Ashdown says salaries for judges, prosecutors must be reduced	BHT, FTV, RTRS, Oslobođenje pg 3, mentioned on cover 'Ashdown reduces salaries for judges' by M. Kavaz-Sirucic, Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'Ashdown announced reduction of salaries for judges, prosecutors' by M. Kukan, Dnevni List, pg 2, mentioned on front 'Reduction of salaries to judges and prosecutors by 16%', by E. Mackic, Vecernji List, pg 2 'Judges without astronomic salaries', mentioned on front 'Ashdown reduces salaries to judges', by Eldina Medunjanin, Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 8 'Ashdown: Salaries to judiciary ought to be reduced', by D. Pasic, Nezavisne Novine cover and pg 3 'Ashdown cut salaries of judges and prosecutors' by R. Cengic; Glas Srpske pg 3 'Salaries', ONASA – The High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, participated on Monday at the Conference on Judicial Reform in Bosnia and Herzegovina – Current Status and Future Challenges, organized by High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council of BiH (HJPC). At the Conference, he outlined a number of the achievements of the OHR in the area of judicial reform, such as, the establishment of the State Court and its special panel for Organized Crime and Corruption, the upcoming establishment of the War Crimes Chamber in the State Court and the restructuring of the prosecutors' offices. He also outlined the challenges for the future in the area of judicial reform, drawing attention to the issue of financing the judiciary and judicial salaries. He pointed out that while his predecessor increased salaries for judges and prosecutors in order to shield them from possible bribery, these increases have since continued at an unaffordable rate. "Salaries for judges and prosecutors have continued to increase by 10% a year – a total of 40% in four years! This at a time when there is a lack of adequate funding available for courts and prosecutors' offices," said the High Representative. He pointed out that 84% of total budget now represents personal costs – salaries and benefits. Only 16% of the budget is left for other running expenses – such as electricity, heating, telephones. "Many courts in both entities cannot proceed with trials because the required experts cannot be paid due to a lack of adequate funding. More than 70 % of the courts in the RS are faced with disconnection of phone or mail services," said the High Representative. "This continuous growth of salaries is clearly not sustainable and must be stopped immediately", he added. In order to create a healthy budgetary situation in the judiciary, the High Representative said that salaries must be reduced at certain court levels by up to 16% in the Federation, and up to 4 % in the RS. Such a measure would reduce the personnel costs to around 70% in line with European standards, said the High Representative. "This will enable the judiciary to operate more effectively and concentrate on dispensing justice," he noted. Judicial salaries vary. Currently average net salaries pending court level and individual years of experience are in range of 2500 up to 4000 KM per month. Proposed reductions will depend on the current salaries received.

Reactions to announcement of judges, prosecutors' salaries reduction	Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'Peric claims incomes in both entities are being harmonized' by M.K. – Commenting to the announcement by HR Paddy Ashdown that salaries of justices will decrease up to 16%, the Head of the BiH High Judicial and Prosecutorial Council Branko Peric stated this was a way to harmonize salaries of justices and prosecutors in both entities. He added that in current situation, FBIH judiciary is much better paid than their counterparts in RS, and that salaries are so big any way that one day they could take up the entire budget of judiciary. Peric concludes HJPC supports HR's initiative. BiH Justice Minister, Slobodan Kovac, says he was included in this issue but says that the reason must be missing funds. BiH Chief Prosecutor, Marinko Jurcevic, commented that "there should be a law adopted on salaries of justices and prosecutors". Dnevni List carried reactions by Judge Peric and Prosecutor Jurcevic.
DL on reduction of judicial salaries: Why difference in reduction in FBiH and RS?	Dnevni List, pg 2 'Paddy's dilemma', by Erna Mackic – Commenting on the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown's, announcement regarding the reduction of salaries to the judiciary in BiH, the author stresses that according to a press release from the OHR, the salaries in the FBiH are to be reduced by 16%, whilst the figure for the RS is 4%. This triggers the author to wonder why there is the difference in salaries reduction in the entities, especially because HR Ashdown stated that as much as 70% of courts in the RS cannot function because of overdue debts for telephone or mail services.

General Leakey for London Times: Crime is the biggest obstacle to establishment of democracy	Oslobodjenje pg 5 'BiH and SCG represent a transit for 100,000 women and children', Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Crime is the biggest obstacle to establishment of democracy', Slobodna Dalmacija pg 20 'Human trafficking is paradise for criminals in BiH' by F. The Times 'EU force to take on pimps, drug barons and smugglers' by Michael Evans, Defense Editor – Gangs dealing in prostitution and people-smuggling will find themselves in the sights of a new European Union military force when it takes over from Nato in Bosnia this week. Major-General David Leakey, the British commander who will be in charge of the 7,000-strong European Force (Eufor), told The Times that organised crime was now the main stumbling block towards creating a proper democracy in the former Yugoslav republic. Organised criminals who traffic in drugs, people and arms and are linked to political parties are also seen as the biggest obstacle to Bosnia's chances of becoming a member of the EU. There is concern that Islamic militants are using Bosnia as an arms market and a recruiting ground for terrorist campaigns in Iraq, Afghanistan and Chechnya. With the takeover by the EU of all peacekeeping functions in Bosnia this Thursday, General Leakey said that there would be a more co-ordinated attempt to rid the country of endemic corruption and tribal divisions, as well as to maintain the peace that has been guaranteed by Nato since 1995. The EU is already the biggest investor in Bosnia. "The networks of criminals pervade Bosnian society and my aim will be to provide the security environment in which the police can act against these people," General Leakey said.
Covic to be interview by Prosecutor Mattson today	Dnevni List, front pg splash and pgs 4-5 'Dragan Covic at hearing', by Nevres Dedic – Reports that Prosecutor Matts Mattson of the Special Department of the BiH Prosecution for Organized Crime and Corruption will be interviewing the Croat member of the BiH Presidency, Dragan Covic, today (Tuesday). According to Covic's lawyer, Josip Muselimovic, his client will be interviewed in connection to the 'Lijanovici' case. DL explains Covic will be interviewed in relation to violation of customs related laws for crimes committed whilst he was the FBiH Finance Minister. He allegedly freed 'Lijanovici' Company of tax duties. The last paragraph in the article, under headline 'Ashdown marks Covic', reads that ever since the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown, labelled Covic as personally responsible for blocking of enactment of laws related to processing of war crimes in BiH, diplomatic and political circles in Sarajevo are writing Covic off and beginning to speculate about his possible successor. (the hearing was also announced by Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 17, mentioned on front 'Court of BiH interviews Covic today', by Zlatko Tulic)

VL says Croats sidelined in intelligence service, Cengic's people pulling strings	Vecernji List, front pg splash 'FOSS removes Croats from espionage services', and pg 3 'FOSS removes Croats from intelligence service', by Zoran Kresic – VL carries an anonymous Croat intelligence officer as saying that "SDA and (Hasan) Cengic, in other words the wartime structure, is completely controlling the Federation intelligence-security service (FOSS), from which Croats have been removed from leading posts, and the OSA only exists of paper because the whole system is deeply divided". This leads the daily to say that despite the OBS (former RS intelligence service) and FOSS are formally unified, they still work independently. The same VL's source goes on to say that Croats almost do not know a thing about what's happening (in OSA) and that the Croat political officials are doing nothing to change the situation. As a result of it, says VL, all investigations are aimed against the Croats. The source explains: "The agency currently conducts five investigations, all of them are against the Croats and Serbs, none against the Bosniaks". The source also notes it is symptomatic that case of Hasan Cengic has been put aside. In that context, the source claims that Cengic was to be arrested back in July, adding that the Director of OSA, Almir Dzuvo, and wider collegium of FOSS, led by Adi Sijercic, take "credits" for Cengic remaining at large. Under headline 'Kocisz and Frz not happy with Dzuvo', VL reads that the supervisor of reform to intelligence sector in BiH, Kalman Kocisz, was against the appointment of Dzuvo for the director of OSA because he did not get the approval from the OHR. On the other hand, Slovenian national Drago Frz, who overlooks the unification of FOSS and OBS, believes that politics is still present in the services.
Testimony of former Al Q'Aeda's officer in BiH	Glas Srpske cover page story 'Oath taken before Osama' by N.Z. – Ali Ahmad Ali Hamad, the former officer of Al Q'Aeda and former member of EL Mujahid unit, that fought in BiH, claims in a statement to Glas Srpske that Al Q'Aeda is still operating in BiH, although many people persistently deny it, adding: "I know for certain it is so, since I was its officer. I know how leaders of AL Q'Aeda think and I know when they enter one state once, they never leave it."
Al Q'Aeda's recruits from BiH and Balkans' regions	EuroBlic cover 'Recruits of Al Q'Aeda from BiH and Kosovo' and pg 10 'Al Q'Aeda's camps in the Balkan' by Z.D.-Z.J. – It carries statement of Aleksandar Radic, military analyst, saying that the terrorist organisation of Al Q'Aeda is mainly using Balkan as recruit centre. He says this organisation has no interest in carrying out terrorist attacks here, in this region.

AFP: Foreign Islamists a concern for EU peacekeepers in Bosnia

Herceg Bosna Radio, AFP by Calin Neacsu – European peacekeepers set to replace NATO troops in Bosnia next week could come face-to-face with Al-Qaeda militants amid reports that cells linked to Osama bin Laden are operating in the Balkan country. The commander of the outgoing NATO-led peacekeeping force (SFOR), Brigadier General Steven Schook, recently told journalists his troops had monitored Islamist militants who fought alongside local Muslims in Bosnia's 1992-1995 civil war. "NATO undertakes operational supporting tasks such as counter-terrorism ... the primary mission is to continue to monitor that situation and to prevent the ability of a terrorist organisation to continue to either raise funds or exist in Bosnia," he said. The 7,000-strong NATO-led peacekeeping force in Bosnia is due to hand over peacekeeping duties to a relatively untested EU force of the same strength on December 2. Hundreds of fighters from Islamic countries, known as mujahedeen or "holy warriors", arrived illegally in Bosnia in the 1990s to boost the ranks of Muslim forces in their battles against ethnic Croats and ethnic Serbs. Under Bosnia's 1995 peace agreement they were all supposed to leave the country but some of them stayed, obtaining Bosnian citizenship either on the basis of their army service or by marrying local women. "The danger of Al-Qaeda in Bosnia comes from the fact that according to estimates some 700 to 800 fighters from Islamic countries came to Bosnia during the war," said Senad Slatina of the International Crisis Group, a Brussels-based think-tank. "In 2003 there was more action against radical Islamists than against those indicted by The Hague tribunal (for war crimes)," he added. Yossef Bodansky, the director of the Task Force on Terrorism and Unconventional Warfare of the US Congress, said in October that Al-Qaeda leader bin Laden was actively directing terrorist cells in Bosnia. "There is a terrorist network in Bosnia, composed of several well-trained and connected groups, which are directly or indirectly responsible to ... Osama Bin Laden," he was quoted as saying in a local daily. A NATO spokesman said there was "no firm evidence of any terrorist organisation either operating or training in this country". But a source close to Bosnian intelligence told AFP on condition of anonymity that Bodansky was correct. "All this information is real," he said. He said remote mountain training camps operated secretly in the Zenica region, while "radical Islamist networks, followers of Wahhabism", an ultra-orthodox branch of Sunni Islam, were reported around Bihac and Maglaj.

Dnevni List pg 8 'How did Arab soldiers get BiH citizenship?' by NINA, De.L., Vecernji List pg 2 'New type of terrorists with blue eyes come from Zenica', mentioned on front 'Terrorists with blue eyes are threatening', by bljesak.info also covered the issue.

FBiH Government discussed privatization of nationalized apartments	Herceg Bosna Radio, BHT, FTV, Oslobođenje cover page, pg 6 'Privatisation of nationalized apartments again approved', Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Changes to the privatisation laws by December 9', mentioned on cover 'Hadzipasic: It will be possible to purchase nationalized apartments', Vecernji List, pg 2 'Group for disputable privatization issues', by Dejan Jazvic, Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 17 'Faster to law on privatization', by D. Pasic, FENA – FBiH Prime Minister Ahmet Hadzipasic on Monday stated that all ministers had attended the FBiH Government session, except Defence Minister Miroslav Nikolic, who was absent due to family reasons. The ministers of the Party for BiH did not attend several previous sessions of the Government. They had requested that the Government considers the reformatory measures they were proposing, particularly in the field of privatization. "On Monday, the Government considered the Programme of urgent measures for realization of the FBiH Parliament's conclusions within the first item on the daily agenda", Hadzipasic told journalists after the session. We have analyzed each conclusion of the Parliament and defined the deadlines for realizing them, said FBiH Prime Minister, adding that this also refers to the set of laws on privatization. According to the Prime Minister, on Thursday the Government should consider the Draft FBiH Budget for 2005, the Proposal Budget Rebalance for this year, and the Law on Distribution of Public Revenue. In addition, the FBiH Government on Monday adopted the draft amendments to the Law on Privatization of Apartments. The Prime Minister regarded the proposed amendments as a "small restitution", and the Government's Public Relations Office has announced that in accordance with the proposed amendments, the holders of the occupancy rights on nationalized and confiscated apartments will also have the right to buy apartments, as the former owners will receive compensation in cash. Dnevni List, pg 3 'Nationalized apartments can be bought', mentioned on front 'Hadzipasic: We are not out of crisis yet', by Danka Polovina-Mandic – Carries FBiH Prime Minister, Ahmet Hadzipasic, as saying that his Government will be in crisis as long as BiH is not a member of the EU, perhaps even after that. "Take democratic Italy for example. They can change between ten to fifteen governments in four years, so this thing that's happening to us is nothing unusual. I do not think we are out of crisis. We have worked in a confronted atmosphere with many different positions and from outside it may look as a big government crisis. However, the third walking out and getting back of a part of ministers indicates that there is a will to make quality results and moves, especially in the area of economy". Oslobođenje pg 6 'Ministers from Party for BiH returned to Federation Government' also carried Hadipasic's statement.

Kovac on abolishment of Law on Pardons	Oslobodjenje pg 7 ‘Ashdown is an indisputable authority’, FENA – BiH Minister of Justice Slobodan Kovac thinks that the situation created after High Representative Paddy Ashdown repealed the Law on Pardons will be overcome soon. “This project was implemented in a rush. The number of cases mounted at the time and they needed to be resolved. The failure was in the fact the entire issue was not adequately discussed/harmonized with OHR”, Kovac told FENA on Monday. Kovac said the High Representative was an indisputable authority with every right to abolish laws. On November 26 Ashdown repealed the Law on Pardons. He described it as a large hole in the BiH legal system which allowed criminals to avoid justice.
OHR on pardoning Jusufovic	Dnevni Avaz pg 9 ‘Jusufovic has been pardoned and that story is finished’ by M.K. – OHR Spokesperson Mario Brkic explained that the decision of the BiH Presidency to pardon Munib Jusufovic, suspended delegate of BiH House of Reps, will not be annulled following the decision of the HR Paddy Ashdown to repeal Law on Pardons. “That decision has already been taken and that story is finished, and there cannot be retroactive application of the Law. What is going to be a further procedure with the regard to this law, it is up to domestic authorities,” added Brkic. BiH Justice Minister Slobodan Kovac stated for DA that it is still not certain whether the current law will be amended or entirely new law will be drafted. He adds that the second option is more possible, and announced the new law will be drafted together with OHR. RTRS, Nezavisne Novine pg 3 ‘BiH Presidency temporarily suspends decisions on amnesty’ by N.K. also carried OHR statement on the issue.
