It was stressed that it is necessary to find the solutions for signing off the limited amount of debts in privatization. Hays reminded about the initiative for establishing ten economic chambers within the courts in Federation BiH and five in RS, whose personnel would be trained for economic matters – bankruptcy and implementation of decisions. So far, only three chambers have been opened, and the remaining 12 will be opened by the end of the month.

Oslobodjenje cover, pg 5 'Urgently to resolve company's debts' – "Companies in privatisation offered for one KM, while overloaded with debts that rose to millions, cannot be sold as there are no buyers interested. Therefore, resolving the debts is a key for better privatisation", said Hays also expressing dissatisfaction with the repeatedly postponed adoption of draft Bankruptcy Law. "Companies are getting more cheaper, while debts are increasing due to unpaid contributions and other obligations. The law on registered but unpaid contributions is being prepared, and together with the Bankruptcy Law implementation, it would create health and remove sick parts of the companies, which only burden its regular business," said Prime Minister Ahmet Hadzipasic.

RS social and economic issues	RTRS, Blic pg 12 'Still without signatures' – RS Trade Union announced the signing of the general contract by the end of the next week, but the RS Government stated that contract would be signed only if it is fully in accordance with RS economy politics, budget and international obligations. Representatives of the RS Association of Pensioners asked the Government to respect their previous arrangement, according to which pensions will be increased by 6%. Pensioners said that if this was not implemented, they would protest. "I serve only to the citizens' interests and [now] someone wants protests – what will be the result of that, so at this moment I am not interested in that. RS doesn't need the protests, it needs clear orientation, strategy and policies, let them say what this Government did wrong and where it made mistakes and what hasn't been done," said Dragan Mikerevic, RS Prime Minister. "It still has not been said publicly whether the project is legal or not. In addition, economic justification, being deeply responsible towards tax payers and personal responsibility for potential failure, are criteria which would lead the Government in making the decision, and not every single 'worry' by the World Bank or IMF," concludes author.
