Cavic: SDS officials face dilemma of choosing party or entity	FTV, RTRS, Oslobođenje pg 5 'A dilemma in SDS: party or republic' by agencies, Glas Srpske pg 5 'Severe consequences are possible' by Beta, Nezavisne Novine pg 3 'The issues of survival of RS will be raised' by Agencies, Dnevni List, pg 2 'Next period will be difficult for RS', not signed – RS President Dragan Cavic stated in Frankfurt, Germany, that there is a possibility of opening the issue of the entity's survival in the capitals around the world at the 10th anniversary of Dayton Peace Agreement. Cavic underlined that "everyone is aware of the possible difficult consequences for RS status", and denied he was in conflict with Pero Bukejlovic on police reform issue. "In some things we do differ a lot, but that is not a reason I am here," said Cavic. He added that RS is much more important than the party itself, and underlines that it would be absurd for the party to be sanctioned and than for EC principles to be satisfied: "Than, what did we do? Prime Minister and I do not look at those things the same way even though we belong to same party." Cavic concludes many in SDS have a dilemma of choosing party of the entity, but underlines that none should be sacrificed.

Novakovic: Everyone should increase activities on police reform	Oslobodjenje pg 2 'Bukejlovic and RS Government don't care about SDS' by A. Omeragic – SDS Vice President Momcilo Novakovic told Oslobodjenje he expects RS Government, SDS and others parties from RS "to increase activities in order to find solution on police reform." He did not comment what would RS Government do now that the IC has rejected its newest proposal, but denied there is a conflict inside the SDS on whether or not the three EC principles should be accepted but admits "thoughts on it differ." Novakovic further explained: "RS Government has no such kind of obligation towards the SDS as the [President Dragan Cavic does. Prime Minister Pero Bukejlovic doesn't worry much about SDS, but Cavic has to worry about the future of this party a lot." Novakovic also stresses that the "SDS has no significant influence over the Government" and strongly denies that story on conflict in SDS has been orchestrated in order to shift responsibility for police reform failure. Novakovic concludes that SDS Main Board will soon decide on whether its stance regarding police reform remains the same and on the Council of Ministers.

Speaking of latest RS Government proposal on police reform, Matijasevic says that Government took into account the fact EC principles had to be respected with respect towards Constitutions of RS and BiH, noting the aim was to preserve the constitutional position of Serbs and to advance security sector. He expresses optimism in seeing agreement reached, as well as in seeing BiH and RS head towards European integration. He notes there were no pressures during police reform, only political debates, process of conviction and polemics. On IC's advocating for IEBL crossing, Matijasevic says: "I do not view this IC principle as rational and realistic, but instead subjective and biased. Everything here is subordinated to better functioning and technique in work...This aspiration of IC is of pure technocratic nature." He did not want to reveal any information handed to Srebrenica TF, noting all data will be known after report is published. On allegations regarding eavesdropping on President Cavic, he says that denials Cavic himself and RS Government say enough about this issue. On apprehension of Radovan Karadzic and Ratko Mladic, he says that this is an international obligation of the RS MoI towards the Hague Tribunal, which needs to be responded to in a proper manner.

Criticising RS Government actions, the author notes it is encouraging that the last manoeuvre (i.e. proposal of RS Government) did not include SNSD, which has either realised inevitability of crucial police reform or conducted talks with international mediators behind curtains. He concludes by saying: "One way or the other, Bukejlovic's proposal without Dodik's verification is worth nothing."

Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'Is Covic asking for Covic's support for the third entity?', announced on cover 'Did Covic and Covic secretly meet?' by E. Sarac – No person from the top of HDZ and SDS wanted to confirm or deny the information that the leaders of these two parties, Dragan Covic and Dragan Covic respectively, secretly met in a restaurant in Banja Luka on Saturday. A source close to SDS claims, if the meeting indeed took place, Covic and Covic discussed constitutional changes since it was agreed a month ago that the two would meet at the end of September to discuss this topic. The source also claims it is quite possible that Covic is actually trying to get a support of SDS for the establishment of the third entity. A source from HDZ says it is not strange to see two politicians holding a meeting to exchange their views with regard to political matters and he added the prevailing opinion in HDZ is that Croats should have what other two peoples already do. Inset 'HDZ Spokesperson denies there was a meeting' – HDZ Spokesperson Miso Relota denied Covic and Covic met and added this information was 'pure fabrication'.

Chairman of BiH Presidency Ivo Miro Jovic supports the idea on the establishment of the third entity because, as he says, F BiH has become 'a dungeon for Croat people'. Glas Srpske pg 2 'Fed up with dungeons' not signed – also reported.
VL op-ed: Croats should be more organized	Vecernji List, pg 6 'Future of Croats in BiH is in their hands', by Friar Iko Skoko – Friar Skoko notes that if one listens to the BiH Croats, their speech seems to be without vision, they feel as if they are losing their constituent status in issues related to schooling and language. Skoko argues that the remedy is that the Croats should be working more on organizing themselves better i.e. that the ultimate responsibility rests with the Croats themselves.

Ekstra magazine:
Dragan Cavic
changes
political option

Ekstra Magazine pgs 17-19 'Americans are changing Dayton, Dragan Cavic is changing political option!' by Ekstra magazine team – The magazine notes that after rejection of police reform proposal by RS NA, Paddy Ashdown has acknowledged Dragan Cavic is no longer a trump card since he has lost support at the SDS. Furthermore, daily claims that Cavic himself was the one who informed OHR of illegal activities at SDS Doboje, which resulted in "zero tolerance" policy towards that party. Article further speculates on Cavic planning to establish a new party, which would be called New Democratic Party, through which he would get hold of a senior position at joint institution of BiH with the assistance of "his international friends". If this fails, daily notes that international mentors have ascribed him the position of the NATO Coordinator for South East Europe, owing to important role he played in adoption of defence reform. Weekly also notes in an inset "Going through biographies for the purpose of "spontaneous" persuasion" that international teams of experts have been lately engaged in activity aimed at digging out any sort of "dirty stuff" about Darko Matijasevic and Pero Bukeylovic. However, they have failed in finding anything.

BiH must present itself as a country that is not being run by Muslims, if it wishes to enter EU," reads the article.
