New RS Presidency	report that the first one who publicly congratulated Kalinic was Milorad Dodik. Kalinic stated briefly that parties from the RS that have Bosniak and Croat representatives were welcome to join the establishment of the new government. RS dailies quote SDS Spokesman Dusan Stojicic as saying that the SDS, SDA and PDP co-operate because they have the same interests. He said that the parties, which voted for Kalinic, did not make up a parliamentary majority. Member of the SDS Main Board, Milenko Stanic, said that the SDS would form the parliamentary majority with the PDP and the SPRS, and if that was not possible the SDS would form authority with the SDA. He added that on the state level there were negotiations between the SDS and the SDA, but they had not been talking about forming authority on the RS level. Stanic said that his party expected a support from the SPRS despite the fact that the SPRS's high officials said they would not form a coalition with nationalist parties. The papers quote PDP Chairman Mladen Ivanic as denying that a parliamentary majority has been formed. He said that the most difficult period was coming, because a parliamentary majority had not been defined yet. According to him, PDP will not support either SDS or SNSD. Glas Srpski quotes Ivanic as saying that this is not a classical type of coalition that has to form a new government. Ivanic said that PDP's offer to SNSD and other parties on formation of RS government is still on.(Blic and Nacional pg.7 & 6)- Ivanic said the PDP would not form a coalition with the SDS but it would was support a candidate from the SDS for the post of the RS NA Speaker. "Prime Minister designate should be from the PDP, which could provide the parliamentary majority without the SNSD, but the participation of Dodik's party in RS Government would enable efficient function of authority in the RS. But if the SNSD does not want that, we will go our way." Tihic (quoted by Sarajevo dailies) said that it was important that Hafizovic was elected the RS NA Vice-President because the post belongs to the SDA. He noted that out of 10 Bosniaks in the Assembly six of them are SDA members. Slobodna Dalmacija back page – reports that the BiH national anthem was for the first time played in the RS NA which was followed by the RS anthem 'Boze pravde'. SD says that Adil Osmanovic, RS Vice President, and Edhem ef. Camdzic, left the session when 'Boze pravde' was played. Tihic however stated that all SDA members left the room when the RS anthem was played unlike the SBiH and SDP members.
Nazi messages in Konjevic-Polje	Nezavisne Novine pg. 3, Glas Srpski pg. 3 'There is no BiH without RS' – report that newly elected RS President Dragan Cavic and his two vice presidents Adil Osmanovic and Ivan Tomljenovic yesterday official assumed their duties. Cavic yesterday gave an inaugural speech in which he emphasised two issues – the first one is internal organisation of BiH, that is, that BiH is made up of two entities, which Cavic called one of the greatest achievements of the DPA. He said that the RS would exist as long as BiH exists. That is why he thinks that any sort of a constitutional re-organisation of BiH would be extremely dangerous. The second most important issue is BiH relation towards regional and global integration processes. Cavic also stressed the importance of the RS Army and said that the RS Army cannot be endangered by some integration initiatives, adding that some joint BiH army is not practically possible or its formation would be in line with the Constitution. Cavic said that he will nominate RS PM designate in 10 days. Oslobođenje pg. 1 & 3 – Around hundred young Serbs (on their way to a football match) wrote insulting messages on a house of Adil Osmanovic, leader of the return program in Konjevic-Polje (Bratunac municipality), and wrote insulting messages such as 'Knife, wire, Srebrenica' and 'This is Serbia'. The incident lasted for an hour and all took place in front of the local and international police officers who, as many times before, only registered the incident. According to returnees in the municipality, the security situation equals the one from 1992.
