Cavic meets
Tadic,
Kostunica

RTRS, BHT 1, Oslobođenje pg 4 'All indictees must go to the Hague' by B.Boskov, Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Tadic, Kostunica and Cavic warned that change of Dayton would destabilize the region' by Onasa, Glas Srpske pg 3 'Dayton for a peaceful Balkans', Nezavisne Novine pg 4 'Cooperation with the Hague must be complete' by Agencies, Vecernje Novosti pg 2 'Course towards Europe via The Hague' – RS President Dragan Cavic, held separate meetings with Serbian President, Boris Tadic, and Serbian Premier, Vojislav Kostunica in Belgrade on Monday. The meeting between Tadic and Cavic concluded that the cooperation with ICTY needs to be on the top level and agreed this is of a vital interest for both RS and Serbia. Tadic told press conference that "cooperation with the Hague must be complete. The indictees must go to The Hague and face there with judicial system.. There is no dilemma about this." Cavic assessed "time is running out", stressing that RS is completely aware of "extent of the danger" in case that duties towards the Hague Tribunal were not fulfilled. Tadic and Cavic also expressed full support to the Dayton Peace Agreement, assessing that any questioning of this agreement might result in instability in BiH and the region. The two officials also discussed the work of Srebrenica Commission, concluding that people responsible for this crime must be penalised.

Dnevni List last pg 'Prime Ministers for respecting of Dayton' not signed, Vecernje Novosti pg 2 'Any revision of Dayton is dangerous' by P. Vasiljevic – Vojislav Kostunica, Serbian Prime Minister, said on Monday that any change of the Dayton Peace Agreement upon demand of one side might have a counter-effect, meaning it could result in destabilisation of the entire region. He stressed Dayton Agreement is a complex contract behind which 3 constitutive people in BIH stand. He adds that without consent of one people in BIH it is not possible to change Dayton or BIH Constitution. Meetings also concluded it is necessary to improve relations in the fields of economy and culture.

Dnevni Avaz pg 2 inset 'Ivanic in Belgrade today too' – BiH Foreign Affairs Minister, Mladen Ivanic, will also be visiting Belgrade today and will meet with the President Boris Tadic.

Tihic: It is time for new Constitution without Tudjman and Milosevic	Dnevni Avaz cover splash 'New Constitution without Tudjman and Milosevic', pg 2 'It is time for Constitution without Milosevic and Tudjman' by A. Malagic – Commenting to the criticism address by Borislav Paravac against him, [please see BiH Media Round-up for Sept 27], the BiH Presidency chairman, Sulejman Tihic, said that his speeches before UN General Assembly and participants of the Zagreb conference were in line with the platform adopted by the BiH Presidency, the platform of BiH foreign affairs and adequate UN resolutions. "The introduction and qualifications such as aggression or genocide are contained in the UN Security Council's resolution adopted on 15 May 1992... Beside, trials of Blaskic and Tadic clears confirmed the international characteristic of the war," Tihic stressed. As for the criticism regarding his statement of BiH's transition from Dayton's to Brussel's BiH, Tihic dismissed it calling it illogical as BiH is on that path for a longer time: "BiH is the European state, with the Constitution and the laws that would have to be adjusted to Brussels... These people [referring to Paravac, Cavic] are either not committed to European way, or they are doing this because of elections." Finally, Tihic said that he believes it is a time to change BiH Constitution, as Dayton Peace Accord became an obstacle to BiH's development. "The Constitution can be changed only with approval of political representatives of all peoples. I think we should do it, but this time without Tudjman and Milosevic." Finally Tihic said that he was surprised with the comments of RS President, Dragan Cavic, adding they were on the edge of ill manners.

GS reaction on Tihic, Mesic advocating for change of BiH constitution	Glas Srpske, cover page story 'Two wartime friends' by E. G. S. – The article insinuates that BiH Presidency Chairman Sulejman Tihic and Croatian President Stjepan Mesic would like to continue where their predecessors – Alija Izetbegovic and Franjo Tudjman – have stopped, considering the fact Mesic supported Tihic's stance on BiH being in a need of a change to the Constitution and Dayton Agreement. Professor Gugo Lazarevic from Banja Luka says: 'Binding of Bosniak and Croat politics, similar to what we had in 1991 and 1992, primarily aims at centralisation of BiH, but also aims at realisation of hidden wishes of Sarajevo and Zagreb'. He warned the leadership of RS to pay more attention to hidden politics of parties from the Federation of BiH, especially to politics of SDP of Zlatko Lagumdzija, the aim of which is to have Serbs and Croats disappear from BiH. A professor at the Faculty of Law in Banja Luka, Zeljko Mirjanic, says the entire politics of Sarajevo and Zagreb comes down to changing of BiH Constitution. According to him, statements of Tihic and Mesic show that a procedure on changing of BiH Constitution might be formally initiated. The article claims that citizens of Serb Sarajevo are against the proposal of Tihic and Mesic, and also quotes one of citizens as saying: 'Should BiH Constitution be changed against will of Serbs, we should support the stance of RS President Dragan Cavic on referendum. If the will of Serb people is not respected, then the people has a legitimate right to separation...' GS inset 'Ashdown' quotes Zeljko Mirjanicas saying that there is no possibility HR Paddy Ashdown would impose changes to the BiH Constitution. He claims HR Ashdown has no mandate to change the Constitution or any of the provisions of the Dayton Agreement and reminds that even HR Ashdown has stated that his task was to implement, not to change BiH Constitution. GS inset 'Dangerous disease', also reported in Vecernje Novosti, pg. 2 'Nothing against will of Serbs' by D. Todorovic, reads that RS Prime Minister Dragan Mikerevic has assessed demands of Sulejman Tihic with regard to changes to BiH Constitution as a 'new and dangerous disease called privatization of public services by incompetent Bosniak politicians'. As a comment to open plead for changing the Dayton Agreement by Croatian President Stjepan Mesic, Mikerevic said Mesic should first give back rights to Serbs in Croatia . Mikerevic emphasised there are three peoples who live in BiH and attempts of one of the peoples to rule over faith of others are not possible.

VL int with Croatian health Minister on position of Croats in BiH and constitutional changes	Vecernji List pg 5 'We lobby for BiH Croats in EU as well', mentioned on cover, by J. Pavkovic carries an interview with Vice President of the Croatian Government and Croatian Minister of Health Andrija Hebrang. Asked about the policy of the Croatian Government when endangering of rights of the Croat people in BiH is in question, Hebrang says that the Croatian Government gives full support to protection of the Croat people as a constituent people in BiH. Vrankic on position of Croats at pre-election rally in Citluk	Slobodna Dalmacija pg 14 'Sarajevo stopped 50 million KM for Neum', mentioned on cover, by M. Sivric – At the HDZ central pre-election rally held in Citluk, Federation of BiH Minister of Finances Dragan Vrankic stated that with the constitutional changes BiH Croats have come to the position in which they are being outvoted, expelled from schools, there is an attempt to destroy Aluminij company, Elektroprivreda of Croat Community of Herceg Bosna etc. Vrankic also said that a big international company wanted to invest 50 million KM in a hotel in Neum and the area around this town, however, the whole the FBiH institution apart from a few Croats were against it. Vrankic posed a question as to what kind of message is being sent to European integration and foreign investors in this way.

DL on PIC: 'mass-scale removals of politicians in sight?!'	Dnevni List, pg 8, 'Mass-scale removals of politicians in sight!?', mentioned on cover, by Zvonimir Jukic – DL's source close to a western European country's Embassy to BiH reveals that, during the last Peace Implementation Council Steering Board (PIC SB) session held last week in Sarajevo, there were a lot of polemics regarding the High Representative Paddy Ashdown's success in implementation of the key tasks the PIC had assigned to him when he was appointed to the position. Namely, Ashdown is said not to have fulfilled the key things, i.e. BiH's entry to Partnership for Peace and signing of Agreement on Stabilisation and Accession to the EU. DL comments that the tactics the HR applied cooperating with the leading national parties, believing they will meet conditions for the EU integration, has absolutely failed. The daily adds that the latest statements by the UK Ambassador Ian Cliff that the BiH cannot go to Europe with national parties are just another attempt to make space for Ashdown's try to re-instate dialogue with the BiH oppositions without the support of which the mentioned key tasks will be difficult to implement. He is therefore only left with an attempt to try to make an alliance with the opposition or to expect miraculous changes in his partners when it comes to implementation of key international demands for accession to integration processes. DL concludes by saying that, for all the mentioned reasons, we can expect the HR to behave in the future like a nervous politician who has nothing to lose and who will, concerned about his own political destiny, surely resort to mass-scale removals of BiH politicians. In the inset, 'Ashdown's year', DL reminds that the HR has another year at his disposal in order to try to correct something otherwise his diplomatic career will come to an end.
HR Ashdown in Livno	Dnevni Avaz pg 8 'Croat curricula still present in schools' by A.K., Vecernji List pg 2 'British support cooperation in dairy industry' by Z. Mihaljevic– The High Representative Paddy Ashdown visited Livno on Monday, where he met with municipal governor Stipe Barun discussing the reform of the municipal administration and the problems specific to this region. Ashdown also met with the representatives of political parties that will partake in the October 2 local elections, discussing municipal investments in the economy and infrastructure. On this occasion, one of the local politicians Aleksandra Djuran warned HR of the consequences of the ethnic cleansing in Livno, unconstitutional symbols in municipality and presence of Croatian curricula in schools. Later in afternoon, HR also visited the Koraci non-governmental organization, which provides care for children with special needs.

DL: population census could be organized in 2 years time	Dnevni List, pg 9, 'Census in two years', by D. Kozina – DL reports that drafting the programme of work of BiH Statistics Agency, which will be in charge of coordinating, planning and conducting the census of population and households in BiH, is underway and that the census could be organised in two years' time. According to Slavka Popovic, the Deputy Director of the Statistics Agency, the work regarding census in most countries takes between 3 and 5 years as it is the most complex and most comprehensive statistic activity that requires considerable funds and huge organisation.
DA op-ed on Hebrang's visit to BiH, Cavic's visit to Belgrade	Dnevni Avaz pg 3 'Timely turn to Belgrade and Zagreb' op-ed by Husein Orahovac – Editorial refers to Dragan Cavic's visit to Belgrade, and visit of Croatian Health Minister Andrija Hebrang to BiH, assessing these were a part of election campaign. Author says there was no doubt that Cavic would agree with Vojslav Kostunica and Boris Tadic that Dayton Peace Accord should not be changed despite the fact that such stance could prolong the BiH's admission to EU indefinitely. "However, that doesn't worry politicians from small BiH entity. Votes are the thing important to them, and they will not change already tried recipe. They are sure that by turning to Belgrade they will also turn the voters towards their political party. The same can be said when it comes to Hebrang's arrival to Herzegovina... True, both Serb and Croat politicians in BiH are entitled to 'mischief' in order to win voters' trust, i.e. power. However, they are not entitled to neglecting the interest of BiH. And that is, it seems, to be exactly what is happening in their timed turn to Belgrade and Zagreb," editorial concludes.
