures, foremost by the US Ambassador to BiH. On the other sides, the bad sides are that a message has been sent to the IC that the 3 peoples cannot reach a consensus, that the road to Europe will be slowed down and that the US administration will " wash its hands of BiH for some time ".
Vjesnik: Polls showed not more than 40% citizenry support changes	Vjesnik , pg 7 'Majority of citizens against proposed model', by Alenko Zornija – the author says that despite numerous statements by IC and BiH officials that majority of BiH citizens support the proposed changes, no opinion poll showed that the changes are supported by more than 40% of the citizenry.
Vjesnik: Main reason behind failure is reluctance of IC to raise issue of middle level authority	Vjesnik , pg 15 'Without changes', by Marko Barisic – according to Barisic , the main reason behind the failure lies in the fact that the IC went into the process by advocating for cosmetic changes only, i.e. by refusing to organize a discussion on the middle level of authority. The author also reckons that the Croats do not have reasons to regret the outcome of the issue because the changes would annul their status of a constituent people.

SB op-ed: Opponents of const. changes buried BiH's last hope	Slobodna Bosna pgs 4-5 'New Bosnian vague myth – confidence' op-ed by Senad Avdic – Harshly criticizing all the BiH House of Representatives deputies that voted against the amendments to the BiH Constitution, especially SDA's Muhamed Zilic, editorial reads that they are responsible for "burring almost the very last hope for something to be changed in this country." Author concluded that the fact these deputies were referring to confidence entrusted to them by their voters is nothing but a farce. Dani: SBiH founder Silajdzic and clashes within SDA and HDZ brought down const. changes Dani pgs 18-20 'Move forward Europe, don't wait for us...' by Dzenana Karup-Drusko – Dani comments personal ambitions of SBiH founder Haris Silajdzic, and clashes within SDA and HDZ prevented amendments to be adopted in BiH HoR.

EUFOR Commander Chiarini: terrorism is a global threat and BiH a other countries is endangered

Dnevni Avaz pg 8 'Terrorists threat all countries and so to BiH as well', mentioned on cover by Lana Sinanovic– In an interview to DA, EUFOR Commander Gian Marco Chiarini said that EUFOR command has recently received information that one of the most wanted war criminals, probably Radovan Karadzic, is hiding in BiH. "At this moment we do not have information that war crimes indictees are on BiH territory. We monitor the situation carefully and continue to work in full power for them to be faced with the justice", said Chiarini. Commenting on police reform, Chiarini compared it to successful defence reform, stressing: "it is a bit harder with police reform. I personally expect that this reform, with a bit more flexibility of people that are involved in the process, would achieve the same success as the defence reform did. Searching for compromises is the essence of the democracy", said Chiarini. Asked about information on terrorist cells in BiH, Chiarini said that terrorism is a global threat, which endangers all countries in the world. "We cannot exclude the existence of the threat in any country and that goes for BiH as well. However, at this moment EUFOR has no data that would lead us to conclusion that threat of terrorism and terrorist attacks is larger in BiH than elsewhere" said Chiarini.
