BK TV, RTS [Serbian TVs] – Cavic has fully supported the principles on Kosovo issue to be presented by Kostunica at UN Security Council session, emphasizing they are related to the fundamental principles of the international law, above all the principle of sovereignty and territorial integrity of the countries in the region. That must happen in the sensitive balance with the entities' authorities and RS position," Cavic. The meeting with Kostunica was also attended by the RS MoI Darko Matijasevic. RTRS, FTV – Officials stated that remaining ICTY indictees Radovan Karadzic, Ratko Mladic and Stojan Zupljanin must be extradited to the Hague as soon as possible. SNSD stated that the announcement on possible rehabilitation of SDS officials was a reward to Dragan Cavic for his cooperation in implementation of reforms. SPRS's Petar Djokic shares a similar view, while SDS and PDP welcomed the announcement of HR on rehabilitation.

Politicians' comments on forthcoming talks on constitutional changes: Serious phase beings	EuroBlic pg RS2 'Serious phase begins' by Nedeljka Breberina and Rajna Radosavljevic – According to anonymous source, leaders of BiH political parties should commence talks on constitutional changes in Brussels on November 11. PDP's Slobodan Nagradic expects the situation would be much clearer after the meeting in Brussels, as well as that it would result in amendments that would be forwarded to the parliamentary procedure. Party for BiH's Beriz Belkic reiterated that majority of participants believe the Presidency of three members should be kept while only the procedure of election of the members should be changed. SDA's Mirsad Ceman confirmed that a consensus on establishment of a body in charge of agriculture on the state level was reached, while the participants believe culture, education and healthcare should remain under the authority of entities and cantons. SDP's Jozo Krizanovic says many options are still open because the negotiators in the past had no mandate to reach any decisions. SDS's Mladen Bosic claims a serious discussion on constitutional changes is yet to follow because a group that had no authority to reach an agreement on anything participated in past talks. Inset 'No amendments' – HDZ's Mile Lasic claims there are no draft amendments to the existing BiH Constitution, but 'a certain progress was made'. He thinks amendments might be adopted in March in order to enable introducing changes to BiH Election Law. Nezavisne Novine pg 5 'Talks on abolishment of cantons' by M. Cubro – also carries the announcement on the meeting, and carries statements of SDA's Ceman and SDS's Bosic.

BN TV int with Mladen Botic on Washington talks/const. changes: VL op-ed: Croats should have their political and territorial exclusiveness	BN TV 'Puls' current affairs programme by Suzana Radjen-Todorovic – In an interview to BN TV, SDS Vice President, Mladen Botic, commented on the talks on constitutional changes focusing at those held in Washington under auspices of the US Institute for Peace. After a large number of parties accepted the offer, Botic said SD did so too under strong assurances from the former PDHR Donald Hays first there would be no pressure and nothing would be decided on without a consensus. Botic notes that Dayton Constitution is already significantly changed, for example the BiH CoM. He explains the talks focused at ways to increase administrative functionality, however the sensitive issues, such as BiH structures, two entities, asymmetric FBiH, weren't discussed. "When we put things on the table, it appeared that we can talk about some things, but it is a question how important those things are and how much this can satisfy ambitions of those who would like to see constitutional changes," he said. Commenting the proposals presented, Botic said: "Story about consensus in making constitutional changes excludes 80% of issues that different political subject would like to change." He added that, at the end, talks were brought down to the structure of Presidency, Parliament and CoM. He referred to analyse that Venice Commission published in April this year saying it clearly said RS doesn't need to be changed or abolished. "Conclusion of the Venice Commission is that, actually, functional organisation has to be created in FBiH, because large number of ministries exists in FBiH, which has a very complicated structure, comparing to simple structure in RS," said Botic. According to Botic's observation conclusions, it will be difficult for FBiH to reach agreement on this, expressing a surprise that everyone is running away from this issue. Regarding CoM, Botic also mentioned that there is initiative on transforming BiH CoM into BiH Government which has not received the support by three RS parties at these talks (SDS, SNSD, PDP). "For us, the problem would be authorities that evolve from such transformation," he said. However, he does stressed that the state Agriculture Ministry would be an issue now that BiH is to open talks on SAA. SDS agrees that the CoM needs to be extended and to include the Ministry of European Integrations. Another meeting is scheduled to take place in November 11 in Brussels.

VL op-ed: Croats should have their political and territorial exclusiveness	Vecernji List pg 2 'Equality or sidelining' by M. Bosnjak says that the time has come to talk about constitutional changes in BiH freely and openly. The author added that peoples should be allowed to agree about principles of equality. He added: 'It should be made possible for Croats to have their political and territorial exclusiveness from which they can act...Everything else would be a fear of sidelining that has been present in almost all BiH institutions at the moment.'
Feral op-ed commenting on constitutional changes proposals	Feral pgs 21-22 'How Constitution was hardened?' by I. Lovrenovic carries the author's commentary on various proposals on constitutional changes and with regard to the BiH Bishops' Conference proposal the author says that, unlike before, viewing of the whole BiH perspective prevails in this document as well as the BiH re-organization that would bring a better position to Croats in a way that the better positions would be provided to all others and the society in general. The author also says that comparing this stand with the ideas coming from the scientific gathering of Croat intellectuals held in Neum (on the same issue) this Neum gathering seemed miserable and old-fashioned. According to the author, it was obvious that intellectuals gathered in order to help Dragan Covic and Ivo Miro Jovic's HDZ.

Schilling reiterated that his extensive experience in BiH resulted with a trust between him and citizens. He assessed the criticism on his mediation in BiH as democratic adding that all allegations must be supported by evidence. Schilling refused to consider HR to BIH as a monarchic since many issues have been handed over to BiH Institutions. He stated that if elected he would decrease the powers of HR leaving state management to national institutions. "I would be more like a friend or advisor to BIH, but if someone obstructs the implementation of reforms, violates the DPA or organises corruption than I will use all powers given to HR" said Schilling. "These people suffered a lot due to political disagreement but if elected, I would serve to these people and I pray BIH citizens to trust me" concluded Schilling.

Meanwhile, SNSD refused to nominate new candidate for this position. "We expect that SDS would nominate some of their candidates, probably (RS Minister of Finance) Svetlana Cenic or Djordje Lajsic... If that happens, SNSD would not support them", stated SNSD Vice-president Krstan Simic. RTRS by Nada Arlov – Cavic still feels that Igor Davidovic is one of candidates, adding that he would insist on the consensus to be reached between 6 main RS political parties on the appointment. FTV – FTV comments that instead of working on BiH strategy for the SAA talks with EU, BiH politicians are arguing about the name of chief BiH negotiator as if it is the biggest problem BiH has. Both Ivanic and Lagumdzija claim that BiH's negotiating position should be defined first, and than it would be easy to appoint the chief BiH negotiator. Hayat, RTRS, Glas Srpske pg 2 'It turned into a farce'carry Ivanic.

Simic: SNSD most likely will not participate talks on SAA chief negotiator anymore; Pavic, Mihajlica process in wrong direction	EuroBlic RSpG 1 'Bad start to be followed by worse beginning', announced on cover 'Nobody wants to negotiate with EU' by Nedeljka Breberina – Krstan Simic is of the view SNSD will most likely not take part in talks on chief negotiator any longer, noting it would wait for nomination and than accept it or reject it. Petar Djokic, SP RS President, is of the view that "party consultations have no sense any longer and that issue about nomination of chief negotiator should be taken over by institutions where ruling parties make majority". Marko Pavic, DNS President, also said Davidovic' decision could have been expected, noting: "When we saw draft decision that EU negotiating team head should be above chief negotiator, it was then clear to us it is another pre-determined farce of Adnan Terzic and Dragan Cavic. RS President probably knows name of negotiator, while everything else is useless farce and auction with names." Milanko Mihajlica, Presidnet o SRS, also shares the view the entire process headed the wrong direction: auction with names and undetermined priorities in the entire process. Mladen Bosic, SDS Vice President, expressed regret Davidovic rejected nomination, noting RS President should select person with professional and expertise qualities for the position. He also alleges "it was agreed within SDS not to nominate anybody for chief negotiator in order not to contribute to political and party competition." According to inset 'Negotiator or ikebana', Veselin Poljasevic, Head of PDP Caucus, stated "Davidovic' rejection of candidature is a logical follow-up of something, that started in wrong direction, since PDP has been warning from the beginning the platform should have been first set and then personnel solution should have been reached." RTRS carries Mihajlica. BN TV 'Puls' current affairs programme carries Bosic commenting the current process of forming the team: "Personally, at the moment I think it does not go well."

Novakovic (SDS): Cenic would be good negotiator; Daily: her only burden war-time association w/ Nikola Koljevic	Oslobodjenje, pg 7, mentioned on front ‘Igor Davidovic withdraws candidacy for negotiator’, by A. Omeragic – Following the news that Igor Davidovic has withdrawn his candidacy to become BiH’s chief negotiator with the EU, Vice President of SDS, Momcilo Novakovic, assesses that the withdrawal could cause problems to the process of selection of the negotiator and preparations for negotiations with the EU. He also notes that the RS President, Dragan Cavic, should be talking to Davidovic one more time to see whether it is his final position. Furthermore, Novakovic says the SDS Presidency has put Svetlana Cenic in the first position, Davidovic in second and Djordje Lajsic in the third position among the candidates. He then goes on to say that if other (parties) are not ready to support Cenic, the SDS were ready to support Davidovic, adding that all the candidates are ‘equally serious’ to the SDS “however, everything depends on whom the all the parties accept, not only in the RS, but in the FBiH too”. SDS also believes that Cenic, a Cambridge post-graduate, would be a good negotiator working to the interest of BiH, however Oslobodjenje comments that she carries a burden of being a war-time associate to former RS Vice President, Nikola Koljevic, and that she has been recently labeled by the IC as an obstructionist of reforms.

NN: Cenik the most serious candidate for chief negotiator, comments on Davidovic's rejection of nomination	Nezavisne Novine pg 5 'Davidovic gave up, Cenik has biggest chances', announced on cover 'Cenik has biggest chances' by V.Popovic – Daily learns from its sources that following rejection of candidature for chief negotiator of Igor Davidovic, Svetlana Cenik, RS Finance Minister, is the most serious candidate for the position. Source claims that at this moment, Cenik has the strongest biography and is the only one, who could meet criteria to assume this position. Cenik Thursday told daily she greatly appreciates Davidovic, expressing regret aftermath of nomination process results in seeing candidates look strange at each other, noting: "Unfortunately, problem is created around every single position here, even when it is not necessary." She said she would give her view on nomination after she holds talks with RS President and RS Premier. Djordje Lajsic, former RS Minister of economy, expressed readiness to accept nomination if party leaders reach consensus on the issue. Igor Radojicic, SNSD senior official claims that "Cavic's calculation with names of candidate has resulted in seeing Davidovic give up on candidature", adding Cavic has created a confusing situation. RTRS, PINK, Glas Srpske pg 2 'Ugly calculations' – also carry Cenik's statement.
OHR urges chief negotiator's appointment	FTV by Elma Kazagic – OHR urges the nomination of the chief BiH negotiator for the upcoming SAA talks with EU. "The issue of nomination and talks should be considered as extremely important one", said OHR Spokesperson Mario Brkic .

She claims that one day, when European standards are defined, officials will have to lay accounts for all their conscious and non-conscious omissions. She concludes by saying citizens of BiH will be happy when they become a part of Europe, where system of value exists.

The Head of the ITA Department for Communications, Ratko Kovacevic, has stated that the money was not paid to RS because the republic and federation Ministries of Finances had not forwarded verified data on collected turnover taxes. The Spokesperson of RS Ministry of Finances, Radmila Mihic, has stated that ITA persistently refuses to apply the Decision on calculation of distribution coefficients, despite to the fact that RS Treasury regularly forwards it the data it needs.
